

Department of Homeland Security

Weekly Report

May 12th, 2011

I. Reform, Efficiency, and Transparency

Efficiency Review (ER) Initiative

- In the second quarter of FY 2011, DHS avoided more than $850,000 in costs through continued implementation of the Efficiency Review initiative to replace printers, fax machines, copiers and scanners with all-in-one machines.

II. Public Affairs

Expected Stories

- On May 16th, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) Director Alejandro Mayorkas will participate in a groundbreaking ceremony for the new customer-centric USCIS field office in Tampa, FL.

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- In May, the DHS Office of Intergovernmental Affairs will send to regional and national tribal associations the new DHS Tribal Consultation Policy outlining the guiding principles under which the Department will engage with sovereign Tribal governments.
- Throughout this month, the Citizenship and Immigration Services Ombudsman is launching a new website to provide the public with resources to address issues encountered when seeking citizenship and immigration services.

Other Reports

- The week of May 16th, GAO is expected to release a report titled “FEMA: Action Needed to Improve Administration of the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP).” Background: GAO conducted a performance audit from July 2009 to February 2011, examining the extent to which FEMA’s management practices affect the administration of NFIP; lessons learned from the cancellation of NextGen (which was launched to modernize NFIP’s insurance management policy and claims management system); and limitations on FEMA’s authority that could affect its financial stability. Findings: GAO found that FEMA faces management challenges in areas that affect NFIP, including strategic and human capital planning, records management, collaboration among offices and financial and acquisition management. FEMA also faces high turnover in key management positions and weaknesses in overseeing the contractors assisting FEMA, as well as challenges in collaboration between program and support offices. Finally, FEMA lacks a records management policy and an electronic document management system. GAO concluded that FEMA has begun to address some of these challenges, including acquisition management, but more work is needed. Recommendations: GAO makes several recommendations to improve the effectiveness of FEMA’s NFIP planning and oversight efforts; ensure the completeness of policies and procedures in several key areas; and increase the usefulness and reliability of NFIP’s flood insurance policy and claims processing system. Response: FEMA is implementing a FEMA-wide electronic document management system, regularly reviewing unliquidated obligations within NFIP-related funds and establishing timelines to complete the development and implementation of FEMA’s revised acquisition process, addressing GAO recommendations.
- The week of May 23rd, GAO is expected to release a report titled “Budget Issues: Better Fee Design Would Improve Federal Protective Service’s (FPS) and Federal Agencies’ Planning and Budgeting for Security.” Background: GAO evaluated FPS’s resource levels by analyzing FPS’s fee design and proposed alternatives, as well as how FPS’s security fees pose challenges for FPS and customer agency budget formulation and execution. Findings: GAO found that since being transferred to DHS, FPS has not reviewed its fees to develop an informed fee design. GAO also found that FPS lacks a method to propose security fee rates prior to submitting its budget request and cannot finalize rates until it receives its Congressional appropriation, forcing agencies to reallocate funds to pay for unplanned countermeasures. Recommendations: GAO made six recommendations addressing the fee design issue, budgeting processes and proactive communications with stakeholders. Response: Since FPS moved to DHS's National Protection and Programs Directorate (NPPD), NPPD has focused on refining financial business processes, including fee design, and progress has been made to address many of GAO's recommendations.

Outreach/Stakeholder Meetings

- From May 14th to 18th, the Office for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties will host a regular roundtable meeting with diverse ethnic and community-based organizations and attend community meetings and an interagency town hall in Los Angeles, CA. Closed press.
- During the week of May 16th, the Science and Technology Directorate and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will conduct a blast experiment at Eglin Air Force Base, FL to test the blast response of sections from a transit tunnel which contains a newly installed mitigating material to protect the tunnel from explosions. The results of this test will be used to evaluate protective options in support of the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey and the Transportation Security Administration. Closed press.
- On May 17th, Coast Guard Commandant Robert Papp will speak to graduating students at the Army War College in Carlisle, PA. Closed press.

- On May 22nd, The San Diego Union Tribune will publish an op-ed by Customs and Border Protection Commissioner Alan Bersin regarding border security efforts.
- The week of May 23rd, the Science and Technology (S&T) Directorate Infrastructure Protection and Disaster Management Division will perform explosive testing on models of suspension bridge towers at the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Research and Development Center in Vicksburg, MS to investigate how prototype blast protection measures can be transitioned into a field-constructible mitigation tool for use in protection of landmark suspension bridges. Closed press. No public impact expected.
- On May 25th, USCIS Director Alejandro Mayorkas will announce the Citizenship Public Education and Awareness Initiative in New York, NY. The initiative is a congressionally funded program to promote the values of U.S. citizenship and the free educational resources available to eligible lawful permanent residents. On May 24th, USCIS will hold a pre-announcement event for stakeholders in Washington, D.C. (closed press).

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- From May 26th to May 31st, the Transportation Security Administration will conduct a surge operation in the mass transit and passenger rail modes to increase security measures and public vigilance in these areas over the holiday weekend.
- From June 1st to 2nd, FEMA's Ready Campaign will launch new public service advertisements to encourage small- to medium-sized business to take steps to prepare and plan in advance of an emergency to reduce the impacts on their business in the event of a disaster.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Congressional Distribution on May 20th, Web Posting on May 31st: "U.S. Coast Guard's Anti-Deficiency Act Violations for the Response Boat-Medium Major Acquisition Project for Fiscal Years 2004 Through 2009." Background: The OIG examined the Coast Guard's reported potential Anti-Deficiency Act (ADA) violations, expenditures and acquisition contract actions from 2004 to 2009 as well as the effectiveness of the Coast Guard's policies and procedures to ensure compliance with future appropriations. Findings: The OIG determined that the Coast Guard exceeded its appropriated funding for the Response Boat Medium project during fiscal years 2004 through 2009, incurring 20 Anti-Deficiency Act violations totaling approximately $7 million. Recommendations: The OIG recommended that the Coast Guard notify the Secretary of its Anti-Deficiency Act violations, identify the names of the responsible parties and revise its standard operating procedures for future acquisitions. Response: The Coast Guard concurs with both recommendations and has taken corrective action to address them. The Office of the Chief Procurement Officer, Office of the Chief Financial Officer, and the Office of Policy are working together to integrate decision making across the Department to streamline and improve the budget and acquisition processes, helping to improve the overall management of the acquisition process.
- Congressional Distribution on May 24th, Web Posting on June 2nd: "Supervision of Aliens Commensurate with Risk." Background: From March to December 2010, the OIG assessed the effectiveness of Immigration and Customs Enforcement's (ICE) decision-making process on whether to detain aliens in an ICE facility or place them in supervised release. Findings: The OIG found that ICE generally has an effective decision-making process for determining whether to detain or release aliens. In most cases, officers were able to make reasonable decisions and complied with requirements of the Immigration and Nationality Act, Supreme Court decisions and prescribed policies and procedures; but the OIG found that personnel could not always provide evidence that aliens were screened against terrorist watchlists; ICE does not have an effective policy in place to ensure that all detained aliens from specially designated countries undergo a Third Agency Check screening; and personnel did not always maintain accurate and up-to-date information in the case management system. Recommendations: The OIG made three recommendations to improve screening of aliens prior to release and the quality of data on the alien population. Response: ICE concurred with two of the recommendations and is taking steps to address them. ICE did not concur with the recommendation to revise ICE's current policy to require officers to conduct Third Agency Check screenings for all aliens from specially designated countries, as ICE does not have sufficient resources to conduct these additional screenings.

Other Reports

- On May 20th, GAO is expected to release a report titled “Controls over Contractor Payments for the Secure Border Initiative Technology Component Need Improvement.” Background: GAO assessed Customs and Border Protection's (CBP) controls over payments to the prime contractor under the original SBI<sub>net</sub> program and the prime contractor's reporting against small business subcontracting goals. Findings: GAO found that CBP's preventative controls over payments to the prime contractor were not fully effective. In light of the DHS announcement that it is replacing the SBI<sub>net</sub> program with a new border security technology plan, GAO's findings can serve as lessons learned to be considered in implementing the new plan. Recommendations: GAO makes five recommendations to improve CBP controls over prime contractor payments. Response: In January 2011, Secretary Napolitano directed CBP to end SBI<sub>net</sub> as originally conceived and implement a new border security technology plan that will utilize existing, proven technology tailored to the distinct terrain and population density of each border region. CBP intends to acquire all the technologies in the new plan through full and open competition, and will move toward fixed price contracts for technologies instead of the cost reimbursement contracts that were used for SBI<sub>net</sub>.

Outreach/Stakeholder Meetings

Closed press. No new announcements.

IV. Legislative Issues

Congressional Testimony

House Homeland Security Committee

- On June 1st, Under Secretary for Intelligence and Analysis Caryn Wagner will testify on her role as the DHS Chief Intelligence Officer and chair of the Homeland Security Intelligence Council.

House Judiciary Committee

- On June 16th, Secretary Napolitano will testify on immigration and Southwest border issues.

House Homeland Security Committee, Subcommittee on Transportation Security

- On May 25th, Transportation Security Administration (TSA) Deputy Administrator Gale Rossides and Assistant Administrators Robert Bray, John Sammon, and Lee Kair will testify on the TSA reauthorization bill. The witnesses will provide a general overview of TSA's recent operations as the Committee has not shared the language of the bill with DHS or TSA.

House Homeland Security Committee, Subcommittee on Cybersecurity, Infrastructure Protection and Security Technologies

- On May 26th, Science and Technology Directorate (S&T) Acting Deputy Under Secretary Paul Benda will testify on the SAFETY Act, which provides incentives for the development and deployment of anti-terrorism technologies by providing liability protections for vendors of qualified anti-terrorism technologies.

House Homeland Security Committee, Subcommittee on Border and Maritime Security

- On June 14th, Coast Guard Commandant Robert Papp will testify on the Coast Guard's maritime security capabilities.

House Judiciary Committee, Subcommittee on Immigration Policy and Enforcement

- On May 24th, Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) Enforcement and Removal Operations Executive Associate Director Gary Mead will testify on the impact of Zadvydas v. Davis on ICE operations. Prior to the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in Zadvydas, aliens subject to final orders of removal from the United States could potentially be detained indefinitely if they posed a threat to the community or posed flight risks. After Zadvydas, many aliens with final orders of removal may no longer be detained beyond a period of six months if there is no significant likelihood of removal in the reasonably foreseeable future.

House Transportation and Infrastructure Committee, Subcommittee on Coast Guard and Maritime Transportation

- On May 24th, Coast Guard Prevention Policy Director Rear Admiral Kevin Cook and Calvin Lederer, Deputy Judge Advocate General of the Coast Guard, will testify on the Coast Guard's regulatory program.

Service to protect federal facilities and authorize the activities of the Interagency Security Committee, an interagency body created by Executive Order and headed by the National Protection and Programs Directorate's Office of Infrastructure Protection that develops federal facility security standards. The DHS Office of Legislative Affairs does not expect the bill to progress in this Congress.

V. Legal Issues

Litigation

- United States v. Escamilla-Rojas, No. 10-10185 (9th Cir.): On May 12th, the Ninth Circuit affirmed illegal entry convictions under 8 U.S.C. § 1325 for Escamilla and three other defendants, who had all pled guilty during an "Operation Streamline" (OSL) proceeding, a procedure that the District of Arizona (Tucson) has adopted for taking illegal entry pleas en masse. At an OSL proceeding, a magistrate judge presides over a group hearing of fifty to seventy defendants charged with illegal entry violations, collectively advises them of their rights and questions them individually about their pleas. Escamilla and the three other defendants challenged the proceeding on due process grounds under the Fifth Amendment, right to counsel grounds under the Sixth Amendment, and Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 11, which requires that the court personally address defendants. The Ninth Circuit rejected these arguments and upheld the convictions. With regard to the Rule 11 challenge, the Ninth Circuit explained that the process of collective advisement followed by individual questioning is generally sufficient to determine "personally" that each defendant understands his or her rights before pleading. The court noted, however, that because Escamilla was questioned two hours after the court's initial advisement of rights, she may have "found it difficult to recall" the full advisement. After concluding that this error was harmless because it did not affect her substantial rights, the court nevertheless upheld Escamilla's conviction.

Rules and Regulations

- On May 19th, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) will publish in the Federal Register the USCIS Notice, "Extension and Redesignation of Haiti for TPS," which announces that the Secretary of Homeland Security is both extending the existing designation of Haiti for TPS for 18 months from July 23, 2011 through January 22, 2013, and redesignating Haiti for TPS for 18 months, effective July 23, 2011 through January 22, 2013. The extension allows current eligible TPS beneficiaries to retain their TPS through January 22, 2013 and the redesignation of Haiti allows additional individuals who have been continuously residing in the United States since January 12, 2011, to obtain TPS, if eligible, including certain Haitians who arrived in the United States following the January 12, 2010 earthquake in Haiti.
- On May 19th, Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) will publish in the Federal Register the ICE Notice, "Extension of Employment Authorization for Haitian F-1 Nonimmigrant Students Experiencing Severe Economic Hardship as a Direct Result of the January 12, 2010 Earthquake in Haiti," which informs the public of the extension of an earlier notice, which suspended certain regulatory requirements for F-1 nonimmigrant students whose country of citizenship is Haiti and who are experiencing severe economic hardship as a direct result of the January 12, 2010 earthquake.
- On May 23rd, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) will publish in the Federal Register the USCIS Notice, "Re-registration Procedures for TPS Beneficiaries Under the Extended TPS Designation of Haiti & Automatic Extension of Employment Authorization Documentation for Haitian TPS Beneficiaries," which announces the opening of the 90-day re-registration period for individuals who were granted TPS under the original designation of Haiti for TPS and whose initial TPS applications were approved on or before the date the notice is published.

III. Public Affairs

Expected Stories

- On May 24th, Customs and Border Protection (CBP) issued a press release announcing the availability of the Small Vessel Reporting System—expediting the reporting process for international boaters by allowing them to pre-register with CBP rather than report for inspection upon arrival in the U.S.

- On May 25th, The Associated Press interviewed U.S. Coast Guard Commandant Robert Papp regarding the Coast Guard's polar icebreaking missions aboard the polar icebreaking Cutter Healy in Seattle, WA. Positive tone expected.
- On June 2nd, FEMA Deputy Administrator for Protection and National Preparedness Tim Manning will participate in interviews in Washington, D.C. to promote FEMA's Ready Business Campaign, which encourages small- to medium-sized businesses to take steps to prepare and plan in advance of an emergency to reduce the impacts on their businesses in the event of a disaster.

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- Beginning June 1st, the Commonwealth of Virginia will require that all state executive branch agencies use E-Verify to check new hires. Virginia had originally announced a deadline of December 1, 2012. E-Verify is U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services' free Web-based system that allows employers to check the employment eligibility of new hires online.
- On June 1st, the National Protection and Programs Directorate's Office of Cybersecurity and Communications will issue a press release announcing the final draft of its strategy on Domain Name Resolution Services. This strategy will inform the information technology community of how the Domain Name Resolution Service – the system that converts Internet Protocol (IP) addresses into common names like web addresses - can improve engagement and the sharing of risk mitigation techniques across the security and critical information technology infrastructure communities.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Congressional Distribution on May 31st, Web Posting on June 8th: “Assessment of FEMA’s Fraud Prevention Efforts.” Background: From September 2010 to January 2011, the OIG performed an inspection of FEMA's Fraud Prevention and Investigation Branch (FP&IB) to assess whether it identified and reported to Inspector General officials potentially fraudulent disaster payments; enhanced internal management controls to prevent fraud, waste and abuse; and prevented fraudulent losses of federal funds through agency awareness, comprehensive research, coordination and internal investigation. Findings: While FEMA has improved its internal controls since hurricanes Katrina and Rita, the OIG identified improvements in internal controls to deter fraud and reduce the risk of issuing improper payments. The OIG concluded that increasing the visibility of the FP&IB and mandating fraud prevention training for all employees will help FEMA with fraud prevention and deterrence. Recommendations: The OIG made a total of 9 recommendations to improve FEMA's fraud prevention efforts. Response: FEMA has conducted a review of its FP&IB staffing levels and plans to increase On-Call Reserve Employee staffing levels by 50 percent in FY 2011, and by another 50 percent in FY 2012, addressing an OIG recommendation. Additionally, the Office of the Chief Security Officer is collaborating with FEMA's Emergency Management Institute to implement an agency-wide web based employee training program on Fraud Prevention Awareness, addressing another OIG recommendation.

Other Reports

- On May 27th, GAO is expected to release a classified report on the Transportation Security Administration's (TSA) checked baggage explosives detection efforts and is expected to release an unclassified version at a later date. Background: In 2009, GAO began looking at TSA's Electronic Baggage Screening Program to determine if TSA's checked baggage screening equipment meets enhanced explosive detection requirements. Findings: GAO found that TSA has not updated the software on the vast majority of its Explosive Detection Systems (EDS) since 1998. Response: TSA uses robust technologies, including EDS and Explosive Trace Detection (ETD) technology to screen 100 percent of checked baggage on passenger aircraft. The standard currently in use by the majority of EDS units in U.S. airports, referenced in the report as the “1998 standard,” provides the most stringent level of checked baggage security in the world. TSA continues to update its standards with new EDS machines purchased through the Recovery Act and as other appropriations are available.

Outreach/Stakeholder Meetings

- From May 27th to June 1st, FEMA Associate Administrator for Response and Recovery Bill Carwile is traveling to Sendai and Tokyo, Japan to tour the region impacted by the recent earthquake and tsunami and deliver remarks to representatives from the United Nations and the World Bank on lessons learned in recovering from past disasters in the U.S. Press TBD.

Legislative Issues

- On May 19th, Senators Joe Lieberman and John McCain introduced a bill to strengthen the communications capabilities of America's first responders by reallocating the "D Block" communications spectrum to public safety. DHS expects that the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee will use this bill to work with the Senate Commerce Committee and align various topics, including a role for DHS. The resulting Senate bill is expected to be used as a starting point for the legislation to move through the House.

- On May 24th, the House Appropriations Committee passed its FY 2012 DHS Appropriations Bill. The bill includes $41.6 billion in net discretionary appropriations, which includes $1 billion in emergency funds for the Disaster Relief Fund. After subtracting the emergency funds, the bill is $3 billion below the President's FY 2012 funding request for DHS. The bill will be considered on the House Floor on June 1st and 2nd and DHS expects multiple amendments to be proposed, potentially altering provisions of the bill. No action is expected in the Senate until late June or early July.

V. Legal Issues

Litigation

- Judicial Watch, Inc., v. DHS (District of Columbia; Judge Robert L. Wilkins), On April 29th, an organizational plaintiff filed a FOIA complaint in the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia against the Department, claiming constructive denial of its FOIA request seeking documents relating to correspondence between U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services Director Alejandro Mayorkas and David Shahoulian from December 3, 2010 to February 3, 2011, including e-mails exchanged on personal accounts if the exchanges include references to agency regulations or policy issues. The bill includes $41.6 billion in net discretionary appropriations, which includes $1 billion in emergency funds for the Disaster Relief Fund. Amendments that have passed will transfer $320 million from Departmental management and operations, further cutting a segment of the budget that has already taken numerous cuts and realized many efficiencies, to cover cuts in other areas. DHS expects the bill to pass but does not expect movement in the Senate until the week of June 27th or July 11th.

VI. Legal Issues

Litigation

- National Immigration Project v. DHS, No. 11-3235 (S.D.N.Y.): On May 12th, the National Immigration Project, the ACLU Foundation, the Immigrant Defense Project, the Post-Deportation Human Rights Project and the NYU Immigrant Rights Clinic filed a complaint against DHS, several DHS components, the Department of Justice and the Department of State, alleging that these agencies have inadequately responded to FOIA requests for materials concerning their policies and practices of facilitating the return to the U.S. of individuals who successfully challenge their removal orders from outside the country.
- Mathews v. Swacina, No. 10-20014 (S.D. Fla.), No. 11-11126 (11th Cir.): On May 25th, the Acting Solicitor General approved the Government's appeal recommendation, and the Department of Justice filed its opening brief appealing the district court's decision. Specifically, the district court had granted Plaintiff's motion for summary judgment in this case challenging a U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services district director's decision to deny a visa petition filed on Plaintiff's behalf by her adopted father because she was adopted after her sixteenth birthday and thus did not fit the definition of child under 8 U.S.C. § 1101(b)(1)(E).
- Corbett v. United States, No. 10-24106 (S.D. Fla., 11th Cir.): On May 27th, the plaintiff filed a notice of appeal in the Eleventh Circuit. He seeks to challenge the Transportation Security Administration's (TSA) use of Advanced Imaging Technology (AIT) as a primary means of airport screening based on the Fourth Amendment's protection against unlawful searches. On April 29th, the district court dismissed Plaintiff's action for lack of subject matter jurisdiction under 49 U.S.C. § 46110, which provides that challenges to TSA orders must be brought in the federal courts of appeals in the first instance. This is the first AIT case in which a plaintiff has sought appeal of the district court's dismissal.
- Judicial Watch v. DHS (D.D.C. 11-CV-606): On May 26th, DHS produced 736 pages and Immigration and Customs Enforcement produced 479 pages of responsive records to the Plaintiffs. On March 23rd, Plaintiff filed a complaint claiming constructive denial pertaining to their request for records relating to the following: 1) any and all records of communications between DHS and any of the following entities, concerning "deferred action" or "parole" to suspend removal proceedings against a particular individual or group of individuals for a specific timeframe, as well as records of communications concerning "selective reprieve" to the segment of the population holding expired visas: The White House; The Executive Office of the President; and any third parties; and 2) any and all DHS internal communications concerning changes to existing policies and practices regarding "deferred action or parole," and "selective reprieves."

Rules and Regulations

- On May 31st, DHS submitted to OMB the Immigration and Customs Enforcement Notice of Suspension of Applicability of Certain Requirements, "Employment Authorization for Libyan F-1 Nonimmigrant Students Experiencing Severe Economic Hardship as a Direct Result of Civil Unrest in Libya Since February 2011." This Notice informs the public of the suspension of certain regulatory requirements for F-

1 nonimmigrant students whose country of citizenship is Libya and who are experiencing severe economic hardship as a direct result of the civil unrest in Libya since February 2011. DHS is taking action to provide relief to these F-1 students so they may obtain employment authorization, work an increased number of hours while school is in session and reduce their course load while continuing to maintain their F-1 student status. F-1 students who are granted employment authorization by means of this notice will be deemed to be engaged in a “full course of study” for the duration of their employment authorization, provided that they satisfy the minimum course load requirement described in this notice.

Oversight and Investigations

- On June 3rd, DHS will make a fifth production of approximately 500 pages of responsive material to the House Oversight and Government Reform, Subcommittee on National Security, Homeland Defense and Foreign Operation’s investigation into the effectiveness, privacy and health concerns surrounding Advanced Imaging Technology units.
- On June 3rd, DHS expects to make a third production of 27 pages to the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations’ inquiry into expenditures of U.S. funds related to U.S. efforts in Afghanistan pertaining to an individual named Sher Khan Farnood. On May 27th, Senators Tom Coburn and Carl Levin sent DHS a letter requesting unredacted versions of certain customs and immigration documents that DHS had redacted at the request of other agencies. The Office of General Counsel is currently developing a response in coordination with the other relevant agencies.
- On June 3rd, DHS expects to make a first production in response to the request for information from Chairman Jason Chaffetz of the House Oversight and Government Reform Committee, Subcommittee on National Security, Homeland Defense, and Foreign Operations, pertaining to pat down procedures for minors at U.S. airport security checkpoints.
- On June 3rd, DHS expects to make a first production of documents in response to the House Oversight and Government Reform Committee’s Subcommittee on National Security, Homeland Defense, and Foreign Operations request for situational reports and daily activity reports related to Custom and Border Protection’s Tucson Sector, Casa Grande station.
- On June 3rd, DHS will produce several hundred pages of documents in response to Chairman Darrell Issa of the House Oversight and Government Reform Committee’s investigation into the Department’s FOIA procedures. To date, DHS has produced more than 5,000 pages to the Committee.

FOIA Requests

- On May 12th, Jason Smathers, a blogger with MuckRock in Somerville, MA, requested from the U.S. Secret Service (USSS) copies of records of Twitter messages that the USSS considers a threat against the President of the United States created between January 20, 2009 and the present.
- On May 18th, Aidan Monaghan, an individual in Las Vegas, NV, requested from the U.S. Secret Service (USSS) records related to USSS protectee activity regarding events at the so-called “Bilderberg” conference at the Westfields Marriott in Chantilly, VA, from June 5, 2008 through June 8, 2008, including such records specifically regarding the activity of then Senators Hillary Clinton and Barack Obama.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Congressional distribution on June 17th, Web Posting on June 27th: "Management Oversight and Additional Automated Capabilities Needed to Improve Intelligence Information Sharing."
Background: From August 2010 to February 2011, the OIG assessed the processes, IT systems and other mechanisms used by DHS and its components to share intelligence and threat information in order to determine whether DHS has established effective Department-wide processes and information systems.
Findings: The OIG found that DHS has taken actions to create an environment and infrastructure necessary to facilitate intelligence information sharing, but the Office of Intelligence and Analysis (I&A) can further improve the Department's intelligence information sharing capabilities to ensure that components have the relevant data, policies and information systems to perform their missions. Recommendations: The OIG makes five recommendations, including that I&A provide additional management oversight to improve the effectiveness of the intelligence information sharing process. Response: One of DHS's top priorities is to encourage effective information sharing across the Department and its Components, as well as state, local, and tribal law enforcement, in order to provide front-line personnel with the tools they need to do their jobs and keep America safe. DHS concurs with the recommendations and is working to implement them.
- Congressional distribution on June 21st, Web Posting on June 29th: "Planning, Management, and Systems Issues Hinder DHS's Efforts to Protect Cyberspace and the Nation's Cyber Infrastructure."
Background: From September 2010 to January 2011, the OIG assessed the National Protection and Programs Directorate's (NPPD) progress in implementing the actions and recommendations outlined in The National Strategy to Secure Cyberspace (Strategy), the National Infrastructure Protection Plan (NIPP), and the Comprehensive National Cybersecurity Initiative (CNCI). The report also included assessments of security controls on systems containing critical cyber infrastructure information. Findings: The OIG found that NPPD's Office of Cyber Security and Communication (CS&C) needs a strategic implementation plan in order to prioritize its key activities and evaluate its progress in accomplishing its mission and goals outlined in the Strategy, NIPP and CNCI. The OIG stated that once responsibilities, priorities, and goals are defined, CS&C will be able to develop objective, quantifiable performance criteria and metrics to evaluate its progress and better support DHS's efforts to secure cyberspace and protect critical infrastructure and key resources. Recommendations: The OIG makes ten recommendations to build on NPPD's progress in developing a strategic implementation plan and ensuring that critical infrastructure information is properly safeguarded. Response: DHS works with industry and National Laboratories as well as state, local, and tribal governments through concerted outreach efforts and awareness activities to prepare for, prevent, and respond to cyber incidents, and is working to address the OIG's recommendations.

Department of Homeland Security

Weekly Report

June 23rd, 2011

I. Reform, Efficiency, and Transparency

Efficiency Review (ER) Initiative

- To date, DHS has identified more than $6 million in cost avoidances through continued implementation of the Efficiency Review initiative to utilize federal facilities for conferences, meetings and trainings instead of renting private space.

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- On June 29th, the Citizenship and Immigration Services Ombudsman's Office will submit the Ombudsman's annual report to Congress. The report outlines immigration-related challenges that immigrants, families, and employers face, specifically focusing on customer service, adjudications, and systems and processes. No press expected.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- On June 24th, the Office of Inspector General (OIG) is expected to release a report titled, "DHS Grants Use for Mitigating Risks to Amtrak Rail Stations." Background: From September 2010 to February 2011, the OIG assessed whether DHS ensures that recipients of Transit Security Grants (TSGP) use funds to mitigate high-priority security vulnerabilities at Amtrak rail stations and whether they coordinate risk mitigation projects to prevent duplication of grant funds. Findings: The OIG found that grant recipients do coordinate risk mitigation projects to prevent duplication, but also found that Amtrak does not always use grant funds to implement mitigation strategies at highest risk rail stations reported in risk assessments. Recommendations: The OIG makes two recommendations to improve the Transportation Security Administration's (TSA) assistance to Amtrak for mitigating known vulnerabilities at high-risk rail stations. Response: The new TSGP framework announced in the fiscal year 2011 grant guidance makes TSGP a wholly competitive grant program by prioritizing funding to those assets and activities that are most effective at addressing risk. Additionally, TSA began a Baseline Assessment for Security Enhancement review, a comprehensive security assessment that implements and sustains baseline security measures in the surface transportation sector for the entire Amtrak system in March 2011, addressing an OIG recommendation.
- During the week of July 4th, the Office of Inspector General (OIG) is expected to release a report titled, "Use of DHS Purchase Cards." Background: The OIG assessed whether DHS has internal controls in place to ensure that purchase cards are used for their intended purpose. Findings: The OIG found that DHS generally had an effective internal control framework, but needs to improve specific internal control procedures to mitigate the inherent risks associated with purchase card use. Recommendations: The OIG made three recommendations to improve DHS's internal controls and oversights of its purchase card program. Response: DHS takes its responsibility to limit fraud, waste, and abuse in the purchase card program very seriously and has taken many steps to increase oversight and accountability of the program. The Office of the Chief Financial Officer continues to improve its assessment of key controls within the purchase card program and will continue to provide enhanced oversight to prevent fraud, waste, and abuse, addressing an OIG recommendation.

Outreach/Stakeholder Meetings

- From June 24th to July 1st, Immigration and Customs Enforcement will activate Secure Communities technology in six local law enforcement agencies in Kansas and Ohio.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Congressional distribution on July 18th, Web Posting on July 26th: “Efficacy of Customs and Border Protection’s Bonding Process.” Background: This report is the second in a series of audits conducted by the OIG to address Senator Chuck Grassley’s concerns that there are deficiencies in Customs and Border Protection’s (CBP) revenue collection program. Findings: The OIG found that CBP has strong controls over continuous bonds to collect revenue, but does not have adequate controls over the single transaction bond process. The OIG found that approximately $8 billion out of $12 billion in single transaction bonds for importer/broker entries accepted by CBP in fiscal year 2009 contain errors that may result in non-collection. Recommendations: The OIG made four recommendations that CBP strengthen its oversight and controls over the single transaction bond program and create a risk-based bonding methodology to improve revenue collection. Response: CBP concurs with the recommendations and has already begun to implement recommended changes to address the OIG’s recommendations.

Other Reports

- On July 14th, GAO will release a report entitled “DHS Science and Technology: Additional Steps Needed to Ensure Test and Evaluation Requirements Are Met.” Background: GAO assessed the extent to which DHS’s Science and Technology Directorate’s (S&T) oversees the testing and evaluation of major acquisitions and what challenges, if any, S&T officials report in overseeing testing and evaluation across

~~*NOT FOR PUBLIC DISTRIBUTION***~~

DHS components. Findings: GAO found that both S&T and DHS as a whole have begun initiatives to address some challenges regarding testing and evaluation oversight, including the establishment of a testing and evaluation council to provide training and disseminate best practices to program managers.

Recommendations: GAO made three recommendations to ensure that testing and evaluation requirements are met and recommended that S&T arrange for an independent assessment of the Advanced Spectroscopic Portal (ASP) program to determine whether the program should be approved for purchase and implementation. Response: As GAO notes, DHS has made significant progress in enhancing its acquisition process. As GAO found, S&T met oversight requirements for approving test plans and test reports for 100 percent of the major acquisition programs reviewed. The ASP program is currently under review.

OIG Reports

- Congressional distribution on August 11th, Web Posting on August 19th: “Transportation Security Administration Improvements in Wireless Network Configuration.” Background: From November 2010 to April 2011, the OIG assessed the Transportation Security Administration’s (TSA) implementation of effective controls to ensure that sensitive information processed by its wireless networks and devices is protected from potential exploits. The report addresses risk mitigating policies and procedures for wireless networks and devices as well as physical security controls, configuration, and certification of wireless networks in accordance with applicable DHS and Federal Information Security Management Act requirements. Findings: The OIG found that TSA has implemented effective physical and logical security controls to protect its wireless network and devices. However, high-risk vulnerabilities involving TSA’s patch and configuration controls exist and improvements are needed to enhance security of wireless components to comply with applicable law and better protect against risks, threats, and exploits. Recommendations: The OIG makes four recommendations to mitigate technical vulnerabilities. Response: TSA is working to improve effective controls to protect sensitive information from potential exploits as processed by wireless networks and devices including laptops and mobile devices at TSA headquarters as well as the Federal Air Marshal Service.

Other Reports

- On August 15th, GAO is expected to release a report titled, “Federal Protective Service: Progress Made but Improved Schedule and Cost Estimate Needed to Complete Transition.” Background: From October 2010 to July 2011, GAO assessed the National Protection and Programs Directorate’s (NPPD) Federal Protective Service’s (FPS) progress in completing the transition from Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) to NPPD. The report focused on identifying the challenges as well as the costs and sources of funding associated with the transition. Findings: GAO found that the transfer of FPS from ICE to NPPD is close to completion and has unified the security of the government facilities sector into a single component, which enables DHS to provide comprehensive infrastructure security. Recommendations: GAO makes two recommendations to address the challenges and delays in completing the transition of FPS to NPPD including improvements to long-term human capital planning and data collections as well as developing performance measures for various operations. Response: Since taking operational control of FPS in October 2009, NPPD and other DHS components have assumed responsibility for 13 of 18 FPS mission-support functions and plan to transfer four additional functions by end of the fiscal year with full integration targeted for October 2012.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Congressional distribution on August 18th, Web Posting on August 24th: "DHS/U.S. Secret Service FY 2009 Anti-deficiency Act Violation." Background: From July to November 2010, the OIG assessed the United States Secret Service's (USSS) budget execution activities related to presidential candidate nominee protection during the 2008 presidential campaign. The audit focused primarily on the employees responsible for an FY 2009 Anti-Deficiency Act (ADA) violation reported in GAO-10-762 and whether the employees willfully violated the law. Findings: The OIG found that USSS obligated more than 10% in excess of available appropriations to cover a presidential candidate protection budget shortfall before submitting a reprogramming request to DHS for congressional approval. Since component agencies are required to submit such requests to DHS before any reprogramming decisions are made, the request was not submitted before the funds were obligated; therefore, the funds USSS obligated to cover costs in excess of appropriations were not legally available. Recommendations: The OIG makes three recommendations including development of corrective action plans and improvement of financial management controls, which the Department agreed with and is in the process of implementing. Response: The 2009 violation of the ADA occurred in the context of an unprecedented level of protection required for the 2008 Presidential campaign and 2009 Inauguration. DHS agreed to look for funding to address this shortfall, but ultimately no additional funds were available. Since USSS did not exceed its overall budget authority, there was ultimately no excess disbursement of funds and no need for a deficiency appropriation to correct the ADA violation. Additionally, DHS is improving its policies and procedures to ensure that information related to potential future shortfalls are identified for appropriate action.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Congressional distribution on August 25th, Web Posting on September 2nd: "Effectiveness and Costs of FEMA's Disaster Housing Assistance Program." Background: The OIG examined the efficacy of the Disaster Housing Assistance Programs (DHAP), a joint initiative between FEMA and the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) established through interagency agreements (IAAs). Findings:

The OIG found that the IAAs did not require HUD to report to FEMA any information about the effectiveness of case management services, and that HUD collected insufficient data to determine if the DHAP was cost-effective. The absence of data prevented FEMA from comparing the DHAP with other disaster housing options. The OIG also found that the program had administration fees which accounted for 30 to 35 percent of the total program cost. Recommendations: The OIG recommended a cost-benefit analysis of DHAP to determine if its continued use is advisable. If DHAP programs are to be continued, the OIG recommended increased FEMA oversight, reporting requirements on cost and program effectiveness and an evaluation of administrative fees. Response: FEMA and HUD are developing an IAA which would increase the frequency of reports and ensure the inclusion of specific program and financial data. The new IAA will contain a new administrative fee structure. FEMA continues to work with HUD and many other partners to develop the National Disaster Recovery Framework (NDRF). When finalized, the NDRF will provide guidance that enables effective recovery support to disaster-impacted states, tribes and local jurisdictions, to include outlining responsibilities for addressing both pre- and post-disaster housing issues.

V. Legal Issues

- Judicial Watch v. U.S. Secret Service (District of Columbia; District Judge Beryl A. Howell), On August 17th, the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia issued a decision granting partial summary judgment to plaintiffs and denying summary judgment for defendants. In this lawsuit, the government watchdog organization Judicial Watch filed a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) complaint against the U.S. Secret Service (USSS), challenging the USSS' response to a FOIA request seeking "[a]ll official visitor logs and/or other records concerning visits made to the White House from January 20, 2009 to the present." The USSS denied the response citing the fact that the records sought were presidential records subject to disclosure under the Presidential Records Act, rather than agency records subject to FOIA, and the USSS referred the matter to White House Counsel's Office. Judicial Watch filed an administrative appeal, which was denied. This lawsuit followed. In its decision, the district court concluded that the records at issue are agency records subject to FOIA and not presidential records. In reaching its decision, the district court considered a number of factors, including with respect to the creation of the records and the control of the records. The district court's conclusion is consistent with a prior 2007 decision of the same court, which was vacated on other grounds following appeal. USSS is discussing with the Department of Justice and the White House Counsel's Office the possibility of appeal.

Rules and Regulations

- On August 29th, the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) Transformation Final Rule will be published in the Federal Register. DHS is amending its regulations to enable USCIS to migrate from a paper file-based, non-integrated systems environment to an electronic customer-focused, centralized case management environment for benefit processing. This transformation process will allow USCIS to streamline benefit processing, eliminate the capture and processing of redundant data, and reduce the number of and automate its forms. This transformation process will be a phased multi-year initiative to restructure USCIS business processes and related information technology systems. This rule is non-significant under Executive Order 12866; as such, OMB did not review this rule.

Oversight and Investigations

- During the week of August 22nd, DHS will begin preparing a full year of draft, final and cancelled Homeland Intelligence Reports for Senators Carl Levin and Tom Coburn, per their request as part of their investigation relating to Fusion Centers.
- During the week of August 22nd, DHS continues to collect arrival and departure records, Customs and Declarations Forms, and US VISIT records from Customs and Border Protection in response to the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations' inquiry.

- For additional information about response and recovery efforts supported by the entire federal family, go to <http://www.fema.gov/news/newsrelease.fema?id=57532>.

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- During the week of September 5th, the U.S. Coast Guard (USCG) and Bureau of Ocean Energy Management, Regulation and Enforcement (BOEMRE) will publicly release the final report of Joint Investigation Team that examined the explosion and sinking of the Deepwater Horizon Mobile Offshore Drilling Unit. The report will include the USCG Commandant's Final Action on the already public recommendations made by the JIT as well as previously un-released findings from BOEMRE. In addition, the Federal On-Scene Coordinators' (FOOSC) Report to the National Response Team (NRT), which narrates the oil spill response efforts, will be released at the same time. Tentative plans for the release include notifications to Deepwater Horizon next of kin, local and state officials, congressional staffs and interested partner agencies. In addition a joint press release will be issued by the JIT with links to the full JIT report. The FOOSC report will be posted on the NRT website. This release was originally scheduled to occur in July.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Congressional distribution on September 2nd, Web Posting on September 21st: "Review of Costs Invoiced by the City of San Francisco Relating to the Terminal 2 Checked Baggage Screening Project at San Francisco International Airport." (RECOVERY ACT PROJECT) Background: The Transportation Security Administration (TSA) agreed to provide Recovery Act funds of $15,346,800 to the City of San Francisco to modify Terminal 2 of the San Francisco International Airport to support installation of a Checked Baggage Inspection System. The OIG audited $12,837,196 invoiced under the agreement to determine whether the costs were allowable, allocable, and reasonable according to the funding agreement and applicable federal requirements. Findings: The OIG questioned costs of $303,474 (2 percent of total funding) invoiced for construction management because they were not adequately supported by the accounting records. Recommendations: The OIG recommends that TSA review City of San Francisco purchases to ensure that the City complied with the requirement to buy American goods. Response: TSA concurred with the recommendations and is taking action to resolve these matters. Additionally, San Francisco Airport provided the OIG with documentation showing that approximately 99.7 percent of all equipment and material components used were made in America. TSA's Office of Acquisition has developed a checklist to assist acquisition workforce staff is assessing and monitoring Recovery Act recipient compliance.

- Congressional distribution on September 7th, Web Posting on September 15th: “The U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services’ (USCIS) Adjudication of Petitions for Nonimmigrant Workers.” Background: The OIG examined the training of Immigration Services Officers (ISOs) at the two USCIS service centers which process and review I-129 petitions for H-1B and H-2B visas. H-1B and H-2B visas allow employers to request permission to bring foreign individuals to the United States temporarily to perform services or labor, or to receive training. Findings: The OIG found that although all ISOs received the same basic training course, local on-the-job training at the two service centers varied considerably and was not updated annually. Recommendations: The OIG recommended the development of a national, post-basic fraud identification and response training program to standardize ISO training. Response: USCIS is currently developing post-basic fraud courses to provide ISOs with the necessary skills to identify current fraud trends and make informed determinations when identifying fraud. Once these post-basic fraud courses are fully developed and implemented, they will be offered annually for all ISOs and supervisors responsible for H-1B and H-2B adjudications.
- Congressional distribution on September 8th, Web Posting on September 16th (Note: This report was originally going to be issued on August 1st and was held): “Use of American Recovery and Reinvestment Act Funds by U.S. Customs and Border Protection for Construction of Land Ports of Entry.” Background: The OIG initiated this audit to review the efficacy of U.S. Customs and Border Protection's (CBP) administration of American Recovery and Reinvestment Act funds for land ports of entry. Following a letter from Senator Bryon Dorgan expressing concern about the cost of new port construction on the northern border, OIG revised their objective to focus on CBP's approach to altering and constructing land ports of entry on the northern border. Findings: The OIG found that some features in standard port designs, specifically the outbound inspection facilities and fitness room, were not supported by operational requirements and did not fully justify the basis for the size of the port design selected for certain locations. Additionally, CBP is building three new ports and repairing one port at locations that the respective field offices previously recommended for closure. Recommendations: The OIG recommended that CBP reevaluate its design selections for five ports and reevaluate the modernization approach for five ports that it ranked high for potential closure and determine whether they should be repaired, rebuilt, or closed. Response: CBP non-concurs with both recommendations. CBP began the process of modernizing these ports of entry in the August 2009, expediting projects to comply with the timeline set forth in the Recovery Act for all funding to be obligated by September 30, 2010. The OIG began its inspection of the Northern border ports of entry in July 2010 and provided its recommendations to CBP in July 2011. By July 2011, two Recovery Act land ports of entry have already been built and 28 others are currently under construction – with 17 ports in the final stages. In order to comply with the OIG recommendations, which CBP does not believe are operationally justified or feasible, CBP would need to demolish newly built structures and modify building contracts, incurring significant costs

- On September 7th, GAO is expected to release a report in conjunction with their hearing on the Hill entitled “Department of Homeland Security: Progress Made and Work Remaining In Implementing Homeland Security Missions Ten Years After 9/11.” Background: GAO looked at what progress DHS has made in implementing its mission functions since it began operations; what work, if any, remains; and what cross-cutting and management issues have affected DHS's implementation efforts. Findings: GAO concluded that while DHS has made significant strides, it has yet to reach its full potential, particularly in further transforming the Department into a more integrated and effective organization. Recommendations: The report looks back at previous GAO and OIG recommendations and contains no new recommendations. Response: The Department concurs with GAO's conclusion that "Eight years after its establishment and 10 years after the September 11, 2001, terrorist attacks, DHS has indeed made significant strides in protecting the nation ..." As described in the DHS progress report on fulfilling 9/11 Commission recommendations, released by Secretary Napolitano in July 2011, America is a stronger, safer and more resilient country because of the work DHS and our many partners do every day. While DHS appreciates GAO's work documenting the progress the Department has made in enhancing the nation's security and the challenges that still exist, as GAO states, the report "does not address . . . all of DHS's homeland security-related activities and efforts."

V. Legal Issues

Litigation

- Kebe v. Napolitano (Southern District of Indiana; District Judge Jane Magnus-Stinson, Magistrate Judge Denise K. LaRue): On August 17th, the plaintiff filed a putative class action lawsuit in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Indiana against U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) alleging that he had unfairly become subjected to ineligibility for adjustment of status pursuant to Immigration and Nationality Act (INA) § 212(a)(9)(B), which renders inadmissible certain unlawfully present aliens, after he traveled outside the United States on an advance parole document issued by USCIS. The plaintiff seeks to certify as a class "[a]ll beneficiaries of immediate relative petitions who seek adjustment of status after traveling abroad on a valid travel document issued by [USCIS] . . . and whose adjustment has been denied because of USCIS's determination that such individuals are inadmissible under INA 212(a)(9)(B)." Plaintiff seeks to enjoin defendants from removing him and all class members, and he seeks a writ of mandamus compelling defendants to reopen his adjustment application. The Government will have 60 days from the date of service to file a responsive pleading.

Rules and Regulations

- During the week of September 5th, DHS expects the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: “Special Immigrant Juvenile Petitions” will be published in the Federal Register. DHS proposes to amend its regulations governing the Special Immigrant Juvenile (SIJ) classification, and related applications for adjustment of status to permanent resident. The Secretary may grant SIJ classification to aliens whose reunification with one or both parents is not viable due to abuse, neglect, abandonment, or a similar basis found under State law. This proposed rule would require a petitioner to be under the age of 21 only at the time of filing for SIJ classification. This proposed rule would require that juvenile court dependency be in effect at the time of filing for SIJ classification and continue through the time of adjudication, unless the age of the juvenile prevents such continued dependency. Aliens granted SIJ classification are eligible immediately to apply for adjustment of status to that of permanent resident.
- On September 7th, the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services Final Rule: “Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands (CNMI) Transitional Worker Classification” will be published in the Federal Register. On October 27, 2009, DHS published an interim rule creating a new, temporary, CNMI-only transitional worker classification (CW classification) in accordance with title VII of the Consolidated Natural Resources Act of 2008. The CW classification is intended to provide for an orderly transition from the CNMI permit system to the U.S. Federal immigration system under the immigration laws of the United States, including the Immigration and Nationality Act. This final rule implements the CW classification and establishes that a CW transitional worker is an alien worker who is ineligible for another classification under the INA and who performs services or labor for an employer in the CNMI during the five-year transition period. CNMI employers may now petition for such workers. The rule also establishes employment authorization incident to CW status.

Oversight and Investigations

- On September 2nd, DHS expects to make a 12th production in response to the House Oversight and Government Reform Committee, Subcommittee on National Security, Homeland Defense and Foreign Operations’ investigation into Advanced Imaging Technology units.
- On September 2nd, DHS expects to produce information received from FEMA in response to Senator Tom Coburn’s request for information pertaining to the awarding of funds or benefits to individuals whose income exceeds $1 million per year.
- In addition to these requests, DHS continues to collect documents responsive to requests on the following topics: the Transportation Security Administration’s formal complaint process; the Department’s FOIA process; the release of SSI to unauthorized individuals, fusion centers, customs and immigration records regarding an individual, and airport perimeter security.

III. Public Affairs

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Congressional Distribution on September 14th, Public Distribution on September 22nd: “FEMA’s Contracting Officer’s Technical Representative Program.” Background: The OIG assessed the effectiveness of FEMA’s efforts to improve its contracting officer’s technical representative program which is responsible for monitoring technical performance of contracts and report potential and actual problems to the contracting officer. Findings: The OIG found that FEMA has made great strides in improving the program, but challenges remain. The OIG states that many contracting officer’s technical representatives are inexperienced and many times untrained task monitors are monitoring contracts in place of more experienced and trained officers. Further, the OIG finds that FEMA lacks a surge capacity that would allow them to quickly deploy experienced and trained contracting officers following a major disaster. Recommendations: The OIG makes eight recommendations to improve the contracting officer’s technical representative program and to better sustain agency operations during a disaster. Response: To improve oversight of the program, FEMA is developing formal policy regarding the use of the Contractor Performance Assessment Reporting System by the end of 2011, addressing an OIG recommendation.

Among the significant provisions in the draft bill is: the designation of the Assistant Secretary for International Affairs as a Presidentially Appointed position; the termination of the Office of Counternarcotics Enforcement; the establishment of an Infrastructure Protection and Resilience Directorate; the establishment of an Office of Terrorist Travel Programs; a provision calling for the strengthening of Departmental management processes through the development of a strategic plan and professional career program for DHS's acquisition program; and a requirement that the Secretary of State, in cooperation with the Secretary of Homeland Security deploy an electronic system to notify airlines of the cancellation of a traveler's visa for entry to the U.S. DHS is currently assessing the provisions of the bill.

V. Legal Issues

Oversight and Investigations

- On September 6th, DHS made a 12th production consisting of draft, final, and cancelled Homeland Intelligence Reports for Senators Carl Levin and Tom Coburn, per their request as part of their investigation relating to Fusion Centers.
- On September 9th, DHS expects to make a 12th production in response to the House Oversight and Government Reform Committee, Subcommittee on National Security, Homeland Defense and Foreign Operations' investigation into Advanced Imaging Technology units.
- On September 9th, DHS expects to produce information from FEMA in response to Senator Tom Coburn's request for information pertaining to the awarding of funds or benefits to individuals whose income exceeds $1 million per year.
- In addition to these requests, DHS continues to collect documents responsive to requests on the following topics: the Transportation Security Administration's formal complaint process; the Department's FOIA process; the release of SSI to unauthorized individuals, customs and immigration records regarding an individual, and airport perimeter security.

Rules and Regulations

- On September 1st, DHS submitted to OMB the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) Notice: Extension of the Designation of Sudan for TPS & Automatic Extension of Employment Authorization Documentation for Sudanese Temporary Protected Status (TPS) Beneficiaries. This Notice announces that the Secretary of Homeland Security has extended the designation of Sudan for TPS for 18 months from its current expiration date of November 2, 2011 through May 2, 2013. The Secretary has determined that an extension is warranted because the conditions in Sudan that prompted the TPS designation continue to be met. There continues to be a substantial, but temporary, disruption of living conditions in Sudan based upon ongoing armed conflict and extraordinary and temporary conditions in that country that prevent Sudanese who now have TPS from returning in safety. This Notice also sets forth procedures necessary for nationals of Sudan (or aliens having no nationality who last habitually resided in Sudan) with TPS to re-register and to apply for an extension of their Employment Authorization Documents with USCIS.
- On September 1st, DHS submitted to OMB the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services Notice: Designation of Republic of South Sudan for Temporary Protected Status (TPS). This Notice announces that the Secretary of Homeland Security has designated the Republic of South Sudan for TPS for a period of 18 months, effective November 3, 2011 through May 2, 2013. Under section 244(b)(1) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA), the Secretary is authorized to grant TPS to eligible nationals of designated foreign states or parts of such states (or to eligible aliens having no nationality who last habitually resided in such states) upon finding that such states are experiencing ongoing armed conflict, environmental disaster, or other extraordinary and temporary conditions that prevent nationals from returning safely.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Congressional Distribution on September 27th, Public Posting on October 5th: "DHS Risk Assessment Efforts in the Dams Sector." Background: The OIG assessed whether the Office of Infrastructure Protection and other DHS components have taken steps to assess risk at the most critical dam assets. Findings: The OIG found that DHS lacks assurance that risk assessments were conducted and that security risks associated with critical dam assets were identified and mitigated due to lack of statutory authorities. Recommendations: The OIG recommends that DHS look at the feasibility of a legislative proposal to establish regulatory authority for the critical dams sector similar to what exists for the chemical sector. Specifically, DHS personnel need authority to review risk assessments, conduct inspections when assessments are deficient and make recommendations for corrective actions. Response: NPPD is working with stakeholders from industry and government to determine the best course of action for a legislative proposal to address any critical gaps, fulfilling the OIG recommendation.

Other Reports

- During the week of September 26th, GAO is expected to release a report entitled "Information Security: Weaknesses Continue Amid New Federal Efforts to Implement Requirements." Background: GAO assessed the adequacy and effectiveness of 24 agencies' information security policies and practices as well as their implementation of the Federal Information Security Management Act of 2002 (FISMA). Findings: OMB assigned the operational aspects of many of its FISMA-related responsibilities to DHS and OMB found that DHS has taken many steps to fulfill these responsibilities. Recommendations: GAO made one recommendation to OMB to provide performance targets and metrics to agencies and inspectors general. Response: As GAO notes, DHS has taken many steps to improve the cybersecurity posture of federal agencies, including convening the representatives from the 24 major agencies and the launch of "CyberStat" review sessions to help ensure agency leadership is held accountable for improved cybersecurity capabilities. DHS will continue to support its federal agency partners as they improve their cybersecurity posture.
- On September 30th, GAO is expected to release a report entitled "Streamlining Government: Key Practices from Select Efficiency Initiatives Should be Shared Government-Wide." Background: GAO looked at selected initiatives that federal departments (including DHS) are implementing to achieve efficiencies and identified key practices associated with implementing these initiatives that can be applied more broadly across the federal government. Findings: GAO highlighted DHS's Efficiency Review and found that DHS is taking steps to institutionalize the efficiency improvements resulting from the Efficiency Review. Recommendations: GAO recommended that OMB share key practices for implementing efficiency initiatives that they identified in their report. Response: In March 2009, Secretary Napolitano launched the Department-wide Efficiency Review (ER), which has changed the way DHS does business by streamlining operations and fostering a culture of greater transparency, accountability, and fiscal discipline. To date, DHS ER has launched 36 initiatives designed to reduce costs, improve communication, and streamline processes. DHS ER develops initiatives based on employee input, including ideas submitted to the President's Securing Americans' Value and Efficiency (SAVE) award competition, and successful initiatives implemented at the Component level. DHS has identified more than $2.5 billion in cost avoidances through the ER, as well as other cost-saving initiatives.

Litigation

- Khalid v. Holder, No. 10-60373 (5th Circuit): On September 8th, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit ruled against the Government's interpretation of a statutory provision of the Child Status Protection Act, instead finding that the statute's language was unambiguous and did not support the precedential interpretation from the Board of Immigration Appeals. In so ruling, the Fifth Circuit created a direct circuit split — with the Second and Ninth Circuits — on the proper interpretation of the statutory language concerning whether derivative beneficiaries retain a priority date when they "age out" of eligibility and a new visa petition is filed based on another preference category. U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Service and DHS's Office of General Counsel are currently exploring with the Department of Justice whether to seek further review of the Fifth Circuit's adverse decision.

Oversight and Investigations

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Congressional distribution on October 6th, Web Posting on October 17th: “United States Coast Guard’s Internal Controls and Cost Capturing for the Deepwater Horizon Oil Spill.” Background: The OIG audit investigated the strengths and weaknesses on the United States Coast Guard’s (USCG) ability to identify and capture costs associated with the BP Deepwater Horizon Oil Spill. Findings: The OIG found that the USCG has adequate policies, procedures, and internal controls to accurately identify and bill direct costs for the oil spill, but that the unprecedented size of the spill challenged the processes for capturing indirect costs. The USCG defines direct costs as those charged directly against the Oil Spill Liability Trust Fund, and indirect costs as those it incurs for USCG assets operating in support of the response. Recommendations: The OIG offers three recommendations to improve the internal controls, processes, and systems to accurately capture and bill all allowable costs associated with future oil spills, and USCG concurs with the recommendations. Response: As the OIG recognized, USCG has adequate policies, procedures, and internal controls to accurately identify and bill direct costs for events such as the Deepwater Horizon response efforts. The USCG will continue to identify and capture costs as well as issue bills to the responsible parties for all recoverable costs.
- Congressional distribution on October 7th, Web Posting on October 18th: “Evaluation of DHS’ Information Security Program for Fiscal Year 2011.” Background: The OIG examined DHS’s information security program and practices and their compliance with the requirements of the Federal Information Security Management Act (FISMA). To aid in managing its security program, the Chief Information Security Officer (CISO) developed the Fiscal Year 2011 DHS Information Security Performance Plan to enhance the Department’s information security program. Findings: The report found that while the performance plan helped improve security, components were not fully satisfying DHS’s information security policies, had not implemented all baseline configurations and did not complete continuous monitoring as required. Recommendations: The OIG recommends further review processes and controls to ensure information security systems (specifically plans of action and milestones are complete, current, authorized and in compliance with DHS baseline configuration requirements. Response: In January 2011, the Chief Information Security Officer (CISO) issued and implemented the IT Security Continuous Monitoring Strategy: An Enterprise View v1.0 to better meet OMB and National Institute for Standards and Technology guidance, addressing an OIG recommendation. In addition, the Information Security Office’s process is being further improved to ensure that all systems are complete and current, addressing an OIG recommendation.
- Congressional distribution on October 7th, Web Posting on October 18th: “Improving FEMA’s Individual Assistance - Technical Assistance Contracts.” Background: This OIG report investigates the efficacy of FEMA's management of Individual Assistance, Technical Assistance Contracts (IA-TACs) and acquisition functions, including policies and procedures for awarding individual task orders, monitoring contractor readiness and performance, and certifying contractor billing. Recommendations: The report recommends improvements in contract file documentation and better management oversight, including the prompt implementation of corrective actions to prevent fraud, waste, and abuse. Response: FEMA is committed to constantly improving its services to disaster survivors and over the past few years, has worked diligently to improve the IA-TAC contracts through such steps as the elimination of post-disaster competitions among contractors in order to streamline the process and reduce costs.

- Congressional distribution on October 7th, Web Posting on October 18th: “Security Issues with U.S. Customs and Border Protection's Enterprise Wireless Infrastructure.” Background: This OIG report examined CBP Enterprise Wireless Infrastructure (EWI) to determine whether the EWI networks and devices have sufficient security controls. Findings: The OIG credits CBP for the progress made in improving EWI security controls, including publishing policy and implementation guidance for its wireless security program and establishing sufficient wireless security configurations to protect against commonly known security vulnerabilities. However, the OIG has recommended additional steps CBP should consider taking to further strengthen EWI security. Recommendations: The OIG recommends CBP (1) remediate its current plans of action and milestones in a timely manner, (2) enable and monitor the wireless intrusion detection systems to protect its network, and (3) perform regular vulnerability assessments to identify vulnerabilities and evaluate the effectiveness of existing wireless security controls. Response: CBP concurs with the OIG recommendations and is currently addressing them.
- Congressional distribution on October 11th, Web Posting on October 19th: “Review of the Department of Homeland Security's Capability to Share Cyber Threat Information.” Background: From December 2010 to June 2011, the OIG assessed the Department of Homeland Security's (DHS) capability to share cyber threat information among its federal, state, local, and tribal governments and private sector partners. Findings: The OIG found that DHS has taken actions to create an environment to promote cyber threat information sharing in support of its mission, but can further strengthen its public-private partnership to ensure better communication with government and sector coordinating councils and the private sector's Information Sharing and Analysis Centers (ISAC). Recommendations: The OIG makes three recommendations to DHS to improve coordination and communication of cyber threat information in addition to providing DHS with the appropriate enforcement authority to mitigate security incidents. Response: DHS has taken significant steps to foster and enhance cyber threat information sharing among federal and private sector partners and continues to improve information sharing and mitigation strategies including customer satisfaction surveys, memoranda of agreement, and outreach initiatives to ensure that stakeholders are appropriately informed.
- Congressional distribution on October 6th, Web Posting on October 17th: “The Performance of the 287(g) Agreements Report FY 2011 Update.” Background: This report summarizes OIG fieldwork that was conducted between April and June of 2011 and is the third update on the performance of 287(g) agreements, which delegate federal immigration enforcement authorities to state and local law enforcement agencies. Findings: The OIG identified the need for more comprehensive training, better inspection tools and increased supervision of the 287(g) Inspections Unit. Recommendations: The OIG made 13 recommendations to improve 287(g) Inspections Unit processes, increase the certainty of MOA requirements, speed the delivery of inspection reports to field offices and resolve unobligated funding issues. Response: ICE concurs with 12 of the 13 recommendations made in the OIG report and has already taken steps to improve the areas discussed in the report, including planning and development of on-the-job training for inspection teams, updating training resources for inspection teams, and revised and standardized MOA language.

V. Legal Issues

Litigation

- United States v. Alabama, No. 11-2746, --- F. Supp. 2d ---, 2011 WL 4469942, (N.D. Ala.): On September 28th, the United States District Court for the Northern District of Alabama (Chief District Judge Sharon Lovelace Blackburn) granted in part and denied in part the United States' motion for a preliminary injunction, which sought to enjoin ten specific provisions of Alabama's recently-passed immigration law, House Bill 56 ("HB 56"). The district court granted the motion and enjoined four provisions in HB 56 – sections 11 (criminalizing the solicitation of work), 13 (criminalizing alien harboring and transport), 16 (prohibiting employer tax deductions for wages paid to unlawfully present aliens), and 17 (creating a civil cause of action against certain employers of unlawfully present aliens). The court denied the motion, and did not enjoin six other provisions – sections 10 (creating a criminal misdemeanor for failure to comply with alien registration requirements), 12 (requiring law enforcement officers to make immigration status verifications during certain stops and arrests), 18 (requiring immigration status verification for individuals arrested for driving without a license), 27 (providing that contracts with unlawfully present aliens are unenforceable), 28 (requiring the collection of immigration information during public school enrollment), and 30 (prohibiting unlawfully present aliens from entering into business transactions with the state). On September 30th, the United States filed a notice of appeal and a motion to enjoin Alabama from enforcing those six sections pending adjudication of an appeal.

Rules and Regulations

- On October 3rd, DHS submitted the Customs and Border Protection (CBP) Global Entry Program Final Rule to OMB. This final rule adopts, with some changes, a proposed rule that CBP published in the Federal Register on Nov 19, 2009. This rule establishes an international trusted traveler program called Global Entry, a voluntary program that allows CBP to expedite clearance of pre-approved, low-risk air travelers arriving in the United States. This final rule establishes Global Entry as an ongoing voluntary regulatory program.

Rules and Regulations

- On October 13th, the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) Notice entitled: "Extension of the Designation of Sudan for TPS & Automatic Extension of Employment Authorization Documentation for Sudanese Temporary Protected Status (TPS) Beneficiaries" will publish in the Federal Register. This Notice announces that the Secretary of Homeland Security (Secretary) has extended the designation of Sudan for TPS for 18 months from its current expiration date of November 2, 2011 through May 2, 2013. The Secretary has determined that an extension is warranted because the conditions in Sudan that prompted the TPS designation continue to be met. There continues to be a substantial, but temporary, disruption of living conditions in Sudan based upon ongoing armed conflict and extraordinary and temporary conditions in that country that prevent Sudanese who now have TPS from returning in safety. This Notice also sets forth procedures necessary for nationals of Sudan (or aliens having no nationality who last habitually resided in Sudan) with TPS to re-register and to apply for an extension of their Employment Authorization Documents with USCIS.
- On October 13th, the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) Notice entitled: "Designation of the Republic of South Sudan for Temporary Protected Status (TPS)" will publish in the Federal Register. This Notice announces that the Secretary of Homeland Security (Secretary) has designated the Republic of South Sudan (South Sudan) for TPS for a period of 18 months, effective November 3, 2011 through May 2, 2013. Under section 244(b)(1) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA), the Secretary is authorized to grant TPS to eligible nationals of designated foreign states or parts of such states (or to eligible aliens having no nationality who last habitually resided in such states) upon finding that such states are experiencing ongoing armed conflict, environmental disaster, or other extraordinary and temporary conditions that prevent nationals from returning safely.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Congressional distribution on December 8, Web Posting on December 16: "DHS Detainee Removals and Reliance on Assurances." Background: From September to November 2010, the OIG conducted a review of the Department's role in obtaining, validating and monitoring the diplomatic assurances of humane treatment of persons transferred to another country from August 2009- August 2010. Findings: During the reporting period, DHS did not seek or obtain assurances or remove any alien based on assurances; therefore, OIG focused its review on DHS's process for obtaining and validating assurances. Recommendations: While the OIG report does not contain recommendations, the OIG said the Department's assurances process may lack sufficient internal guidance and controls and, as a result, the OIG was not able to assess the steps DHS has taken to improve its assurances process or collaboration with the Department of State. Response: As the report indicates, DHS did not seek or obtain assurances or remove any alien based on assurances during the reporting period. The Department is committed to an assurances process that is appropriately transparent and carries substantial procedural safeguards.

Litigation

- American Immigration Council v. DHS and U.S. Customs & Border Protection (District of Columbia; Judge James E. Boasberg), On November 8, the organization American Immigration Counsel filed a lawsuit in the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia against U.S. Customs & Border Protection (CBP) challenging CBP's response to a Freedom for Information Act (FOIA) request. Plaintiff's FOIA request sought records relating to attorneys' actions on behalf of clients who are interacting with CBP. Plaintiff alleges it is seeking this information because "CBP officers have prevented attorneys from accompanying their clients during inspection, limited the scope of representation, refused to accept supporting documentation proffered by attorneys, and actively dissuaded noncitizens from hiring attorneys." Plaintiff also alleges that "CBP's policies on access to counsel are difficult to ascertain and are arbitrarily applied." Absent an extension, the Government's responsive pleading will be due in 30 day.

- Reichle v. Howards* (U.S. Supreme Court), On December 5, the Supreme Court of the United States granted a writ of certiorari in this case. The case stems from an incident in which U.S. Secret Service agents (USSS) who were guarding then-Vice President Cheney on a trip to Colorado arrested an individual who had approached and allegedly touched the Vice President. The individual who was arrested filed suit against certain USSS agents in their individual capacity claiming the arrest was in retaliation for him exercising his First Amendment rights because the USSS agents overheard him telling someone on his phone that he was going to ask the Vice President how many kids he had killed that day. The Tenth Circuit ruled that the plaintiff could proceed with his lawsuit against the USSS agents, holding that even though the USSS agents had probable cause to arrest the plaintiff, that fact did not prevent the plaintiff from bringing his claim for retaliatory arrest. The Tenth Circuit's decision is at odds with other circuits that have ruled the existence of probable cause for an arrest precludes a claim for retaliatory arrest. Although the USSS agents are represented by private counsel, the Government did file a brief in support of a grant of certiorari here. The next stage of the case is briefing on the merits before the Supreme Court, and it is likely that the Government will file another brief addressing the merits.
- American Airlines, Inc. v. Transp. Security Admin., et al.*, No. 10-1418 (D.C. Cir.): On December 6, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit granted American Airlines' (American) petition for review and ordered that the Transportation Security Administration's (TSA) decision to deny reimbursement to American for a $30 million project to install a baggage security system at John F. Kennedy International Airport project be vacated, and the case remanded for further proceedings. TSA argued that it had discretion to prioritize airport security projects based on risk and other security factors, and was therefore entitled to assign a lower funding priority to completed projects, like American's Terminal 8 project, than to those designed to address unmet needs. The court of appeals held that while deference was due to TSA's policy determinations, the agency acted arbitrarily and capriciously because it either did not make a prioritization list as required by the 9/11 Commission Act of 2007, or acted arbitrarily and capriciously in deviating from the prioritization list by denying American's reimbursement request without providing a sufficient rationale on the record for doing so.

Rules and Regulations

- On December 12, FEMA will publish a Notice in the Federal Register for public comment which proposes a revised procedure for the analysis and mapping of non-accredited levees on FEMA's Flood Insurance Rate Maps in response to initial public feedback.

- Congressional Distribution: December 28, Web Posting: January 6. "FEMA's Process for Tracking Public Assistance Insurance Requirements." Background: The OIG assessed the strengths and weaknesses of FEMA's process for tracking Public Assistance insurance requirements and issued six recommendations designed to improve the management and oversight of this process. This review covers Public Assistance for 'Category E' work, which includes facilities owned by state, tribal, and local governments, as well as private nonprofit organizations. Findings: Noting that some Public Assistance recipients do not comply with the requirement to obtain and maintain insurance, the OIG says that current Public Assistance monitoring may not be sufficient to ensure that Public Assistance recipients do not receive financial aid for damages that are, or should be, covered by insurance. Recommendations: The OIG recommends several changes to FEMA's automated insurance data tracking systems, increased oversight of insurance reviews, and completion of the rulemaking process initiated in 2000 and issuance of a final rule that resolves the longstanding problems with Public Assistance insurance regulations. Response: FEMA concur or partially concur with all of the OIG's six recommendations and has taken several steps to address the OIG's concerns, including engaging with regional personnel to conduct a new review process designed to streamline the insurance review process; implementing quality controls at two stages of project review to ensure that all pertinent insurance information is entered correctly into insurance databases; and examining its Public Assistance insurance regulations and evaluating necessary changes in an attempt to complete the rulemaking process initiated in 2000.

- Expected Congressional Distribution: December 30, Expected Web Posting: January 9. "The Preparedness Directorate's Anti-Deficiency Act Violations for Fiscal Year 2006." Background: The OIG report assesses whether the Preparedness Directorate violated the Anti-Deficiency Act (ADA) when it used program appropriations to pay for crosscutting services such as training, facilities enhancements, and business office operations of mutual benefit to internal components and offices in FY 2006. Findings: The OIG found that the Directorate did violate the ADA and recommends that the current National Protection and Programs Directorate (NPPD) conduct reviews of its shared services transactions from FY 2007 to 2010 to identify and report any ADA violations for those years. The OIG found that 21 ADA violations occurred, totaling $28.3 million due to the use of program funds to support Management and Administration costs. The OIG recognized that due to the fact that the Preparedness Directorate only existed for slightly more than a year, producing documentation and rationale for decisions made at the time was difficult for NPPD personnel. Response: NPPD has taken many corrective actions to prevent recurrence of the actions identified in the OIG report and to ensure compliance with appropriations law and financial regulations and is committed to continuing to strengthen internal controls.

Other Reports

- On December 28, GAO is expected to release a report titled "Critical Infrastructure Protection: Cybersecurity Guidance Available, but More Can be Done to Promote Its Use." Background: From October 2010 to October 2011, GAO assessed DHS's efforts to protect cyber critical infrastructure while disseminating and promoting cybersecurity guidance across all critical infrastructure sectors. Recommendations: GAO makes one recommendation for DHS, in collaboration with the sector-specific agencies and industry partners, to determine whether it is appropriate to have key cybersecurity guidance listed in sector plans. Response: A wide variety of cybersecurity guidance is available to owners and operators of our nation's cyber-reliant critical infrastructure. Leading this effort for the federal government, DHS and its public and private sector partners jointly developed and are implementing the National Infrastructure Protection Plan (NIPP), providing a unifying structure for integrating current and future critical infrastructure protection and resilience efforts. DHS will continue to work with its partners under through the Critical Infrastructure Partnership Advisory Council, in accordance with the NIPP framework, to determine whether it is appropriate to have cybersecurity guidance drafted for each sector.

Weekly Report

January 26, 2012

I. Reform, Efficiency, and Transparency

Efficiency Review (ER) Initiative

- To date, DHS has identified more than $335 million in cost avoidances through Component-led efforts to reduce training costs by converting instructor-led trainings to online courses, reducing reliance on training vendors by developing courses in-house, and aligning training needs to agency priorities.

Expected Stories

- On January 24, the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) announced that Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport will join the TSA Pre✓™ program and on January 31 New York's JFK International Airport will join the program. TSA Pre✓™ pre-screens individuals who volunteer information about themselves prior to flying in order to expedite the process for lower-risk, known travelers whenever possible.

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- The week of January 30, the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) expects to publish the DHS Language Access plan, as required under Executive Order 13166, Improving Access to Services for Persons with Limited English Proficiency, (August 11, 2000), which describes the Department's resources and strategies for providing meaningful access to DHS programs and activities to people with limited English proficiency.
- On January 30, the Coast Guard will release revision 6 of the Maritime Security Directive 104-6 that will remove Sri Lanka and add the Gulf of Guinea to the list of High Risk Water Areas. This Directive only applies to U.S. flagged vessels subject to the Maritime Transportation Security Act on international voyages through or in designated high risk waters, and provides additional counter-piracy guidance and mandatory measures for these vessels operating in these areas where acts of piracy and armed robbery against ships are prevalent.
- By January 31, as part of its broader cargo security initiative, the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) will release the conversion of the Certified Cargo Standard Security Program regulatory vehicle to participating shippers in accordance with the Air Cargo Final Rule, which will permit shippers to screen air cargo following strict facility, process, personnel and chain of custody requirements to support the 100 percent screening requirements of the 9/11 Act for cargo transported on passenger aircraft. TSA will also update Air Cargo Standard Security programs for passenger and all-cargo airlines with a planned effective date of June 2012 that will provide for 100 percent screening of inbound passenger air cargo by the end of 2012.
- On February 2, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement will post the Transfer Directive, issued on January 4, on their website. This Directive establishes new prioritized transfer determinations that are meant to minimize, to the extent possible, detainee transfers outside the area of responsibility and to generate cost savings.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Congressional Distribution on January 30, Web Posting on February 7: "The Preparedness Directorate's Anti-Deficiency Act Violations for Fiscal Year 2006 Shared Service Administrative Assessments." Background: The OIG report assesses whether the Preparedness Directorate violated the Anti-Deficiency Act (ADA) when it used program appropriations to pay for crosscutting services such as training, facilities enhancements, and business office operations of mutual benefit to internal components and offices in FY 2006. Findings: The OIG found that the Directorate did violate the ADA in FY 2006 and found that 21 violations occurred totaling $28.3 million due to the use of program funds to support Management and Administration costs. Recommendations: The OIG recommends that the current National Protection and Programs Directorate (NPPD) conduct reviews of its shared services transactions from FY 2007 to 2010 to identify and report any ADA violations for those years. Response: NPPD has taken many corrective actions to prevent recurrence of the actions identified in the OIG report and to ensure compliance with appropriations law and financial regulations and is committed to continuing to strengthen internal controls.

- Congressional Distribution on February 1, Web Posting on February 9: “Allegations of Misconduct and Illegal Discrimination and Retaliation in the Federal Air Marshal Service.” Background: From May 2010 to April 2011, the OIG assessed allegations of misconduct, discrimination and retaliation in the Transportation Security Administration’s (TSA) Office of Law Enforcement/Federal Air Marshal Service (OLE/FAMS). Findings: The OIG found no evidence of widespread discrimination or retaliation in OLE/FAMS. However, the report does state that employee perceptions of discrimination do exist and stem from poor communication with the workforce. Recommendations: The OIG makes twelve recommendations for TSA, which include formalizing in writing or clarifying policies or guidance in a variety of topics related to human capital, work assignments, discipline process and awards as well as the creation of an action plan to address workplace issues identified in the OIG’s workforce survey. Response: While the OLE/FAMS faces organizational challenges, the OIG notes that these challenges do not interfere with the mission of the agency. Through working groups, listening sessions, and advisory councils, FAMS leadership has demonstrated its commitment to improving communications within the workforce.

IV. Legal Issues

Rules and Regulations

- On February 1, DHS submitted to OMB the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) Notice of Proposed Rulemaking titled, "Provisional Unlawful Presence Waivers of Inadmissibility for Certain Immediate Relatives." On January 9, USCIS announced its intention to change its current process for filing and adjudication of certain applications for waivers of inadmissibility filed in connection with an immediate relative immigrant visa application. USCIS now proposes to amend its regulations to allow certain immediate relatives of U.S. citizens who are physically present in the United States to request provisional unlawful presence waivers under section 212(a)(9)(B)(v) of the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1952, as amended (INA or Act), 8 U.S.C. 1182(a)(9)(B)(v), prior to departing from the United States for consular processing of their immigrant visa applications. Under the proposal, USCIS would grant a provisional unlawful presence waiver that would become fully effective upon the alien's departure from the United States and the U.S. Department of State (DOS) consular officer's determination at the time of the immigrant visa interview that, in light of the approved provisional unlawful presence waiver and other evidence of record, the alien is otherwise admissible to the United States and eligible to receive an immigrant visa. USCIS anticipates that the proposed changes will significantly reduce the length of time U.S. citizens are separated from their immediate relatives who are required to remain outside of the United States for immigrant visa application processing and during adjudication of a waiver of inadmissibility. USCIS also believes that the proposed process, which reduces the degree of interchange between the DOS and USCIS, will create efficiencies for both the U.S. Government and most applicants.

- Arizona v. United States, 11-182: On February 6, the United States Supreme Court scheduled oral argument in Arizona v. United States, 11-182, for April 25, 2012. Also on February 6, the State of Arizona filed its merits brief challenging the Ninth Circuit's decision to uphold a preliminary injunction against four provisions of the State's immigration law, S.B. 1070. The United States' response brief is due on March 19, 2012.

Rules and Regulations

- On February 8, the U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) Notice of Proposed Rulemaking titled, "Internet Publication of Administrative Seizure and Forfeiture Notices" published in the Federal Register: This rule proposes to amend CBP regulations to allow for publication of notices of seizure and intent to forfeit on an official Government forfeiture website. CBP anticipates that the changes proposed in this rule would reduce administrative costs and improve the effectiveness of CBP's notice procedures as Internet publication would reach a broader range of the public and provide access to more parties who may have an interest in the seized property. This Notice is based on an initiative submitted by a DHS employee that was selected as a finalist for the President's 2010 SAVE Award.
- On February 9, the U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) Notice of Proposed Rulemaking titled, "Exemptions from Entry Requirements and Report of Arrival Requirements for Certain Department of Defense Vessels and Aircraft" will publish in the Federal Register. Certain vessels and aircraft owned or chartered by the Department of Defense (DoD) are exempt from entry requirements and, in some cases, reporting requirements upon their arrival in the United States from a foreign place. This rule proposes to expand those exemptions to include additional DoD-owned or chartered vessels and aircraft when transporting certain cargo or passengers.

Oversight and Investigations

V. Legal Issues

Litigation

- Ibrahim v. Department of Homeland Security*, --- F.3d ---, 2012 WL 390126 (9th Cir.): On February 8, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit issued a published panel decision in a case concerning an alien who alleges that her name was wrongly included on the No Fly List in 2005. The court held that Ibrahim -- who had been in the United States on a student visa, had traveled to Malaysia for a Stanford-sponsored conference, and had intended to return after a brief trip abroad -- has established a "substantial voluntary connection" with this country such that she can assert constitutional rights under the First and Fifth Amendments while living abroad, and can challenge the Terrorist Screening Center's alleged decision to list her on the No Fly List based on those constitutional rights. Ibrahim has challenged the Transportation Security Administration's implementation of the No Fly List on similar grounds. Ibrahim v. DHS, 06-1218 (D.C. Cir.). That case remains pending in the D.C. Circuit where it had been stayed pending the outcome of the case in the Ninth Circuit.

Oversight and Investigations

- On March 7, Secretary Napolitano will participate in a Senate Cyber Exercise hosted by Majority Leader Harry Reid and led by DHS to demonstrate the impact of proposed cybersecurity legislation on the nation's ability to respond to cyber incidents.
- In March (exact timing TBD), FEMA and the Corporation for National and Community Service will announce the establishment of a FEMA-devoted unit of 1,600 service corps members within AmeriCorps National Civilian Community Corps solely devoted to disaster preparedness, response, and recovery. This innovative partnership builds on the historic collaboration between the two agencies and will enhance the Federal government's disaster capabilities, increase the reliability and diversity of the disaster workforce, and achieve an estimated cost savings of more than $350 million in the first five years. The first members will begin serving in August 2012 and the program will reach full capacity within 18 months. Announcement details pending potential White House involvement.
- In March, DHS expects to publicly release the DHS Northern Border Strategy (NBS), the first unified DHS strategy to guide the Department's policies and operations at our northern border. The NBS identifies three key goals: deterring and preventing terrorism and smuggling, trafficking, and illegal immigration; safeguarding and encouraging the efficient flow of lawful trade, travel, and immigration; and ensuring community resiliency before, during, and after terrorist attacks and other disasters.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Congressional Distribution on February 23; Public Posting on February 28: “Transportation Security Administration’s Use of Backscatter Units.” Background: From February 2011 to June 2011, the OIG assessed the manner in which the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) inspects, maintains, and operates backscatter units used in passenger screening. This includes a review of the effectiveness and reliability of inspection plans, public health compliance, operator training, and interagency coordination. Findings: The OIG found that TSA was in compliance with standards regarding radiation exposure limits and safety requirements. Recommendations: The OIG makes six recommendations for TSA, which include ensuring that radiation surveys are conducted on backscatter units for any incidents of unintended radiation emissions, verifying that training requirements are completed, and developing procedures to ensure appropriate notifications of unintended radiation emissions and overdoses. Response: As a result of intensive research, analysis, and testing, third party analysis determined that potential health risks from full-body screening with these X-ray security systems are minuscule. Current safety protocols require all equipment manufacturers comply with nationally-recognized safety standards to ensure the safety of both passengers and operators, addressing an OIG recommendation.

Legislative Issues

- During the week of February 27, the Highway Reauthorization Bill with an amendment from Senator Collins regarding Advanced Imaging Technology (AIT) Backscatter units is expected to be introduced on the Senate floor. The amendment requires DHS Science and Technology Directorate to conduct a study on the health effects of backscatter AIT units and for the Transportation Security Administration to improve visibility at airport checkpoints of alternative screening options to the AIT units. DHS opposes this legislation due to the results of the multiple independent studies regarding the safety of backscatter AIT units (see OIG report referenced above).

Litigation

- United States v. Utah, No. 11-0401 (D. Utah): On February 17, the United States District Court for the District of Utah held an oral argument on the preliminary injunction motion that the United States filed to enjoin Utah from implementing certain sections of H.B. 497, which seeks to regulate and enforce immigration law in the state. On February 21, the district court judge issued an order in the case stating that he will not rule on the Government's preliminary injunction motion until after the Supreme Court has issued its ruling in Arizona v. United States, 11-182, and that he will continue to temporarily enjoin H.B. 497 until that time.
- In re: Oil Spill by the Oil Rig "Deepwater Horizon" in the Gulf of Mexico, on April 20, 2010, MDL No. 2179 (E.D. La.): On February 17, the United States filed a consent decree pursuant to which defendant Moex Offshore 2007 LLC ("Moex") has agreed to resolve its liability in the Deepwater Horizon oil spill in a settlement with the United States valued at $90 million. Moex owned a 10 percent interest in BP's Macondo Well. The terms of the settlement require Moex to pay $70 million in civil penalties to resolve alleged violations of the Clean Water Act resulting from the spill. Of that sum, $45 million will go towards replenishing the United States' Oil Spill Liability Trust Fund and $25 million in penalty payments will go to the states of Alabama, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. The settlement also calls for Moex to pay $20 million toward supplemental environmental projects to facilitate land acquisition to preserve habitat and natural resources in the Gulf of Mexico region. The consent decree is subject to a 30-day comment period and final court approval.
- Kawashima v. Holder, No. 10-577 (SCOTUS): On February 21, the United States Supreme Court issued a ruling upholding the Ninth Circuit's decision below that willfully making and subscribing a false tax return and aiding and assisting in the preparation of a false tax return, violations of 26 U.S.C. §§7206(1) and (2) respectively, are crimes "involv[ing] fraud or deceit" such that they qualify as aggravated felonies under the Immigration and Nationality Act and thus may render a lawful permanent resident removable.

Oversight and Investigations

- On February 24, DHS will make an eighth production of electronic communications generated by, transmitted to, or possessed by a DHS employee related to or involving his work with a fusion center as requested by the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations as part of its investigation into fusion centers.
- In addition to this request, DHS continues to actively collect documents and/or information responsive to requests on the following topics: the Transportation Security Administration's SSI designation process; the Department's role in Operation Fast and Furious; Advanced Imaging Technology units; and the travel records of forty-six individuals.

FOIA Requests

- During the week of March 5, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services will post for public comment a new draft policy memorandum for the L1-B visa classification, which seeks to clarify the definition of "specialized knowledge" as it applies to applicants, as well as consolidate L1-B classification policy into one document.
- During the week of March 5, the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) will publish a Funding Opportunity Announcement for the FY 2012 Citizenship and Integration Grant Program on grants.gov. USCIS will offer approximately $5 million in competitive grant funding to non-profit immigrant-serving organizations to provide citizenship preparation services for permanent residents. USCIS anticipates making 31 awards under this funding opportunity and will announce the recipients in September.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Congressional Distribution on March 6, Public Posting on March 8: "Information Sharing on Foreign Nationals: Border Security." Background: From August to December 2010, the OIG assessed how biometric and biographic information is shared among DHS components at air, land, and sea ports of entry, and land and maritime borders. The assessment focused on the screening and processing of foreign nationals who seek to enter the United States; the timelines and thoroughness of information sharing among DHS data systems; and communication among DHS components. This report is the second of three reports focusing on information sharing among Department of Homeland Security (DHS) components when they encounter a foreign national. Findings: The OIG found that DHS has invested considerable resources to improve staffing and infrastructure to facilitate information sharing. Recommendations: The report contains eight recommendations to improve communication, timeliness and thoroughness of information sharing among DHS components. Response: U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP), U.S. Citizenship and

~~*NOT FOR PUBLIC DISTRIBUTION*~~

Immigration Services (USCIS), U.S. Coast Guard (Coast Guard), U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE), and the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) actively share information throughout DHS regarding foreign nationals who seek to enter the United States. #### Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- On March 29, U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) will publish a Federal Register Notice announcing that the National Customs Automation Program test known as “M1” has been successfully completed and that the trade industry will be provided six months from the date of publication to transition rail and sea manifest submissions to the Automated Commercial Environment (ACE). CBP is targeting the end of September 2012 for decommissioning of the legacy system for rail and ocean manifests. Additionally, in accordance with the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking published February 22, 2012, proposing various changes to the in-bond regulations, M1 will also eliminate the paper in-bond application (CBP Form 7512) and require carriers or their agents to electronically file the in-bond application for all ocean, rail, and truck cargo.
- On March 30, DHS expects to publish the DHS Language Access plan, as required under Executive Order 13166, Improving Access to Services for Persons with Limited English Proficiency, (August 11, 2000), which describes the Department’s resources and strategies for providing meaningful access to DHS programs and activities to people with limited English proficiency.
- During the week of April 2, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services will post for public comment a new draft policy memorandum for the L1-B visa classification, a visa allowing U.S. employers to transfer professionals with specialized knowledge relating to the organization’s interests from one of its affiliated foreign offices to one of its offices in the United States, which seeks to clarify the definition of “specialized knowledge” as it applies to applicants, as well as consolidate L1-B classification policy into one document.
- During the week of April 2, the DHS Privacy Office will release a new online privacy awareness course, which will be required training for all Department employees. This course replaces the current Culture of Privacy Awareness training and is intended to raise awareness of privacy policies and help reduce privacy incidents within the Department.
- On April 4, DHS expects to publicly announce the initiation of joint stakeholder sessions with Citizenship and Immigration Canada (CIC) on facilitating business travel as part of the Beyond the Border initiative. In May, DHS and CIC are planning to hold stakeholder sessions in Washington, D.C. and Toronto.

30-60 Day Look Ahead

- By March 30, the Department of Homeland Security and Federal Emergency Management Agency plan to submit to the 2012 National Preparedness Report to the President, meeting a requirement of PPD-8.
- On March 30, the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: “Provisional Unlawful Presence Waivers of Inadmissibility for Certain Immediate Relatives” is expected to be posted online by the Federal Register. The rule proposes to make regulatory changes that will streamline the process for adjudicating certain waivers of inadmissibility for qualifying immediate relatives of U.S. citizens seeking to become legal immigrants to the United States. USCIS will issue a press release and notify stakeholders on March 30. The Notice is expected to be published on April 2.
- During the week of April 9, DHS expects to publicly release the DHS Northern Border Strategy (NBS), the first unified DHS strategy to guide the Department’s policies and operations at our northern border. The NBS identifies three key goals: deterring and preventing terrorism and smuggling, trafficking, and illegal immigration; safeguarding and encouraging the efficient flow of lawful trade, travel, and immigration; and ensuring community resiliency before, during, and after terrorist attacks and other disasters.
- During the week of April 16 or 23, Secretary Napolitano is expected to participate in a House Cyber Exercise led by DHS to demonstrate the impact of proposed cybersecurity legislation on the nation’s ability to respond to cyber incidents. This exercise will be similar to the recent Senate Cyber Exercise.
- In April, Secretary Napolitano will issue a Management Directive on the use of social media for investigative purposes and associated privacy guidelines to ensure the Department’s use of social media is in compliance with privacy policies.

- By the end of April, the Transportation Security Administration expects to launch a pilot of Credential Authentication Technology/Boarding Pass Scanning System (CAT/BPSS) technology at airports in San Juan, Washington Dulles, and Houston. CAT/BPSS ensures that identity credentials and boarding passes presented at the checkpoint have not been tampered with or are fraudulently produced.
- In late April or May, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) will release the USCIS Electronic Immigration System, transforming our paper-based agency into an electronic, online organization. This inaugural release of the transformation effort establishes the architecture for future releases, will allow applicants to electronically file and have adjudicated Form I-539, Application to Extend/Change Nonimmigrant Status, and includes the risk and fraud analyzer. USCIS anticipates future releases on a biannual cycle. *POTENTIAL “We Can’t Wait Announcement”*

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Delivered to Congress on April 3, Posted Publicly on April 5: “Effectiveness of U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement’s (ICE) Secure Communities.” Background: The OIG assessed whether Secure Communities was effective in identifying criminal aliens and if ICE appropriately prioritized cases for removal action. Findings: The OIG found that Secure Communities was effective in identifying criminal aliens, and in most cases ICE officers took enforcement actions according to agency enforcement policy. The OIG also found that under Secure Communities, ICE expanded its ability to identify criminal aliens, though field offices duplicated research during the identification process of criminal aliens and did not always sufficiently document their enforcement actions. Recommendations: The OIG recommends that ICE eliminate the duplication of research during the identification process and ensure that officers fully document their actions. Response: Secure Communities is an important tool in ICE’s efforts to focus its immigration enforcement resources on the highest-priority individuals who pose a threat to public safety or national security. ICE has taken steps to address both of the OIG’s recommendations, including the development of the modernized Alien Criminal Response Information Management System which will reduce duplication of research during the identification process. ICE is also continuing data quality initiatives to improve the accuracy of data entered into ICE systems and is developing a monthly report that will identify compliance rates for documentation entered in ICE databases.
- Delivered to Congress on April 3, Posted Publicly on April 5: “Communication Regarding Participation in Secure Communities.” Background: The OIG assessed whether U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) clearly communicated to States and local jurisdictions the intent of Secure Communities and their expected participation. Findings: The OIG did not find evidence that ICE intentionally misled the public or States and local jurisdictions during implementation, but did find that ICE did not clearly communicate to stakeholders the intent of Secure Communities and their expected participation. Recommendations: The OIG made three recommendations to ensure that participation is clearly communicated for Secure Communities and future ICE programs. Response: As the OIG notes, ICE has taken steps to clarify any confusion surrounding the implementation of Secure Communities through official correspondence and expanded outreach efforts with key stakeholders. DHS and ICE have also implemented additional guidance and direction on Secure Communities and ICE’s Civil Immigration Enforcement Priorities, strengthening communication of ICE priorities and the intent of the Secure Communities program and addressing an OIG recommendation.

Legislative Issues

- On March 20, Senator Schumer and Senator Collins introduced the Restoring Integrity and Good-Heartedness in Traveler Screening Act (RIGHTS Act). The bill would require one advocate at 24 major U.S. airports for passengers to contact if they believe they have been mistreated. The Transportation Security Administration believes that many of the provisions already exist and the legislation is not necessary. The bill was referred to the Senate Commerce Committee.
- On March 27, the House Homeland Security Committee, Subcommittee on Border and Maritime Security marked up the Securing Maritime Activities Through Risk-Based Targeting for Port Security Act which directs DHS Components with maritime security responsibilities to improve coordination with law enforcement agencies. DHS generally opposes the bill due to the fact that DHS already does many of the activities included in the bill. The bill is expected to be considered by the full committee in early May.

VI. Legal Issues

Litigation

- Villas at Parkside Partners v. City of Farmers Branch, Texas, No. 10-10751 (5th Cir. 2012): On March 21, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit struck down a housing ordinance that required all adults living in rental housing within the City of Farmers Branch, TX, to obtain an occupancy license conditioned upon the occupant's citizenship or lawful immigration status. The court of appeals upheld the district court's decision that the law is unconstitutional. Specifically, the Fifth Circuit concluded that the sole purpose of that ordinance is to exclude undocumented aliens from the City and thus the ordinance constitutes "an impermissible regulation of immigration" that is preempted by federal law. The U.S. Government had filed an amicus brief in this case in support of the argument that the ordinance is preempted by federal law.
- Florida v. Harris, No. 11-187 (SCOTUS): On March 26, the U.S. Supreme Court granted a petition for writ of certiorari filed by the State of Florida seeking review of a decision of the Supreme Court of Florida establishing a new evidentiary burden to demonstrate the reliability of a drug detection dog. In its decision, the Supreme Court of Florida held that evidence that a dog has been trained and certified to detect narcotics, standing alone, is not sufficient to establish a dog's reliability for purposes of determining probable cause, especially since training and certification is not standardized, and training and certification programs may differ with no meaningful way to assess them. Therefore, to meet the burden of establishing that an officer has a reasonable basis for believing a dog to be reliable in order to establish probable cause for the search of a vehicle, the State must present the dog's training and certification records, an explanation of the meaning of the particular training and certification of the dog, field performance records, and evidence concerning the experience and training of the handler, as well as any other objective evidence known to the officer about the dog's reliability in being able to detect the presence of illegal substances within the vehicle. In its petition for cert, the State of Florida argued, among other things, that the Florida Supreme Court improperly expanded the U.S. Supreme Court's definition of a well-trained drug dog and misinterpreted the Fourth Amendment's probable cause requirement by placing an excessive evidentiary burden on the State. Although the Federal Government is not a party to Harris, the case is likely to have significant implications for canine programs administered by federal law enforcement agencies.

Rules and Regulations

- On March 29, the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) Notice: “Designation of Syrian Arab Republic for Temporary Protected Status (TPS)” will be published in the Federal Register. Through this notice, DHS the designation of the Syrian Arab Republic (Syria) for TPS for a period of 18 months, effective. This designation allows eligible Syrian nationals (and aliens having no nationality who last habitually resided in Syria) who have both continuously resided in and been continuously physically present in the United States since the date included in the notice to be granted TPS.
- On March 30, the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: “Provisional Unlawful Presence Waivers of Inadmissibility for Certain Immediate Relatives” is expected to be posted online by the Federal Register. The rule proposes to make regulatory changes that will streamline the process for adjudicating certain waivers of inadmissibility for qualifying immediate relatives of U.S. citizens seeking to become legal immigrants to the United States. USCIS will issue a press release and notify stakeholders on March 30. The Notice is expected to be published on April 2.
- During the week of April 2, the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement Notice: “Employment Authorization for Syrian F-1 Nonimmigrant Students Experiencing Severe Economic Hardship as a Direct Result of Civil Unrest in Syria Since March 2011” is tentatively expected to be published in the Federal Register. This notice announces that the Secretary of Homeland Security has suspended certain regulatory requirements for F-1 nonimmigrant students whose country of citizenship is Syria and who are experiencing severe economic hardship as a direct result of the civil unrest in Syria since March 2011. The Secretary has determined that a suspension of certain regulatory requirements for Syrian citizens who are F-1 nonimmigrant students is warranted because it will provide relief to these F-1 students so they may obtain employment authorization, work an increased number of hours while school is in session, and reduce their course load while continuing to maintain their F-1 student status.

Oversight and Investigations

- On March 26, DHS made a second production of information to the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations in response to a request for the travel records of forty-six individuals.
- On March 30, DHS will make a thirteenth production of electronic communications generated by, transmitted to, or possessed by a DHS employee related to or involving his work with a fusion center, as well as miscellaneous documents requested by the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee’s Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations as part of its investigation into fusion centers.

Department of Homeland Security

Weekly Report

April 5, 2012

I. Reform, Efficiency, and Transparency

Efficiency Review (ER) Initiative

- To date, DHS has identified more than $3.8 million through continued implementation of the Efficiency Review initiative to provide electronic earnings and leave statements Department-wide. DHS began implementing this initiative in the fourth quarter of fiscal year 2010 and 98 percent of employees now receive paperless earnings and leave statements.

Expected Stories

- On April 12, CNN is tentatively scheduled to film a demonstration of the Science and Technology Directorate's Controlled Impact Rescue Tool (CIRT) for first responders. CIRT is a new concrete breaching tool that is capable of penetrating a reinforced concrete wall up to four times faster than traditional methods which require drilling, chipping, or sawing to reach survivors trapped under collapsed concrete caused by natural and manmade disasters. Airdate TBD.
- On April 12, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) Homeland Security Investigations (HSI) San Diego will host a media roundtable event in San Diego, CA to highlight the successful Notario Fraud investigation and raise public awareness about fraud schemes. The Notario Fraud investigation targeted immigration scams involving the unauthorized practice of immigration law, which occurs when legal advice and/or representation regarding immigration matters is provided by an individual who is not an attorney or accredited representative. The investigation has identified 175 victims with an estimated loss totaling nearly $1.2 million.

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- On April 5, per the U.S.-Canada Beyond the Border Action Plan, DHS expects to announce the initiation of stakeholder sessions on facilitating business travel.
- During the week of April 9, the DHS Privacy Office will release a new online privacy awareness course, which will be required training for all Department employees. This course replaces the current Culture of Privacy Awareness training and is intended to raise awareness of privacy policies and help reduce privacy incidents within the Department.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Congressional distribution on April 4, Web Posting on April 6: "U.S. Coast Guard's Acquisition of the Sentinel Class – Fast Response Cutter." Background: Between June 2011 and October 2011, the OIG conducted an audit of the U.S. Coast Guard's oversight of the Fast Response Cutter acquisition to determine whether the provisions of the contract reflect the U.S. Coast Guard's stated operational requirements and if the contractor is meeting the contract requirements. Findings: The OIG found that the Coast Guard's oversight of the Fast Response Cutter acquisition has helped ensure that the provisions of the contract reflect the Coast Guard's operational requirements and that the contractor is meeting the contract's provisions. The OIG notes, however, that the Coast Guard's contracting strategy included an aggressive schedule that allowed construction of the Fast Response Cutters to start before all operational, design, and technical risks were completely resolved, resulting in schedule delays and construction rework. Recommendations: The OIG offered five recommendations to improve future acquisitions. Response: As the OIG notes, Coast Guard oversight of the FRC program has helped ensure that the provisions of the contract best reflect operational requirements. The FRC acquisition strategy properly followed the Coast Guard's and DHS's knowledge based acquisition process. The Coast Guard will work with DHS Program Accountability and Risk Management to address the OIG recommendation that approval of a schedule-driven acquisition should be supported by a risk assessment and cost benefit analysis.

VI. Legal Issues

Litigation

- Roberts v. Napolitano, No. 11-5226 (D.C. Cir.): On April 10, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit affirmed the lower court's decision that a challenge to the Transportation and Security Administration's (TSA) use of Advanced Imaging Technology (AIT) as a primary means of security screening at U.S. airports is a challenge to TSA's Standard Operating Procedure, which constitutes a final agency order. The court concluded that appellants had improperly filed their challenges to this order in the district court below because jurisdiction to review TSA orders lies exclusively in the Courts of Appeals pursuant to 49 U.S.C. § 46110. The U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit had reached this same conclusion in February of this year in a case titled Corbett v. United States, No. 11-12426 (11th Cir. Feb. 12, 2012).

Oversight and Investigations

- On April 5, DHS made a third production of documents to the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations in response to a request for the travel records of forty-six individuals.
- On April 13, DHS will make another production of documents (electronic communications generated by, transmitted to, or possessed by a DHS employee related to or involving his work with a fusion center, as well as miscellaneous documents) requested by the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations as part of its investigation into fusion centers.
- In addition to these requests, DHS continues to actively collect documents and/or information responsive to requests on the following topics: Advanced Imaging Technology units, the SSI designation process, the Department's role in Operation Fast and Furious, and Border Patrol statistics and reports from the eight patrol stations in the Tucson Sector.

FOIA Requests

- On March 8, Kristen Rasmussen, with The News Media & the Law in Arlington, VA, requested from U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) records related to the U.S. Department of Justice's investigation of the Internet domain site Dajazl.com pursuant to the agency's authority to seize the Internet domain names of commercial websites accused of selling and distributing counterfeit goods and copyrighted material.
- On March 20, Scott MacFarlane, with Cox TV in Washington, D.C., requested from the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) email from 2011 or 2012 sent by a DHS employee whose job title includes the terms "Assistant Secretary" or "Deputy Secretary" and includes either of the keywords "Mica," as in U.S. Representative John Mica (R-FL) or "Charlotte," as in Charlotte, NC.

- On March 28, Lucy Dalglish, with The News Media & the Law in Arlington, VA, requested from the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) a copy of TSA's two oldest open FOIA requests, as well as any communications between TSA and the requesters in those cases.
- On March 28, Angela Greiling Keane, with Bloomberg News, requested from the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) reports or other documents regarding the March 28, 2012 incident involving a pilot for JetBlue Airways.
- On March 29, Clare Pastore and Margaret B. Kwoka, with the University of Southern California Gould School of Law, requested from DHS information about the federal government's policies and practices regarding the three specific exclusions in the FOIA: 5 U.S.C. §§ 552(c)(1), (c)(2), and (c)(3), including records from 1986 to the time through the present which were prepared, compiled, collected, received, transmitted, distributed and/or kept in custody by DHS and any of its subdivisions or offices.
- On March 30, Jeremy Redmon, with The Atlanta Journal-Constitution, requested from U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) records relating to people who have been removed from the United States as a result of 287(g) programs nationwide.
- On April 2, Laura Christensen, with Jackson, Gilmore, and Dobbs in Baton Rouge, LA, requested from the U.S. Coast Guard (USCG) documents that reference, discuss, or evaluate whether there were sufficient resources available to respond during to the Deepwater Horizon oil spill.

Weekly Report

April 19, 2012

I. Reform, Efficiency, and Transparency

Efficiency Review (ER) Initiative

- To date, DHS has identified more than $10 million in cost avoidances through efforts to reduce costs through improved management of DHS facilities. For example, Components have consolidated offices, cancelled planned office expansions, and purchased, rather than leasing office space to achieve cost avoidances.

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- During the week of April 23, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services will post for public comment a new draft policy memorandum for the L1-B visa classification, a visa allowing U.S. employers to transfer professionals with specialized knowledge relating to the organization's interests from one of its affiliated foreign offices to one of its offices in the United States, which seeks to clarify the definition of "specialized knowledge" as it applies to applicants, as well as consolidate L1-B classification policy into one document.
- During the week of April 23, the Domestic Nuclear Detection Office plans to release the DHS Global Nuclear Detection Architecture Implementation Plan; Joint Annual Interagency Review of the Global Nuclear Detection Architecture Report (2012) and the Joint Interagency Annual Review of the National Strategic Five-Year Plan for Improving the Nuclear Forensics and Attribution Capabilities of the U.S. (2012) to Congress.
- On April 24, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) will sign an IMAGE agreement with Fresh Mark Inc., a northern Ohio meat supplier. IMAGE assists employers in targeted sectors to develop a more secure and stable workforce by enhancing fraudulent document awareness through education and training. Fresh Mark Inc. will become the first company in Ohio to join IMAGE. Open press.
- On April 25, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services plans to issue an updated draft policy memorandum to address certain foundational issues in the EB-5 Program: (1) the immigrant's investment of capital, (2) in a new commercial enterprise, (3) that creates jobs. The memo will provide context to the adjudications standard, define the relevant elements of the program, and contextualize the adjudications and decision-making process.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Congressional Distribution on April 23, Public Posting on April 25: "U.S. Coast Guard's Maritime Patrol Aircraft." Background: Between May and November 2011, the OIG investigated whether the U.S. Coast Guard effectively awarded the 2010 Ocean Sentry Maritime Patrol Aircraft (MPA) contract. Findings: The OIG found that the U.S. Coast Guard generally awarded the Ocean Sentry Maritime Patrol Aircraft contract effectively, but could have improved its oversight of the contract. According to the OIG, U.S. Coast Guard personnel did not follow up with the subcontractor to ensure that it had implemented recommendations made by the Defense Contract Audit Agency (DCAA) and did not obtain sufficient support to ensure the exclusion of non-chargeable costs when awarding the current contract. Recommendations: The OIG makes one recommendation to improve the award and oversight of this acquisition and future acquisitions. Response: The U.S. Coast Guard action in not considering DCAA findings for the initial contract award was in full compliance with the applicable regulations. In the case of the initial award of the MPA contract, submission of certified cost or pricing was not required or permitted under the FAR because the Contracting Officer appropriately determined that the proposed price was based on adequate competition. However, the U.S. Coast Guard agrees that for sole source contract options, it is important to give full consideration to the DCAA audit report and plans to use cost analysis that utilizes DCAA findings for any future modifications to the contract that require certified cost data. The U.S. Coast

- On April 27, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) will release its response to the Task Force on Secure Communities' (SCTF's) recommendations. Secure Communities is a critical tool for enabling ICE to focus its limited enforcement resources on high priority individuals. In response to the recommendations of the SCTF, ICE is adopting a new policy regarding individuals arrested for minor traffic offenses. Under this policy, detainers issued upon individuals arrested solely for minor traffic offenses, who have not been previously convicted of other crimes and do not fall within any other ICE priority category, will become operative only upon conviction for the minor criminal traffic offense. This new policy will help better focus ICE resources on those who pose a threat to public safety or national security, as well as repeat or egregious immigration law violators and recent border crossers. ICE remains committed to working with our partners to improve Secure Communities and make our communities safer by protecting public safety and national security, border security, and the integrity of the immigration system.

Legislative Issues

- On April 25, the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee marked up the DHS Audit Requirement Target Act, which states that DHS should take steps in order to obtain an unqualified audit opinion in FY 2013. DHS has no objections to this bill and DHS has already begun concentrating efforts on expanding the scope of the audit to remaining Statements of Budgetary Resources, Net Cost, and Changes in Net Position in FY 2012 to continue to ensure taxpayer dollars are managed with integrity, diligence, and accuracy, and that the systems and processes used for all aspects of financial management demonstrate the highest level of accountability and transparency.

IV. Legal Issues

Rules and Regulations

- On May 1, the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) Notice: "Extension and Designation of Somalia for Temporary Protected Status (TPS)" will publish in the Federal Register. This notice announces that the Secretary is both extending the existing designation of Somalia for TPS for 18 months from September 18, 2012 through March 17, 2014, and redesignating Somalia for TPS for 18 months, effective September 18, 2012 through March 17, 2014. The extension allows currently eligible TPS beneficiaries who have been continuously residing in the U.S. to retain their TPS through March 17, 2014 due to conditions in that country that prevent Somalis who now have TPS from safely returning.

Weekly Report

May 3, 2012

I. Reform, Efficiency, and Transparency

Efficiency Review (ER) Initiative

- To date, DHS has identified $4.3 million in cost avoidances by leveraging a cross-Component contract that offers lower prices and better service for background investigations than the Office of Personnel Management. In the second quarter of fiscal year 2012, DHS achieved cost avoidances of $204,000.

II. Public Affairs

Expected Stories

- On May 3, FEMA will publicly release the National Preparedness Report, the first assessment of national preparedness across 31 core capabilities. The report is part of a series of deliverables required under the Presidential Policy Directive / PPD-8: National Preparedness that was signed March 30, 2011 aimed at strengthening the security and resilience of the United States through systematic preparation for the threats that pose the greatest risk to the security of the Nation, including acts of terrorism, cyber attacks, pandemics, and catastrophic natural disasters. This report has gone through OMB and interagency review.
- On May 9 and 10, U.S. Customs and Border Protection will host ABC Nightline as they cover border security efforts in South Texas, including the Unmanned Aircraft System's support of Border Patrol Agents in that area. Air date TBD.
- On May 10, the Transportation Security Administration expects to issue a press release announcing the 1 millionth passenger screened through TSA Pre✓™.

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- On May 3, Secretary Napolitano notified Congress of the decision to extend the deadline for the 100 percent scanning mandate established in Section 232 of the Security and Accountability for Every Port Act of 2006 (SAFE Port Act), P.L. 109-347, as amended by the Implementing Recommendations of the 9/11 Commission Act of 2007, P.L. 110-53, for an additional two years because (1) use of available scanning systems will negatively impact trade capacity and the flow of cargo; and (2) systems to scan containers cannot be purchased, deployed, or operated at ports overseas because they do not have the physical characteristics to install such systems. Pursuant to the legislative language of the Safe Port Act, Secretary Napolitano also submitted the report "Scanning of Maritime Containers," which addresses what container traffic will be affected by the extension; provides supporting evidence to support the Secretary's certification of the basis for the extension; explains what measures the Secretary is taking to ensure that scanning can be implemented as early as possible at the port or ports that are the subject of the report; and indicates that DHS is currently pursuing a layered and risk-based approach to securing maritime cargo. This report has gone through OMB and interagency review.
- On May 4, U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) Acting Commissioner David Aguilar and EU Director General Heinz Zourek will sign the U.S.-EU Joint Customs Decision on mutual recognition between the Customs-Trade Partnership Against Terrorism and the EU's Authorized Economic Operator program, on the sidelines of the Joint Customs Coordination Council meeting hosted by CBP in Washington, D.C.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- On April 30, a draft of the OIG report titled, "U.S. Custom and Border Protection's (CBP's) Use of Unmanned Aircraft Systems in the Nation's Border Security" was released to Congress. Background: From April through November 2011, the OIG conducted a review of Customs and Border Protection (CBP) work establishing the unmanned aircraft system (UAS) program to determine whether CBP has established an adequate operation plan to define, prioritize, and execute its unmanned aircraft mission.

~~*NOT FOR PUBLIC DISTRIBUTION*~~

Recommendations: The OIG makes four recommendations, which CBP concurs with, to improve planning of its UAS program, including the level of operation, program funding, and resource requirements, along with addressing stakeholder needs. Response: CBP's Strategic Air and Marine Plan (the StAMP) details operational plans and capabilities assessments, which define CBP's planned UAS acquisition and sustainment over the next five years and beyond, addressing an OIG recommendation. In addition, CBP continues to develop and implement flexible and responsive procedures to coordinate and support stakeholder requests, addressing an OIG recommendation.

- Delivery to Congress on May 8, Public Posting on May 10: "U.S. Customs and Border Protection Privacy Stewardship. Background: From April to November 2011, the OIG conducted an audit to address U.S. Customs and Border Protection's (CBP) work to instill a culture of privacy that protects sensitive, personally identifiable information and ensures compliance with Federal privacy laws and regulations. Recommendations: The OIG makes, and CBP concurs with, three recommendations to strengthen privacy protections at CBP. Response: CBP is committed to ensuring appropriate privacy protections and has issued guidance recognizing the expansion of its privacy role, creating a Privacy Office, addressing an OIG recommendation.

Other Reports

- On April 27, GAO released a report titled, "Checked Baggage Screening: TSA Has Deployed Optimal Systems at the Majority of TSA-Regulated Airports, but Could Strengthen Cost Estimates." Background: From December 2011 to January 2012, the GAO assessed Transportation Security Administration's (TSA) progress in deploying optimal checked baggage screening systems at airports across the nation, known as the Electronic Baggage Screening Program (EBSP). This includes TSA's efforts to replace aging machines that have or will soon reach the end of their useful life to improve performance, increase efficiency, and reduce cost. Findings: GAO found that reducing the portion of the costs that TSA pays for facility modifications associated with the installation of optimal baggage screening systems could lower the federal government's cost of the airport modification projects it supports by roughly $300 million from fiscal year 2012 through fiscal year 2030. Recommendations: GAO recommends that TSA ensure that its lifecycle cost estimates conform to cost estimating best practices in order to strengthen the credibility, comprehensiveness, and reliability of cost estimates and related savings associated with the EBSP. Response: TSA is institutionalizing a cost estimating process in order to improve the quality, fidelity, and uniformity of life-cycle cost estimates, addressing a GAO recommendation.
- On April 30, GAO released a report titled, "Border Security: Opportunities Exist to Ensure More Effective Use of DHS's Air and Marine Assets." Background: From June 2010 to January 2012, the GAO conducted an audit to determine the extent to which U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) Office of Air and Marine (OAM) ensures the mix and placement of resources effectively met mission needs, addressed threats, and met the needs of OAM customers (e.g., U.S. Border Patrol and Immigrations and Customs Enforcement). Recommendations: GAO recommends that CBP enhance documentation of its analyses for asset mix and placement and that DHS enhance oversight to ensure efficient and effective coordination of OAM and USCG resources. The GAO report acknowledges CBP's work issuing and updating its strategic plan for the Office of Air and Marine as well as its aircraft deployment plans. Response: CBP will continue documenting decisions based on related costs and benefits and will begin providing additional documentation of its analyses, including mission requirements and threats, addressing a GAO recommendation. In addition, CBP continues to coordinate multiple initiatives across air and marine activities to support DHS efforts to better leverage its resources, eliminate duplication, and enhance efficiencies, addressing a GAO recommendation.

Through the IAP, U.S. Customs and Border Protection Officers stationed abroad identify high-risk travelers who are likely to be inadmissible into the United States and makes recommendations to commercial carriers to deny boarding.
- During the week of May 21, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) will release the USCIS Electronic Immigration System (USCIS ELIS), transforming our paper-based agency into an electronic, online organization. This inaugural release of the transformation effort establishes the architecture for future releases, will allow applicants to electronically file and have adjudicated Form I-539, Application to Extend/Change Nonimmigrant Status, and includes the risk and fraud analyzer. USCIS anticipates future releases on a biannual cycle. *POTENTIAL “We Can’t Wait Announcement”*
- In May, Secretary Napolitano will issue a Management Directive on the use of social media for investigative purposes and associated privacy guidelines to ensure the Department’s use of social media is in compliance with privacy policies.
- In May, DHS expects to publicly release the DHS Northern Border Strategy (NBS), the first unified DHS strategy to guide the Department’s policies and operations at our northern border. The NBS identifies three key goals: deterring and preventing terrorism and smuggling, trafficking, and illegal immigration; safeguarding and encouraging the efficient flow of lawful trade, travel, and immigration; and ensuring community resiliency before, during, and after terrorist attacks and other disasters.
- On June 6, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement will launch the Enhanced Interior Repatriation Initiative, a U.S.-Mexico initiative to provide a humane, safe, and orderly option for repatriating Mexican nationals; especially those who have criminal convictions. Aliens repatriated under this initiative will be removed to the interior of the country and, ultimately, to their places of residence. Previously, Mexican nationals were repatriated through ports of entry along the Mexican border.
- By mid June, the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) expects to complete nation-wide implementation of modifications to screening procedures for passengers 75 and older. In March, TSA began testing these measures in Chicago, Denver, Orlando, and Portland.

- Congressional distribution on May 10, Web Posting on May 14: “Transportation Security Administration’s Efforts To Identify and Track Breaches at Our Nation’s Airports.” Background: From April to September 2011, the OIG assessed the Transportation Security Administration’s (TSA) efforts to identify and track security breaches at airports. Following media reports of breaches at Newark Liberty International Airport, the OIG initiated an investigation of the contributing factors that led to the security breaches and whether TSA had an effective mechanism to use information gathered from individual airports to identify measures that could be used to improve security nationwide. Findings: OIG found that, without a central mechanism to gather information about all security breaches, TSA is unable to monitor trends or make general improvements to security. The OIG determined that airports need a clear definition and guidance for identifying and reporting security breaches through Performance and Results Information System (PARIS) so TSA can capture an accurate understanding of security breaches occurring at airports nationwide. Recommendations: The OIG makes two recommendations to refine and use one comprehensive definition of what constitutes a security breach as well as a comprehensive oversight program to ensure accurate reporting and corrective actions take place. Response: TSA’s goal at all times is to maximize transportation security to stay ahead of evolving terrorist threats while facilitating the flow of legitimate commerce. TSA currently collects thousands of records of incidents and security breaches occurring at airports and other transportation facilities. TSA is working to centralize oversight of airport security breaches and will better leverage PARIS to more accurately report, track, and analyze trends. TSA is also updating its airport performance metrics to track security breaches and airport checkpoint closures at the national, regional, and local levels, addressing an OIG recommendation.
- Congressional distribution on May 10, Web Posting on May 14: “DHS Information Technology Management Has Improved, But Challenges Remain.” Background: In 2004 and 2008, the OIG reported that the Chief Information Officer (CIO) did not have sufficient budget authority or staffing to effectively manage information technology. This follow-up audit was conducted to determine the Department’s progress in implementing an effective information technology management program. Findings: The OIG found that since their last report in 2008, the CIO has increased oversight and authority of IT by reviewing DHS component programs and acquisitions, enabling the CIO to make strategic recommendations to reduce costs and duplication. Recommendations: The OIG makes one recommendation to improve the budget review process to enable the CIO to identify and resolve issues before component investments are finalized. DHS concurs with this recommendation. Response: As the OIG notes, DHS has made significant progress in improving IT management functions, resulting in improved decision-making regarding IT investments and acquisitions. The CIO is firmly integrated into the budget and financial management decision-making process within DHS, addressing an OIG recommendation.

Reports

- During the week of May 28 or June 4, GAO is expected to release a report titled, "Observations on the Coast Guard's and the Department of Homeland Security's Fleet Studies." Background: Between March 2012 and April 2012, GAO conducted an assessment of the U.S. Coast Guard's (USCG) Fleet Mix Phase 1 and Phase 2 studies and the Department of Homeland Security's (DHS) Cutter study to determine how useful these studies are to DHS, the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), and the Coast Guard in informing recapitalization decisions. Findings: GAO found that the $24.2 billion Deepwater Program, as envisioned in 2007, is no longer achievable in terms of cost and schedule. Recommendations: GAO recommended that the Secretary of Homeland Security develop a working group that includes participation from DHS and the Coast Guard's capabilities, resources, and acquisition directorates to review the results of multiple studies to identify cost, capability, and quantity trade-offs that would produce a program of record that fits within expected budget parameters. Response: DHS concurs with GAO's recommendations and continues to balance investment in front line operations and recapitalization to address its highest operational risks. Prudent investment in USCG recapitalization remains a top priority.

Reports

- On May 31, GAO released a report titled “Critical Infrastructure Protection: DHS Could Better Manage Security Surveys and Vulnerability Assessments” to Congress and will post it publicly on July 2. Background: From June 2011 to May 2012, the GAO assessed the extent to which DHS has taken action to conduct security surveys and vulnerability assessments among high priority critical infrastructure and key resources (CIKR). GAO also sought to determine the extent to which DHS shared the results of security surveys and vulnerability assessments with asset owners and operators as well as Sector Specific Agencies. Findings: GAO found that DHS has undertaken a number of activities to conduct voluntary security surveys and vulnerability assessments while providing information to private sector partners and evaluating the effectiveness of security surveys and assessments. Recommendations: GAO makes seven recommendations for DHS to develop plans with timeframes and milestones in order to improve the collection and organization of data on high priority assets and the timeliness of survey results. Response: Since 2009, the Department, through its Protective Security Advisors, has worked closely with owners and operators of high priority CIKR to conduct more than 2,800 security surveys and vulnerability assessments. In 2011 alone, the DHS National Protection and Programs Directorate Office of Infrastructure Protection assessed more than 680 critical infrastructure sites and conducted Regional Resiliency Assessments on clusters of high consequence critical infrastructure to coordinate protection efforts in major metropolitan areas. DHS has refined timeframes and milestones for managing its efforts to improve the timely delivery of the results of security surveys and vulnerability assessments to asset owners and operators and continues to develop and implement performance measures relating to completion of security surveys and vulnerability assessments, addressing GAO recommendations.
- On June 18, GAO is expected to release a report titled: “Student and Exchange Visitor Program (SEVP): DHS Needs to Assess Risks and Strengthen Oversight Functions.” Background: GAO reviewed U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement’s (ICE) fraud prevention and detection procedures and examined the extent to which ICE has identified and assessed risk in SEVP and developed and implemented policies and procedures to prevent and detect fraud during the initial school certification process and before schools begin accepting foreign students. Recommendations: GAO makes eight recommendations, including that ICE identify and assess program risks; implement procedures for ensuring schools’ eligibility; address missing school case files; institute a process to monitor state licensing and accreditation status of all types of schools; and establish target time frames for notifying flight schools that lack required FAA certification that they must re-obtain FAA certification. Response: ICE is developing a new policy to better identify and assess risks within SEVP by evaluating prior cases of school noncompliance and identifying trends. This policy will be implemented in the fall of 2012, addressing a GAO recommendation. Additionally, SEVP and the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) are working

Expected Stories

- On June 18 and 19, the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) will announce the launch of TSA Pre√™ at Boston Logan International Airport. TSA Pre√™ enhances aviation security by enabling TSA to focus on a risk-based, intelligence driven approach. By learning more about travelers through information they voluntarily provide, and combining that information with TSA's multi-layered system of aviation security, TSA can better focus limited resources on higher-risk and unknown passengers while providing expedited screening for travelers who volunteer information about themselves prior to flying.

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- On June 15, the National Academies of Science will release a report on the Bio- and Agro-Defense Facility (NBAF) Updated Site-Specific Risk Assessment.

30-60 Day Look Ahead

- In June, DHS expects to sign Preventing and Combating Serious Crime (PCSC) Agreements with Singapore and Japan. In July, DHS expects to sign a PCSC Agreement with Poland.

- By the end of June, the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) expects to begin incorporating Federal Judges into TSA PreV™ expedited screening. The Administrative Office of the US Courts anticipates that the majority of approximately 1,900 Federal Judges will choose to participate.
- By June 30, FEMA expects to submit to the President a set of national planning frameworks that address prevention, protection, mitigation, and response, meeting a requirement of Presidential Policy Directive 8 (PPD-8).
- During the end of June or early July, the Federal Emergency Management Agency expects to announce the Fiscal Year 2012 grant awards. Most FY 2012 grant allocations were released in February, except the Transit, Port and Operation Stonegarden grants, which are all competitive and will be announced for the first time.
- In the summer, U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) plans to implement a pilot to automate filings of Form I-94 at a select Port of Entry (location to be determined jointly with U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services). I-94 departure forms and data have been used for over 20 years as a key source of information regarding immigration status. Use of the I-94 departure form and number are embedded in many verification processes and forms that Federal/State agencies and employers use to verify a non-immigrant visitor's status and eligibility for benefits or work authorization. Automation of the I-94 will improve the accuracy and timeliness of the data since it will be created in real time using the same information the officer uses for the primary inspection. In addition, CBP anticipates significant savings in data entry costs as a result of the I-94 automation program. *POTENTIAL "We Can't Wait Announcement"*
- In the summer, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement will launch the Enhanced Interior Repatriation Initiative, a U.S.-Mexico initiative to provide a humane, safe, and orderly option for repatriating Mexican nationals; especially those who have criminal convictions. Aliens repatriated under this initiative will be removed to the interior of the country and, ultimately, to their places of residence. Previously, Mexican nationals were repatriated through ports of entry along the Mexican border.

Department of Homeland Security

Weekly Report

June 21, 2012

I. Reform, Efficiency, and Transparency

Efficiency Review (ER) Initiative

- To date, DHS has identified more than $307 million in cost avoidances through implementation of the Efficiency Review initiative to reduce expenditures associated with applicant security background investigations and other security-related component-specific initiatives.

II. Public Affairs

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- On June 25, DHS and the Department of Justice (DOJ) expect to release the US-Canada Joint Privacy Principles, a deliverable of the Beyond the Border Action Plan which were jointly negotiated by DHS, DOJ, Public Safety Canada, and Justice Canada.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Congressional distribution on June 21, Web Posting on June 25: “DHS Needs to Address Portable Device Security Risks.” Background: The OIG reviewed the effectiveness of DHS’s efforts to secure and deploy portable devices (such as Blackberries, iPads, and thumb drives) on DHS networks and to maintain and dispose of these devices. Findings: The OIG found that while DHS has taken actions to govern, track, categorize, and secure portable devices, the Department still faces challenges in using the devices. Recommendations: The OIG makes three recommendations of the Chief Information Officer (CIO) to implement controls to mitigate the risks associated with the use of portable devices to protect the sensitive information that these devices store and process. DHS concurred with these recommendations. Response: Component CIOs are currently implementing a process to record USB thumb drives as sensitive personal property in their asset management systems, increasing accountability of these drives and addressing an OIG recommendation. Additionally, CIO is enhancing the annual IT security awareness training to remind users of responsibilities when using a government-issued portable device, addressing an OIG recommendation.
- Congressional distribution on June 25, Web Posting on June 27: “FEMA’s Progress in Implementing Employee Credentials.” Background: In 2006, Congress passed the Post-Katrina Emergency Management and Reform Act, which created a basis for credentialing emergency response providers. To meet this requirement, FEMA’s Disaster Reserve Workforce Division launched an agency-wide credentialing effort in June 2008, resulting in the FEMA Qualification System (FQS) in 2010. Findings: The OIG found that work remains to complete implementation of the credentialing plan as well as an information technology system to track the training, development, and deployment of disaster employees. Recommendations: The OIG made three recommendations to assist FEMA in completing the credentialing process. FEMA concurs with the recommendations. Response: Since November 2011 (not reflected in the period of time in which the OIG conducted its review), FEMA has made significant progress in its efforts to implement employee credentialing. In FY 2012, FEMA will develop a project plan to establish and implement FQS to ensure adequate project planning and transparency, addressing an OIG recommendation.

Reports

- During the week of July 2, GAO is expected to release a non-SSI version of its report titled, "General Aviation Security: The Transportation Security Administration's (TSA) Process for Ensuring Foreign Flight Students Do Not Pose a Security Threat." Background: From March 2011 to June 2012, GAO assessed TSA and the general aviation industry actions to strengthen security as well as efforts to ensure foreign flight students do not pose a security threat. This includes vetting foreign flight student applicants through its Alien Flight Student Program (AFSP). Findings: GAO found that TSA has taken steps to enhance communications with general aviation industry stakeholders as well as improve the vetting of foreign nationals enrolling in U.S. flight schools. They found that weaknesses exist in the vetting process and in DHS's process for identifying flight students who may be in the country illegally. Recommendations: GAO makes four recommendations for identifying how often and why foreign nationals are not vetted under AFSP, identifying the costs and benefits of taking additional steps to verify the identity of prospective flight students claiming U.S. citizenship, and developing a plan for assessing the results of these efforts. TSA concurs with the recommendations. Response: TSA vets Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) certificates against the Terrorist Screening Database on a daily basis and conducts additional criminal history records checks and a check for derogatory immigration-related information, addressing a GAO recommendation. TSA is developing an automated mechanism to help the agency identify foreign nationals who are not required to apply to AFSP prior to obtaining flight training by August 2012, addressing a GAO recommendation.

July 5, 2012

I. Reform, Efficiency, and Transparency

Efficiency Review (ER) Initiative

- DHS has identified more than $13.6 million in cost avoidances by reducing travel expenditures through the elimination of non-mission critical travel and by leveraging web-based communications in lieu of travel to conferences.

Expected Stories

- On July 12, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) Director John Morton is scheduled to return a collection of cultural property, art, and antiquities to Peruvian Ambassador Harold Forsyth during a cultural repatriation ceremony at the Embassy of Peru in Washington, D.C. The repatriation is a result of six ICE investigations in coordination with U.S. Attorneys' office in the Southern District of New York, the District of Delaware, and the Southern District of Texas, and INTERPOL Washington. The collection includes pre-Columbian pottery, an Andean textile, an 18th century monstrance, and School of Cusco colonial-era paintings.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Congressional distribution on July 5; Web Posting on July 9: "The Federal Emergency Management Agency's Requirements for Reporting Homeland Security Grant Program Achievements."
Background: From October 2010 to July 2011, the OIG evaluated FEMA's requirements for states to report progress in enhancing first responder capabilities to prevent, deter, respond to, and recover from terrorist attacks, major disasters, and other emergencies as a result of grant funding. Findings: The OIG found that FEMA did not have a system in place to determine the extent to which homeland security grant funds enhanced the states' capabilities to prevent, deter, respond to, and recover from terrorist attacks, major disasters, and other emergencies before awarding more funds to the states. The audit also found that FEMA did not require states to report progress in achieving milestones as part of the annual project justifications. Recommendations: The OIG made four recommendations to help strengthen management, performance, and oversight of ongoing state homeland security projects. Response: All states and territories that receive federal preparedness assistance are required to submit an annual State Preparedness Report (SPR) capability assessment. In 2011, FEMA redesigned the SPR assessment to account for capability targets relevant to the jurisdiction and to measure current capability levels for each of the 31 core capabilities associated with the National Preparedness Goal. As a result of this redesign, all grantees are required to demonstrate how proposed projects address gaps and deficiencies in core capabilities, addressing an OIG recommendation. In addition, FEMA proposed a new vision for homeland security grants in the FY 2013 President's budget that focuses on building and sustaining core capabilities associated with the five mission areas within the National Preparedness Goal (NPG) that are readily deployable and cross-jurisdictional, helping to elevate nationwide preparedness. Using a competitive, risk-based model, this proposal envisions a comprehensive process to assess gaps, identify and prioritize deployable capabilities, limit periods of performance to put funding to work quickly, and require grantees to regularly report progress in the acquisition and development of these capabilities, addressing many of the issues raised by the OIG.

Outreach/Stakeholder Meetings

The Deputy will also meet with U.S. Ambassador Kennard, EU Commissioner Cecilia Malmström, and Vice President of the European Commission Neelie Kroes about cybersecurity.

III. Public Affairs

Expected Stories

- On July 9, Vanity Fair interviewed U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) Acting Commissioner David Aguilar for a story on the border in Arizona, CBP operations in Arizona, and how border security has evolved over the last four years. Publication date TBD.
- On July 9, the fourth season of National Geographic Channel's Border Wars premiered. The new season continues 36 previously aired episodes that follow U.S. Customs and Border Protection personnel throughout the United States.
- On July 18, Radio One will interview U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) Office of Diversity and Civil Rights Assistant Director Scott Lanum with Blacks in Government National President J. David Reeves to discuss ICE's diversity and inclusiveness efforts, including the No Fear Act and Veterans outreach programs.

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- On July 20, Transportation Security Administration (TSA) expects to sign a Memorandum of Cooperation with the Portuguese Civil Aviation Authority (INAC) in Lisbon. This agreement establishes the conditions under which TSA and INAC may cooperate on matters related to aviation security, including on cooperation in civil aviation security technical visits, the exchange of information, training, development of compatible security measures, operational testing, and the provision of resources, including equipment loans and personnel exchanges.

30-60 Day Look Ahead

- On July 19, Secretary Napolitano will testify on the Department's immigration enforcement efforts before the House Judiciary Committee.
- On July 25, Secretary Napolitano will testify on the Department's counterterrorism efforts before the House Homeland Security Committee.
- On July 27, the Federal Emergency Management Agency expects to release the 2012 State Preparedness Report (SPR) tool to 56 states and territories. The SPR is an annual self-assessment of state preparedness capabilities. The Post-Katrina Emergency Management Reform Act of 2006 requires an SPR for any state/territory receiving federal preparedness assistance administered by DHS. The SPR methodology allows states and territories to measure current capabilities relevant to the capability targets they have established based upon their unique threat/hazard profile.
- In July, DHS expects to sign a Preventing and Combating Serious Crime Agreement with Singapore, Japan, Poland, and San Marino.
- In July, the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) expects to recognize the New Zealand National Cargo Security Program in accordance with the TSA National Cargo Security review process.
- In the summer, U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) plans to publish an Interim Final Rule and implement a pilot to automate filings of Form I-94 at a number of Ports of Entry (locations to be determined jointly with USCIS). I-94 departure forms and data have been used for over 20 years as a key source of information regarding immigration status. Use of the I-94 departure form and number are embedded in many verification processes and forms that Federal/State agencies and employers use to verify a non-immigrant visitor's status and eligibility for benefits or work authorization. Automation of the I-94 will improve the accuracy and timeliness of the data since it will be created in real time using the same information the officer uses for the primary inspection. In addition, CBP anticipates significant savings in data entry costs as a result of the I-94 automation program. *POTENTIAL "We Can't Wait Announcement"*

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- Congressional Distribution on July 16, Public Posting on July 18: "Implementation and Coordination of the Transportation Security Administration's (TSA) Secure Flight Program. Background: From May to October 2011, the OIG reviewed the Transportation Security Administration's (TSA) Secure Flight program to determine whether it is screening all appropriate persons and whether the processes for aircraft operators to submit passenger data and receive boarding pass instructions are timely and effective. The OIG also assessed how the program's screening processes are tested for accuracy, prioritization, and timeliness. Findings: The OIG recognizes that Secure Flight is a valuable program and has provided more consistent passenger prescreening. Recommendations: The OIG makes four recommendations to identify and eliminate system overrides, prioritize passenger data, standardize compliance, and improve communication and collaboration with partners. TSA non-concurs with two of the recommendations. Response: TSA appreciates that the OIG recognizes the significant value that the Secure Flight program adds to its layered security system and TSA continues to work to improve the effectiveness of the program. When Secure Flight identifies aircraft operators inappropriately overriding inhibited boarding results, TSA takes steps to ensure screening is performed and initiates a compliance investigation, addressing an OIG recommendation. Additionally, TSA has specific processes in place for reporting potential compliance issues and will formally document these processes, addressing an OIG recommendation.

Other Reports

- On July 16, GAO is expected to release a report titled, “Secure Communities: Criminal Alien Removals Increased but Better Technology Planning Needed.” Background: From July 2011 to July 2012, GAO conducted an audit on U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) Secure Communities to assess enforcement trends, ICE’s adherence to best practices in acquiring Secure Communities -related technology and ICE safeguards to help protect against potential civil rights abuses. To identify trends in ICE’s enforcement actions related to the Secure Communities program, the GAO reviewed alien removal data from October 2008 through March 2012 and analyzed arrest charges for aliens removed from the United States during fiscal year 2011, when ICE began collecting arrest charge data, and the first half of fiscal year 2012. The GAO also examined ICE’s policies and procedures for identifying and removing criminal aliens, and documents related to enforcement actions and detainees. Findings: GAO summarizes data related to removals attributed to Secure Communities. The draft report also describes several safeguards ICE has in place ensure protection of civil rights under Secure Communities including: the revised detainer form to report civil rights violations; training materials currently in development for state and local law enforcement and ICE officials on how to protect civil rights; statistical analysis of arrest information to identify potential civil rights abuses; and existing Department of Homeland Security complaint process (i.e., Office of Civil Rights and Civil Liberties) for addressing Secure Communities concerns. Recommendations: GAO makes three recommendations, all with which DHS concurs. GAO recommends that ICE develop well-defined requirements, an integrated master schedule that accounts for all activities for its technology contracts, and a plan for workforce changes in preparation for full technology deployment. Response: ICE appreciates GAO’s recognition of our efforts to focus on identifying potentially removable national security and public safety threats, including criminal aliens in state and local law enforcement custody. In an effort to better support the analysis of immigration status determinations under Secure Communities, ICE is currently developing a proposal to consolidate four Interoperability Response Centers into one central location and standardize processes at the central location, addressing a GAO recommendation.

V. Legal Issues

Litigation

- Rattigan v. Holder*, No. 10-5014 (D.C. Cir., July 10, 2012): On July 10, by a 2-1 majority, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit denied the Government's petition for panel rehearing. The panel majority had previously held that while the Supreme Court's decision in Navy v. Egan prohibits judicial review of decisions made by Security Division personnel about whether someone is eligible to hold a security clearance, it does not prohibit review of decisions by other employees who report security concerns. The Government sought rehearing and argued that decisions to report security concerns fall within Egan's scope because they "involve precisely the same type of predictions about risks to national security" as decisions to grant or deny a security clearance. Although the panel rejected this argument, it did limit its earlier holding. Specifically, the panel held that when asserting a reviewable retaliation claim under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 the plaintiff must demonstrate that the "reporting employee actually knew at the time of the reporting that the information he provided was actually false.” This knowingly false standard is a higher standard than the preponderance of the evidence standard that the court had previously upheld. The panel explained that the change was necessary because a preponderance of the evidence standard would allow a jury to infer pretext and find liability if an employee reported dubious or potentially irrelevant information and such a finding would conflict with Executive Order 12,968’s requirement that employees with access to classified information report “any information that raises doubts.” To avoid a chilling effect on security reporting generally, the court thus concluded that a knowingly false standard would be more appropriate. Judge Kavanaugh dissented from the majority’s decision because he believes that Egan prohibits judicial review of all predictive judgments about security risks that are made by agency personnel, regardless of job title or expertise. He also stated in his dissent that if the Government were to seek rehearing en banc he would “urge the full Court to grant it.”

Oversight and Investigations

Department of Homeland Security

Weekly Report

July 19, 2012

I. Reform, Efficiency, and Transparency

Efficiency Review (ER) Initiative

- To date, DHS has identified more than $3.9 million in cost avoidances through continued implementation of the Energy Efficiencies and Energy Management Efficiency Review initiatives as well Component-led efforts to reduce energy consumption, through such means as installing energy efficient lighting and implementing power-management settings on desktops and laptops.

II. Senior Personnel Status and News

- On July 16, Pia Carusone began serving as Assistant Secretary for Public Affairs.

III. Public Affairs

Reports

- On July 17, GAO released a report titled, “Student and Exchange Visitor Program: DHS Needs to Assess Risks and Strengthen Oversight Functions.” Background: Foreign students interested in studying in the U.S. must first be admitted to a school or university certified by the Student and Exchange Visitor Program (SEVP) before applying for a visa. U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) Homeland Security Investigations (HSI) is responsible for managing the SEVP. Specifically, SEVP certifies schools as authorized to accept foreign students in academic and vocational programs. In its audit, the GAO reviewed ICE’s fraud prevention and detection procedures and examined the extent to which ICE has identified and assessed risk in SEVP and developed and implemented policies and procedures to prevent and detect fraud during the initial school certification process and before schools begin accepting foreign students. Recommendations: The report recommends eight actions for ICE, including to: develop and implement a process to identify and assess risks in SEVP; conduct an analysis of how to allocate SEVP’s resources based on risk; consistently implement procedures for ensuring schools’ eligibility and verifying “in lieu of” letters<sup>1</sup>; establish a process to identify and address all missing school case files; and develop and implement a process to monitor state licensing and accreditation status of all SEVP-certified schools. Response: ICE has an important role overseeing the SEVP. With more than 850,000 foreign students currently enrolled in nearly 10,000 U.S. schools and universities, ICE takes very seriously its work ensuring fraud prevention and detection for the SEVP. In its report, the GAO praised ICE for its risk-based approach to overseeing the SEVP and made several recommendations for improvement. ICE has already begun addressing the GAO recommendations to further develop and implement policies that further guard against fraud and abuse.
- On July 19, GAO is expected to release a report titled, “Data Center Consolidation: Agencies Making Progress on Efforts, but Inventories and Plans Need to be Completed.” Background: GAO conducted a follow-up review to its July 2011 report regarding 24 agencies’ progress on OMB’s Federal Data Center Consolidation Initiative. GAO was asked to evaluate the extent to which the agencies updated and verified their data center inventories and plans; evaluate the extent to which agencies have adequately completed key elements of their consolidation plans; and identify agencies’ notable consolidation successes and challenges. Findings: GAO recognized that agencies continue to report significant planned data center facility reductions and cost savings. Recommendation: GAO makes one recommendation directed to DHS that component agencies implement recognized best practices when completing required program schedules and cost-benefit analyses. Response: DHS is pleased that GAO recognized that agencies, including DHS, continue to report progress in data center facility reductions and cost savings. As of June 2012, DHS has completed the consolidation of 12 legacy data centers to the DHS Enterprise Data Centers. DHS expects to avoid approximately $2.8 billion in costs due to the completed and planned migrations in the future.

Department of Homeland Security

Weekly Report

July 26, 2012

I. Reform, Efficiency, and Transparency

Efficiency Review (ER) Initiative

- As part of the DHS Efficiency Review initiative to leverage the purchasing power of the Department to acquire commonly used software licenses for DHS-wide usage, DHS recently finalized various enterprise license agreements which have achieved cost avoidances of $76 million to date.

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- On July 30, the Office of International Affairs and U.S. Customs and Border Protection expect to sign an Advanced Passenger Information (API) MOU with the Dominican Republic. The API MOU will lay the groundwork for DHS to work with the Dominican Republic to promote the sharing and analysis of advance passenger data for flights entering and departing the Dominican Republic.

Reports

- On July 25, GAO released a report titled “DHS IT Governance and Oversight.” Background: From October 2011 to June 2011, the GAO audited DHS’s new Information Technology (IT) governance process to assess the progress of its supporting policies and procedures and to determine if they followed best practices. Findings: GAO found that DHS’s IT governance framework followed Office of Management and Budget guidance and GAO’s IT Investment Management best practices for managing projects and portfolios. GAO noted that the Department’s new approach includes a greater mechanism for oversight through the inclusion of key staff in program decisions and focuses on functional portfolios to avoid duplication. Recommendations: GAO recommended that DHS finalize IT governance supporting policies and procedures, specifically those involving the Investment Review Board, investment selection and prioritization, and implement the new governance strategy by developing coordinated plans, fully defined measures to monitor implementation and mechanisms for capturing lessons learned. Response: DHS concurs with both recommendations. DHS’s new IT governance process includes a three-tiered oversight structure that defines distinct roles and responsibilities throughout the Department following OMB and GAO’s IT Investment Management best practices.

IV. Legal Issues

Rules and Regulations

- On August 9, DHS will publish the CBP Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: Extension of Border Zone in the State of New Mexico in the Federal Register. Under current DHS regulations, certain nonimmigrant Mexican nationals presenting a Border Crossing Card, or other proper immigration documentation, are not required to obtain a CBP Form I-94 (Form I-94), Arrival/Departure Record, if they remain within 25 miles of the border (75 miles in Arizona). This document proposes to amend the DHS regulations to extend the distance these visitors may travel in New Mexico without obtaining a Form I-94 from 25 miles to 55 miles. This change is intended to promote commerce and tourism in southern New Mexico, while still ensuring that sufficient safeguards are in place to prevent illegal entry to the United States.

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- From August 21 to 27, the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center will deliver the Law Enforcement Spanish Immersion Training Program pilot in Artesia, NM, focusing on introducing students from federal law enforcement agencies to mission-critical Spanish terminology. Closed press.
- Beginning August 31, DHS will offer eligible Transportation Worker Identification Credential (TWIC) holders the opportunity to replace their expiring TWICs with a three-year extended expiration date (EED) card for a reduced fee of $60.00. DHS considers the EED card equivalent to a standard TWIC and will allow port and vessel operators to accept EED cards as they accept standard TWICs.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- On August 17, OIG released a report titled, "Survey of Hazard Mitigation Planning." Background: From October 2011 to January 2012, the OIG examined FEMA's Hazard Mitigation Program to evaluate effectiveness and efficiency and determine whether a broader audit was necessary. Findings: The OIG found that FEMA has made progress implementing the hazard mitigation planning program since the passage of the Disaster Mitigation Act of 2000 and that FEMA receives high marks from mitigation grantees that rely on the program's guidance, technical assistance, and training. The OIG also determined that further audit work is not warranted at this time. Recommendations: The OIG offered two recommendations to assist FEMA with management and oversight and to improve FEMA's ability to track participants' progress and respond to states' concerns about plan reporting requirements. Response: FEMA concurs with both recommendations and has begun the process to engage in a rulemaking to consider changes to the frequency of plan updates for State Mitigation Plans. FEMA is also testing an Interim Action Measure Collection tool to begin tracking areas where identified mitigation actions have been initiated.
- On August 20, OIG released a report titled, "US-VISIT Faces Challenges in Identifying and Reporting Multiple Biographic Identities." Background: From September 2011 to March 2012, the OIG reviewed US-VISIT's internal control over biographic identities, examining whether (1) there were indications that individuals had attempted to enter the U.S. using different identities, and (2) US-VISIT had sufficient processes and procedures in place to identify individuals who attempt to use multiple biographic identities to enter the United States. Findings: The OIG found that US-VISIT faces challenges in identifying potential fraudulent use of biographic data and that while most discrepancies were likely attributable to data collection errors, there were instances where it appeared that individuals had supplied fraudulent biographic data at a port of entry. Recommendations: The OIG recommended that US-VISIT review data inconsistencies identified during the review to determine if examples of biographic fraud exist; and refer individuals who attempt to use multiple biographic identifiers to U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) for appropriate follow-up. Response: US-VISIT concurred with both recommendations and has reviewed all of the data provided by the OIG to date, and has found no instances of fraud. US-VISIT proactively reviews IDENT records to identify potential fraud by individuals attempting to enter the U.S. or obtain immigration benefits.

- On August 23, OIG released a report titled, “Efficiency and Effectiveness of TSA’s Visible Intermodal Prevention and Response Program Within Rail and Mass Transit Systems.” Background: From August to December 2011, the OIG assessed efforts by the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) to deploy Visible Intermodal Response (VIPR) teams to augment security in rail and mass transit systems. Findings: The OIG found that TSA has improved the VIPR program, but organizational, programmatic, and operational challenges remain. Recommendations: The OIG made sixteen recommendations to improve the efficiency and effectiveness of the program. Response: TSA concurs with twelve recommendations and does not concur with four recommendations concerning the length of personnel assignments and allocation of field office resources. VIPR operational plans are developed with a risk-based methodology in conjunction with local transportation security stakeholders and conducted jointly by TSA, local law enforcement, and transportation security resources.

Other Reports

- On August 23, GAO released a report titled, “Critical Infrastructure Protection: DHS Is Taking Action to Better Manage Its Chemical Security Program, but It Is Too Early to Assess Results.” Background: From February 2012 to July 2012, the GAO assessed the extent to which DHS’ Infrastructure Compliance Security Division (ISCD), which administers the implementation of the Chemical Facility Anti-Terrorism Standards (CFATS) program, has taken actions to address concerns noted in a leaked 2011 memorandum intended to highlight various challenges. Findings: The GAO found that DHS has begun to take various actions to address the issues identified in the ISCD memorandum and has developed a 94-item action plan to track its progress. GAO also found that DHS is heading in the right direction, but it is too early to tell if individual items are having their desired effect. Recommendations: The GAO makes one recommendation for DHS to explore practical opportunities to measure its performance in implementing its action plan to address human capital management, mission, and administrative challenges related to the CFATS program. Response: Since the inception of the CFATS program, more than 1,800 facilities completely removed their chemicals of interest and more than 900 other facilities have reduced their holdings of chemicals of interest to levels resulting in the facilities no longer being considered high risk. DHS has updated its Action Plan for CFATS to include developing metrics for measuring implementation of action items, including processes for periodic monitoring and indicators for corrective actions.

GAO Reports

On September 12, GAO released a report titled, "Improved Criteria Needed to Assess Eligibility and a Jurisdiction's Capability to Respond and Recover on its own." Background: The GAO analyzed federal disaster declarations from fiscal years 2004 to 2011 to determine the number of declarations, associated Disaster Relief Fund (DRF) obligations, the criteria used to recommend a declaration for public assistance (PA), cost share adjustments and the associated costs, and FEMA's administrative costs for declarations. Findings: The GAO analysis concludes that FEMA relied on an artificially low per capita damage indicator to recommend jurisdictions receive PA funding and suggests that the per capita indicator does not accurately reflect a

jurisdiction's capability to respond to or recover from a disaster without federal assistance. Recommendations: The GAO recommends that FEMA develop a methodology to more accurately assess a jurisdiction's capability to respond to and recover from a disaster without federal assistance, develop criteria for 100% cost adjustments, and implement goals for and track administrative costs. FEMA concurs with three recommendations and partially concurs with the fourth recommendation. Response: When making disaster declaration recommendations, FEMA currently considers all factors, including the per capita indicator, estimated cost of the assistance, available resources of state and local government, localized impacts, insurance coverage, and recent disaster, among other factors. FEMA will examine factors that provide a more comprehensive assessment of a jurisdiction's capability to respond to and recover from a disaster and will annually track and monitor increased costs associated with adjustments to the federal cost share using existing financial information, addressing GAO recommendations.

On September 12, GAO released a report titled, "Biosurveillance: DHS Should Reevaluate Mission Need and Alternatives before Proceeding with BioWatch Generation-3 Acquisition." Background: The GAO examined DHS acquisition data and documentation related to the BioWatch program to determine the extent to which DHS used its acquisition life cycle framework to justify the need for the program and consider alternatives; the extent to which DHS developed reliable schedule, cost and performance expectations; and what remains to be done before the Generation-3 (Gen-3) technology can be produced and deployed. Findings: The GAO found that DHS did not fully engage in the early phases of its acquisition framework to ensure that the acquisition was grounded in a justified mission need and that it pursued an optimal solution. Recommendations: The GAO offered two recommendations designed to help ensure that Gen-3's public health and risk mitigation benefits justify the cost, and that DHS bases its acquisitions decisions on reliable performance, cost, and schedule information developed in accordance with guidance and best practices. GAO recommended that before moving forward with the Gen-3 acquisition, DHS (1) re-evaluate mission need and systematically analyze alternatives based on cost-benefit and risk information; and (2) update other acquisition documents to reflect any changes that result from the reevaluation of mission needs and alternatives. DHS concurs with the two recommendations but plans to move forward with the request for proposals for Gen 3 performance testing while addressing the recommendations. Response: DHS has implemented several enhancements to significantly improve acquisition management and program execution, including Management Directive (MD) 102-01 and Acquisition Review Boards (ARB). On August 16, 2012, the Department conducted an ARB after which an Acquisition Decision Memorandum (ADM) was issued directing BioWatch to complete and Analysis of Alternatives (AOA) and a Concept of Operations, addressing a GAO recommendation to analyze alternatives to the BioWatch system based on cost-benefit and risk information.

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- By September 21, DHS expects to release a report titled Estimates of the Resident Nonimmigrant Population in the United States: 2010, providing estimates on the resident nonimmigrant population by category of admission, country of citizenship, state of destination, age and gender.
- By September 25, FEMA expects to submit to the President a set of federal interagency operational plans which address the critical tasks to be performed under the respective National Framework, meeting a requirement of Presidential Policy Directive 8 (PPD-8).
- On September 25, the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) will expand its Pre✓™ initiative, which enhances aviation security by enabling TSA to focus on a risk-based, intelligence drive approach to Washington Dulles International Airport. By learning more about travelers through information they voluntarily provide, and combining that information with TSA's multi-layered system of aviation security, TSA can better focus limited resources on higher-risk and unknown passengers while providing expedited screening for travelers who volunteer information about themselves prior to flying. In September, TSA will also expand Pre✓™ to Newark International airport.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

On September 19, the OIG released a report titled, "FEMA's Management of Corrective Actions and Lessons Learned from National Level Exercises." Background: The OIG reviewed data from National Level Exercises (NLE) conducted between October 2007 and May 2011 to determine whether FEMA is managing and tracking corrective actions and lessons learned from NLE, as well as from other exercises and disasters. Findings: The OIG found that FEMA did not consistently track and manage corrective actions from exercises.

Recommendations: The OIG offered three recommendations designed to improve FEMA's efforts to track, manage, and validate corrective actions and disseminate lessons learned. FEMA concurs with these recommendations and is taking steps to implement them, but clarifies that FEMA is not responsible for certain specific issues raised in the OIG's report. Response: Each issue identified during an NLE that requires resolution is assigned to a department, agency, or directorate with the appropriate expertise to develop, complete, and validate the corrective action. It is each department, agency, and directorate's responsibility to validate the completed corrective action. FEMA does not have the authority to require the implementation of corrective actions identified by or assigned to other Federal departments and agencies.

Other Reports

On September 18, GAO released a report titled, “Information Sharing: DHS Has Demonstrated Leadership and Progress, but Additional Actions Could Help Sustain and Strengthen Efforts.” Background: From November 2011 through September 2012, the GAO examined whether DHS has made progress since 2010 in achieving its information-sharing mission. Findings: The GAO found that DHS has made significant progress in achieving its information-sharing mission and noted that DHS has demonstrated leadership commitment through the establishment of the Information Sharing and Safeguarding Governance Board (ISSGB) which has enhanced collaboration among DHS components, identified key initiatives, and developed a process for providing key initiatives with additional oversight and support. Recommendations: GAO recommended DHS revise policies and guidance to include processes for identifying information sharing gaps, analyzing causes of gaps, and identifying, assessing, and mitigating the risks of removing initiatives from its priority list; better track and assess the progress of key information-sharing initiatives; and establish the level of capabilities programs must implement to meet the Department’s vision for 2015. DHS concurs with the GAO’s recommendations. Response: DHS has initiated an effort to draft a Department-wide Information Sharing and Safeguarding Implementation Plan, to ensure that DHS information sharing and safeguarding efforts align with the FY2012-2017 DHS Information Sharing and Safeguarding Strategy. The ISSGB has also conducted preliminary planning efforts to incorporate the GAO’s recommended changes to their tracking process and has initiated planning efforts to track development of specific capabilities that certain programs must meet to achieve the Department’s 2015 information-sharing vision.

On September 19, GAO released a report titled, “DHS Requires More Disciplined Investment Management to Help Meet Mission Needs.” Background: The GAO reviewed documentation on acquisition decisions between November 2008 and April 2012 to determine: the challenges faced by DHS major acquisition programs; DHS policies and procedures to effectively manage individual acquisition programs and the portfolio of acquisition programs as whole; and actions taken by DHS to address the high-risk acquisition management issues GAO identified in previous reports. Findings: The GAO found that nearly all DHS program managers interviewed reported their programs experienced challenges, including workforce shortfalls and funding instability. Recommendations: The GAO recommends DHS modify its policy to better reflect key program and portfolio management practices, ensure acquisition programs fully comply with DHS acquisition policy, prioritize major acquisition programs department-wide and account for anticipated resource constraints, and document prerequisites for delegating major milestone decision authority. DHS concurs with these recommendations and believes two have been satisfied. Response: Several of the concerns referenced in this GAO report occurred prior to the time period of the audit and DHS has made measurable progress since the time of the audit, including launching eight Centers of Excellence for Acquisition and Program Management, increasing program compliance with Management Directive (MD) 102-01, which provides Department-wide guidance on acquisition management, and launching a Decision Support Tool to help the Department more accurately track and assess major investment programs.

On September 20, GAO released a report titled, “Coast Guard: Portfolio Management Approach Needed to Improve Major Acquisition Outcomes.” Background: The GAO reviewed the U.S. Coast Guard’s (USCG) acquisition data and programs to determine the planned cost and schedule of USCG’s portfolio of major acquisition programs; the steps USCG has taken to develop an affordable portfolio through its requirements process; and the extent to which the USCG is using cross-directorate teams to provide oversight and inform acquisition decisions. Findings: The GAO found that approved acquisition program baselines for several programs do not reflect current cost and schedule plans. Recommendations: The GAO recommends the Commandant of the Coast Guard conduct an updated, comprehensive portfolio review to develop revised acquisition program baselines and identify the Executive Oversight Committee as the governing body to oversee acquisitions with a portfolio management approach to help ensure USCG acquires a balanced mix of assets. USCG concurs with these recommendations. Response: The Coast Guard plans to conduct a portfolio-wide review following submittal of the President’s FY 2014 budget request, expected during the second quarter of Fiscal Year 2013 and is currently in the process of revising its Acquisition Program Baselines. The Coast Guard will also identify the Executive Oversight Committee as the governing body to oversee the Coast Guard's acquisition enterprise with a portfolio management approach.

On September 21, GAO will release a report titled, "Countering Violent Extremism: Additional Actions Could Strengthen Training Efforts." Background: From October 2011 through September 2012, the GAO examined DHS's Countering Violent Extremism (CVE) Training efforts, assessing the extent to which DHS and the Department of Justice (DOJ) have identified and communicated topics that CVE-related training should address to DHS components and state and local partners; concerns raised by state and local partners who have participated in CVE-related training provided or funded by DHS or DOJ; and actions DHS and DOJ have taken to improve the quality of CVE-related training. Findings: The GAO found that DHS has made significant progress in developing and defining CVE training curriculum and noted that DHS has worked to communicate the content of CVE training to DHS components and state and local partners. The GAO had no recommendations for DHS. Response: The Department is pleased to note the report recognizes DHS's efforts to develop CVE training, communicate training topics and disseminate training guidance and best practices to help improve the quality of CVE training.

- By September 28, DHS expects to release a report titled Estimates of the Resident Nonimmigrant Population in the United States: 2010, providing estimates on the resident nonimmigrant population by category of admission, country of citizenship, state of destination, age and gender.
- On October 1, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services expects to publish a notice in the Federal Register to extend Temporary Protected Status for Haiti for an additional 18 months through July 2014.
- On October 1, in collaboration with U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement, the Office for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties expects to release a new online muster briefing titled, "Explaining Secure Communities to Your Community" with supplemental materials on Secure Communities and civil rights issues for state and local law enforcement around the country.
- On October 2, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services plans to release a Spanish-language version of its web resource I-9 Central to provide comprehensive information on using Form I-9, Employment Eligibility Verification.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

On October 10, the OIG will release a report titled, "U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services Systematic Alien Verification for Entitlements Program Issues." Background: The OIG conducted an audit of the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) Systematic Alien Verification for Entitlements (SAVE) program to determine whether USCIS had established processes to monitor user compliance with the rules of the SAVE program, enforce actions when users were noncompliant, and enable benefit applicants to request record corrections. Recommendations: The OIG made two recommendations in its report. The first recommendation, with which USCIS concurs, is to develop a process to compile and track SAVE benefit applicant requests and referral for records correction. The second recommendation, with which USCIS non-concurs, is to implement a process for SAVE database owners to report to the Verification Division whether changes to SAVE benefit applicant records were made. Response: USCIS has established processes to monitor user compliance with the policies of the SAVE program, as well as policies for follow up with users who are noncompliant with SAVE program requirements. Additionally, USCIS has already begun implementing the SAVE Case Check Initiative and a Customer Relationship Management (CRM) system which will enable SAVE benefit applicants to check the status of their case online. SAVE relies upon the database records owned by USCIS and U.S. Customs and Border Protection, and it does not have the legal authority to require database owners to report corrections to applicants' records. For this reason, USCIS non-concurs with the second OIG recommendation.

Other Reports

On September 26, GAO released a report titled, "Information Technology: DHS Needs to Enhance Management of Cost and Schedule for Major Investments." Background: Recognizing the size and significance of DHS' IT investments, GAO reviewed the extent to which DHS IT investments are meeting their cost and schedule commitments; the primary causes of any commitment shortfalls; and the adequacy of DHS' efforts to address these shortfalls and their associated causes. Findings: GAO found that 47 of 68 major IT investments were meeting cost and schedule commitments, but that the remaining 21 had one or more subsidiary projects that were not. GAO identified preliminary costs and schedule estimates that have changed; technology issues during the development phase; changes in agency priorities; lack of understanding user requirements; and dependencies on other investments that had schedule shortfalls as the primary drivers of the cost and schedule shortfalls. Recommendations: GAO recommends that DHS address these issues in its policy guidance on requiring documented corrective actions when investments experience cost or schedule variances and develop corrective actions for all major IT investments with these issues. DHS agrees with these recommendations. Response: DHS appreciates GAO's recognition that the Department is meeting cost and schedule commitments for the majority of its major IT investments. DHS is currently revising its Acquisitions Management Directive 102-01, which guides acquisition oversight regarding corrective actions for projects supporting major IT investments that experience cost and schedule shortfalls of 10% or greater.

On September 27, GAO expects to release a report titled, "Homeland Security: Agriculture Inspection Program Have Made Some Improvements but Management Challenges Persist." Background: From August 2011 through September 2012, the GAO conducted an audit of the Agriculture Quarantine Inspection (AQI) program, managed by the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) and the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA). This study is a follow-up to a 2006 GAO report that issued seven recommendations to DHS and USDA related to improving management of the AQI program. GAO examined the extent to which DHS and USDA implemented GAO's 2006 recommendations; the extent to which data on arrivals, inspections and interceptions are used for managing the program; and the extent to which the views of AQI agricultural specialists have changed since 2006. Recommendations: GAO makes six recommendations to continue to improve AQI program management. The recommendations relate to developing a joint strategic plan for the AQI program; developing a plan for implementing a staffing model; and taking further steps to improve the reliability of AQI data. DHS concurs with all recommendations. Response: The Department appreciates GAO's recognition of our efforts to improve AQI program management. U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) and USDA have reconvened the Joint Agency Task Force to continue discussions to develop a joint strategic plan, and are working together to develop an evaluation method for reporting, collecting and analyzing data to ensure programs have reliable, meaningful data. CBP is also working on an Agriculture Specialist Resource Allocation Model, which will help determine appropriate Agriculture Specialist staffing at our ports of entry.

IV. Legal Issues

Litigation

In re Electronic Privacy Information Center, No. 12-1307 (D.C. Cir.): On September 25, in a per curiam order, the D.C. Circuit denied plaintiff EPIC's petition for writ of mandamus to force DHS/TSA to publish a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NPRM) concerning its use of Advanced Imaging Technology (AIT) to screen passengers at airports. The court of appeals took notice of the Department's representation that it was in the process of finalizing the AIT rulemaking documents, and stated that it expected DHS/TSA to publish the NPRM by the end of March 2013.

Rodriguez v. Robbins, No. 07-3239 (C.D. Cal.): On September 25, the Ninth Circuit denied the government's motion to stay a preliminary injunction entered by the district court (C.D. Cal.) on September 13, 2012. The preliminary injunction requires the government to identify aliens detained within the judicial district for more than 180 days pursuant to Sections 235(b) and 236(c) of the Immigration and Naturalization Act (INA), and to provide, within 30 days of the date of the order, bond hearings before an Immigration Judge with the power to grant their release. Sections 235(b) and 236(c) of the INA require mandatory detention of certain arriving and criminal aliens during removal proceedings. The Ninth Circuit ordered the government to comply with the preliminary injunction by November 12, 2012.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

On October 3, OIG released a report titled, "Transportation Security Administration Has Taken Steps To Address the Insider Threat But Challenges Remain." Background: From September 2011 to March 2012, the OIG reviewed the Transportation Security Administration's (TSA) progress toward protecting its information systems and data from the threat posed by trusted employees. Findings: The OIG found that TSA has made progress in addressing the information technology insider threat and conducting vulnerability assessments. However, TSA can further develop its program by implementing insider threat policies and procedures for all employees. Recommendations: The OIG makes four recommendations aimed at improving and implementing TSA's insider threat program. TSA concurs with two recommendations related to the development of new policies and procedures, but does not concur with two recommendations concerning workforce awareness training and technical solutions because these activities are covered by existing measures. Response: TSA implements a risk-based strategy to address insider threat, including protective measures to detect and prevent unauthorized use of sensitive information outside TSA's network. While TSA does not concur with the OIG's recommendation to disable USB ports on desktop and laptop computers, TSA does plan to implement alternative software security solutions to mitigate insider cyber threats due to the operational need for USB ports.

On October 5, OIG will release a report titled, "CBP's Strategy to Address Illicit Cross-Border Tunnels." Background: From December 2011 to March 2012, the OIG conducted an audit to determine whether U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) has developed an operational strategy to detect and remediate illegal cross-border tunnels and has acquired sufficient tunnel detection technology. Recommendations: The report contained four recommendations aimed at improving coordination among the DHS-related counter-tunnel efforts, as well as enhancing leadership and oversight of these efforts. DHS concurs with all four recommendations. Response: CBP has worked diligently to refine operations to better detect and respond to the threats posed by cross-border tunnels. CBP is currently conducting a study to identify how CBP will address tunnel detection capabilities across the Department. DHS reviews its acquisition portfolio annually and, beginning in 2013, will include the CBP Tunnel Detection and Technology program in its review, addressing a OIG recommendation.

IV. Legal Issues

Litigation

Cuellar De Osorio v. Mayorkas and Costello v. Napolitano, Nos. 09-56786, 09-56846 (9th Cir.) (en banc). On September 26, 2012, in a 6-5 decision, the en banc court of the Ninth Circuit rejected the government's interpretation of a provision of the Child Status Protection Act (CSPA). Appellants are lawful permanent residents who filed suits challenging USCIS's denial of their requests for priority date retention for their offspring -- derivative beneficiaries of family-sponsored visas in the F3 and F4 family-sponsored visa preference categories. The derivative beneficiaries were under the age of 21 when the original petitions were filed, but turned 21 before appellants were able to immigrate or adjust status and, in the government's view, were no longer eligible for visas as "children" of the primary beneficiaries within the meaning of the Immigration and Naturalization Act. Contrary to the government's position, the Ninth Circuit held that priority date retention benefits under the CSPA apply not only to derivative beneficiaries of the F2A preference category, but also to derivative beneficiaries of other family-based visa preference categories, including the F3 and F4 categories. In so ruling, the Ninth Circuit joined the Fifth Circuit in finding the statute unambiguous, and rejected interpretations of the statute by the Second Circuit and the Board of Immigration Appeals. The government is considering whether to pursue further review in the Supreme Court.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

On October 5, OIG released a report titled, “U.S. Customs and Border Protection’s Penalty Process – Statute of Limitations.” Background: U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) is responsible for collecting revenues and enforcing trade laws, including assessing fines and penalties to deter noncompliance. From May 2011 to January 2012, the OIG conducted an audit to determine whether effective processes are in place to ensure that assessed penalties cases do not expire due to statute of limitations. Recommendations: The report includes two recommendations for CBP aimed at improving the management and oversight of the penalties process. CBP concurs with both recommendations, and the OIG considers both resolved. Response: CBP is developing an oversight plan to ensure field office compliance with CBP guidance related to penalties and penalty case management and to ensure effective processing of penalty cases.

On October 9, OIG released a report titled, “TSA Management and Oversight at Honolulu International Airport.” Background: From August 2011 to February 2012, the OIG evaluated whether the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) ensured that Transportation Security Officers complied with baggage screening procedures at Honolulu International Airport. This review came at the request of Representatives Mica and Chaffetz following a TSA investigation of improper screening allegations at the airport and assessed performance evaluations, guidance, training requirements, and use of the National Deployment Force. Recommendations: The OIG makes four recommendations aimed at developing and managing changes to security procedures that should improve airport screening operations. Although TSA concurs with the recommendations, it disagrees with OIG’s assertion that screening violations might not have occurred if TSA developed changes in screening procedures more comprehensively and fully evaluated the effects of such changes. Response: TSA’s security measures create a multi-layered system of transportation security that mitigates risk and maximizes transportation security to stay ahead of evolving terrorist threats while protecting privacy and facilitating the flow of legitimate travel and commerce. In July 2012, TSA launched a new training course designed to help supervisors establish a leadership presence while on duty as well as technical training to support security screening measures. TSA has also begun to develop and implement performance metrics to evaluate the supervision of checked baggage areas as part of supervisory performance plans- addressing OIG recommendations.

Department of Homeland Security

Weekly Report

November 1, 2012

I. Reform, Efficiency, and Transparency

Efficiency Review (ER) Initiative

- By continuing the implementation of the travel initiative and component-specific efforts, DHS Components have reduced travel expenditures by eliminating non-mission critical travel and leveraging web-base communications. This initiative has resulted in a cost avoidance of more than $13.5 million, to date.

Expected Stories

- Continued media attention on FEMA's response and recovery operations in states impacted by Hurricane Sandy is expected.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

On October 31, GAO released a report titled, "Taking Further Action to Better Determine Causes of Morale Problems Would Assist in Targeting Action Plans." Background: Using data from the Office of Personnel Management Federal Employee Viewpoint Surveys from 2004 to 2011, GAO analyzed how DHS' employee morale compared with that of other federal employees and the extent to which DHS and selected components have determined the root causes of employee morale, and developed action plans to improve morale. Findings: GAO found that DHS employees reported having lower average morale, but morale varied across components and employee groups within the department. Recommendations: GAO offered two recommendations to support DHS in assessing its efforts to address employee morale problems and determine if changes are needed to ensure DHS can meet its goals. DHS concurs with these recommendations. Response: DHS is focusing on improving employee engagement by continuing to improve employee communication and training, highlighting employee recognition, and strengthening the leadership skills of employees at every level. Earlier this year, the Secretary created an Employee Engagement Executive Steering Committee—comprised of Component leadership—that meets regularly to share best practices across the Department and identify ways to continue to improve the work environment.

GAO Reports

On November 2, GAO will release a report titled, "Evaluation of DHS' Information Security Program for Fiscal Year 2012." Background: Between April and August 2012, the OIG conducted an evaluation of the DHS' information security program and practices to comply with the requirements of the Federal Information Security Management Act (FISMA). FISMA focuses on the program management, implementation, and evaluation of the security of unclassified and national security systems. Findings: The OIG found that DHS has continued to improve and strengthen its security program and over the past year has developed and implemented the Fiscal Year 2012 Information Security Performance Plan to focus on areas of improvement throughout the year. Recommendations: The OIG offers six recommendations to the Chief Information Security Officer designed to improve information security. DHS concurs with these recommendations and has begun taking steps to implement them. Response: The DHS Fiscal Year 2013 Information Security Scorecard will utilize continuous monitoring data feeds from component and will be used to estimate gaps and ensure compliance, addressing three of the OIG's recommendations. DHS is also revising its enterprise security authorization tool with streamlined templates and controls in an effort to improve the quality of the security packages reviewed by the Information Security Officer and to ensure the required security tools and controls are completed.

Department of Homeland Security

Weekly Report

November 08, 2012

I. Reform, Efficiency, and Transparency

Efficiency Review (ER) Initiative

- To date, DHS has identified more than $10 million in cost avoidances through Component-led efforts to reduce costs through improved management of DHS facilities. For example, Components have consolidated offices, cancelled planned office expansions, and purchased, rather than leasing office space to achieve cost avoidances.

Expected Stories

- During the week of November 12, FEMA expects continued media attention on the agency's response and recovery operations in states impacted by Hurricane Sandy.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

On November 9, the OIG will release a report titled, "Personnel Security and Internal Control at TSA's Legacy Transportation Threat Assessment and Credentialing Office." Background: From January to May 2012, the OIG evaluated whether position descriptions and background investigations at the TSA's Transportation Threat Assessment and Credentialing Office (TTAC) are appropriate for employees' authority and responsibility levels, comply with Federal laws and regulations, and have adequate internal controls in place to provide oversight of personnel workplace activities. Findings: The OIG found that TSA employee background investigations met Federal adjudicative standards, but were not timely. Recommendations: The OIG makes eight recommendations aimed at improving background investigations, internal controls, staffing models, data system development coordination and to establish an independent panel for legacy TTAC employees to request review of assignments. Although TSA concurs with seven recommendations, it disagrees with OIG's recommendation to establish an independent panel through which legacy TTAC employees may request a review of desk audits and reassignments because multiple levels of controls in existing policy and procedures ensure independence and objectivity in the classification process. Response: The TTAC was established as the lead for conducting security threat assessments and credentialing initiatives for domestic passengers on public and commercial modes of transportation, industry workers, and individuals seeking access to critical infrastructure. In December 2012, TSA will begin using DHS electronic Integrated Security Management Systems to record and manage all background investigations and security clearance information to provide TSA leadership with monthly updates on the number of pending cases.

On November 13, the OIG will release a report titled, "DHS' Oversight of Interoperable Communications."

Background: In response to the 9/11 Commission Report, DHS began developing interoperable radio communications and has invested approximately $430 million to meet communications requirements. From March 2011 to March 2012, the OIG assessed whether DHS' oversight ensured achievement of Department-wide interoperable radio communications. Findings: The OIG found that DHS should take additional steps to provide effective oversight to ensure that its components achieved Department-wide interoperable radio communications. Recommendations: The OIG made two recommendations. DHS concurs with one recommendation to develop and disseminate policies and procedures to standardize Department-wide radio activities, but disagrees with the recommendation to create a structure with the necessary authority to ensure that components achieve interoperability. Response: DHS has created policies, guidance, and templates to aid in achieving interoperability for first responders and has provided assistance to state and local agencies through Federal Homeland Security grants, which have allowed them to enhance the interoperability of their emergency response systems. The Department believes that it has already established a structure with the necessary authority to ensure that its components achieve interoperability and will continue to leverage existing structures to implement and enforce policies and procedures. DHS has also directed its components to develop a departmental interoperability plan in order to standardize Department-wide radio activities.

- On November 27, U.S. Customs and Border Protection will host a ribbon-cutting ceremony for the new Ajo, AZ, Border Patrol Station. The facility was designed to meet LEED Silver Certification. Press TBD.

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- On November 15, over a half million Canadian citizens who are members of the CBP Trusted Traveler Program NEXUS will become eligible to participate in TSA Pre✓™ expedited screening. This will be the first non-U.S. citizen population participating in TSA Pre✓™, and aligns with the Beyond the Border agreement. Once participating, Canadian NEXUS members will have the same expedited screening procedures as other populations, including leaving on shoes, and leaving laptops and 3-1-1 compliant in the carry-on bag. TSA Pre✓™ remains limited to domestic flights.

- On November 27, U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) will announce the expansion of the Centers of Excellence and Expertise Program from four to ten locations. Centers of Excellence and Expertise are industry-specific offices that share information to ensure the classification and clearance of products consistently throughout the more than 300 seaport, airport and border crossing entry points into the United States. In addition, Centers of Excellence and Expertise facilitate the timely resolution of trade compliance issues nationwide and strengthen CBP's knowledge of key industry practices.

30-60 Day Look Ahead

- In November, FEMA anticipates announcing Presidential Policy Directive (PPD) 8, National Planning Frameworks. PPD-8 is designed to facilitate an integrated, all-of-nation/whole community, capabilities-based approach to preparedness. It involves federal partners, state, local and tribal leaders, the private sector, non-governmental organizations, faith based and community organizations; and the general public.
- In November, the Office of Health Affairs expects to release a public version of the National Biosurveillance Integration Center (NBIC) Strategic Plan. The plan articulates a clear approach to enhance the biosurveillance capability of the United States to deal with an array of naturally-occurring, accidental, and intentional biological threats.
- By December, the Office for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties expects to submit to Congress the CRCL Impact Assessment on DHS Support to the National Network of Fusion Centers, which examines DHS's role in supporting the National Network in accordance with a Congressional mandate set forth in the Implementing the 9/11 Commission Recommendations Act of 2007 (9/11 Act). DHS submitted the impact assessment to OMB for inter-agency clearance in August 2012.
- In the winter, pending OMB review, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) plans to publish a Final Rule to amend its regulations to allow certain immediate relatives of U.S. citizens who are physically present in the United States to request provisional unlawful presence waivers prior to departing from the United States for consular processing of their immigrant visa applications. This final rule will implement the provisional unlawful waiver process. DHS submitted the proposed final rule to OMB on November 7, 2012.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

On November 15, the OIG released a report titled, "The Visa Waiver Program". Background: From February to May 2012, the OIG conducted a review of the Department of Homeland Security's Visa Waiver Program (VWP) which allows nationals from designated participants to enter the United States and stay for up to 90 days without obtaining a visa from a U.S. embassy or consulate. The OIG examined the adequacy of processes used to determine a participant's initial designation as a VWP participant, and the continuing designation of current VWP members and how effectively the VWP office collaborates with key stakeholders. Findings: The OIG found that VWP officials maintained effective collaboration with stakeholders during the review process, but additional efforts are needed to communicate VWP compliance requirements and the criteria used to assess compliance. Recommendations: The OIG offered four recommendations to improve communication with interagency stakeholders in the VWP review process, the timely delivery of reports to Congress, and staffing and organizational issues. DHS concurs with all recommendations. Response: DHS regularly shares information regarding the VWP review process, including the statutory and policy requirements and what can be expected throughout the process, with Department of State (DOS) and embassy representatives. DHS looks forward to continuing the high level of communication and transparency with DOS and will continue to enhance such communication.

Other Reports

On November 19, the GAO will release a report titled, "Screening Partnership Program: TSA Should Issue More Guidance to Airports and Monitor Private versus Federal Screener Performance." Background: From November 2011 to November 2012, GAO examined the Transportation Security Administration's (TSA)

Screening Partnership Program (SPP), which allows commercial airports to use private screeners provided that the level of screening matches or exceeds that of federal screeners. GAO assessed TSA's reported advantages and disadvantages of participating in the SPP, the extent to which TSA has provided guidance to govern the SPP application process, and the extent to which TSA assess and monitors the performance of private and federal screeners. Findings: The GAO found that TSA has recently improved its screener performance measures, but could benefit from monitoring private versus federal screener performance. Recommendations: TSA concurs with the two recommendations GAO makes to develop guidance for airports applying for the SPP and a mechanism to monitor private versus federal screener performance. Response: TSA concurs with GAO's recommendation to develop guidance that clearly states the criteria and process TSA uses in determining SPP participation. By November 30, 2012, TSA expects to post an overview of the application process and provide details concerning the data that will be used to approve or deny an application on the TSA website, addressing GAO's recommendation.

This briefing was requested by congressional staff and will be closed press.
- On November 29, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) Director, John Morton will meet with Representative Robert Goodlatte.

V. Legal Issues

Rules and Regulations

- On November 7, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) submitted to OMB the 601 Final Rule, which seeks to amend USCIS regulations to allow certain immediate relatives of U.S. citizens who are physically present in the United States to request provisional unlawful presence waivers prior to departing from the United States for consular processing of their immigrant visa applications. This final rule will implement the provisional unlawful waiver process.
- On November 7, U.S. Customs and Border Protection submitted to OMB the Interim Final Rule regarding the definition of Form I-94 to include electronic format. I-94 departure forms and data have been used for over 20 years as a key source of information regarding immigration status. Use of the I-94 departure form and number are embedded in many verification processes and forms that Federal/State agencies and employers use to verify a non-immigrant visitor's status and eligibility for benefits or work authorization. Automation of the I-94 will improve the accuracy and timeliness of the data since it will be created in real time using the same information the officer uses for the primary inspection. In addition, CBP anticipates significant savings in data entry costs as a result of the I-94 automation program.
- On November 9, Transportation Security Administration (TSA) submitted to OMB the Advanced Imaging Technology (AIT) Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NPRM.) On November 16, TSA and DHS Office of General Counsel will brief OIG regarding this rule. The NPRM will revise TSA civil aviation security regulations to clarify that TSA may use AIT to screen individuals at security screening checkpoints. TSA is issuing this rule to comply with a decision of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit, which ordered TSA to engage in notice-and-comment rulemaking on the use of AIT for screening. The Court decided that TSA should provide notice and invite comments on the use of AIT technology for primary screening.

Oversight and Investigations

- During the week of November 12, DHS intends to make another production of documents in response to a request by Chairman Darrell Issa and Senator Chuck Grassley relating to their investigation of the Department's role in Operation Fast and Furious.
- DHS continues to work on responses to requests on the following topics: spending on conferences, the Department's role in Operation Fast and Furious, the behavior of certain Secret Service Agents in Colombia, and the performance of the BioWatch program.

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- By December 3, industry must screen 100 percent of international inbound air cargo using risk based protocols. Achieving 100 percent screening of all inbound air cargo carried on passenger aircraft will fulfill a requirement of the 9/11 Commission Act and further strengthen global supply chain security.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

On December 5, the OIG will release a report titled, “Improvements Needed for SAVE To Accurately Determine Immigration Status of Individuals Ordered Deported.” Background: From April to October 2012, the OIG audited the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) Systematic Verification for Entitlements (SAVE) program to determine the accuracy of information used to validate an applicant’s lawful status when the applicant has been ordered deported. Recommendations: The OIG made four recommendations related to improving the accuracy of the SAVE program, all with which USCIS concurs. The first two recommendations relate to individuals who have been ordered deported but who have remained in the United States. The second two recommendations relate to internal evaluation of the SAVE program verification procedures to ensure accuracy. Response: The SAVE Program is designed to provide timely immigration status information to authorized agencies to help maintain the integrity of their programs. It promotes the use of automated systems to enhance interagency collaboration, customer service, efficiency, and information privacy. USCIS is working with U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement to improve the timeliness and accuracy of immigration status data by ensuring their respective immigrant status databases are updated and reconciled regularly. USCIS continuously evaluates the accuracy of the SAVE verification process and will continue to improve its evaluation procedure.

GAO Reports

On November 26, the GAO released a report titled, “Supply Chain Security: CBP Needs to Conduct Regular Assessments of Its Cargo Targeting System.” Background: From October 2011 to October 2012, the GAO conducted an assessment of how the Automated Targeting System (ATS) was used to support U.S. Customs and Border Protection’s (CBP) targeting of maritime cargo container shipments for national security purposes and the extent to which CBP assesses the effectiveness of ATS’s national security targeting rules. Recommendations: The report includes two recommendations for CBP to ensure that future updates to the rules that determine risk-based shipment criteria are based on how well they characterize the shipment as well as CBP's establishment of performance measure targets to regularly assess effectiveness of the rules. CBP concurs with both recommendations. Response: In January 2012, DHS released the National Strategy for Global Supply Chain Security, which outlines clear goals to promote the efficient and secure movement of goods and foster a resilient supply chain system. Although there have been no known incidents of cargo containers being used to smuggle or transport terrorist weapons, ensuring the security of cargo containers is an important priority for CBP. CBP continues working to improve the methodology used to update performance measures of risk-based shipment criteria and will continue to update risk-based shipment criteria on the basis of current threats or actionable intelligence.

The story will appear in the January issue of the organization's monthly newsletter (date TBD).

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- On December 20, DHS anticipates submitting to the Federal Register a final rule that, reduces the time U.S. citizens are separated from their immediate relatives (spouse, children and parents), who are in the process of obtaining visas to become lawful permanent residents of the United States under certain circumstances. The final rule establishes a process that allows certain individuals to apply for a provisional unlawful presence waiver before they depart the United States to attend immigrant visa interviews in their countries of origin.
- During the week of December 31, the DHS Office of Academic Engagement in conjunction with the Federal Emergency Management Agency and U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement Student Exchange Visitor Program expect to announce the launch of the Campus Resilience Pilot Program, which will engage the higher education community in the development of more resilient campuses and communities.
- In late December/early January, U.S. Customs and Border Protection expects to announce their FY 2012 year-end review, which will include statistics and data related to apprehensions and seizures of drug, contraband and currency.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

On December 18, the OIG released its report, "TSA's National Deployment Force – FY 2012 Follow-Up."

Background: From January to April 2012, the OIG conducted a follow up review of the Transportation Security Administration's (TSA) National Deployment Force (NDF), which supports airport screening operations during emergencies, seasonal demands, severe weather conditions, or increased passenger activity that requires additional screening personnel above those normally available at airports. The OIG examined operating costs and procedures, deployments, and implementation of previous recommendations. Findings: The OIG found that TSA has developed a financial system to track and document program-related costs while establishing processes to determine criteria and priority for deployment decisions. Recommendations: TSA concurs with the six recommendations from the OIG aimed at minimizing hiring shortfalls, maintaining equipment certifications, and developing alternative hiring assessments. Response: Following the initial standup of a "mobile screening force" in November 2002, TSA has taken a number of steps to develop a dedicated and effective workforce to protect the nation's transportation networks.

Outreach/Stakeholder Meetings

- Between December 21 and 31, 18.2 million people are expected to travel for the Holidays. TSA and CBP have surged staffing to expedite screening and ensure the safety of holiday travelers by monitoring staffing levels and balancing work schedules, gathering passenger load data and flight schedules where available from air carriers while matching capacity to demand and maximizing efficiency on all functional lanes and checked baggage zones. Additional holiday travel measures include updates to targeting and container screening programs, representation in joint task forces, personnel surges at transit locations, and support to special security events.

III. Legislative Issues

Legislative Issues

- On December 14, H.R. 2838, the Coast Guard and Maritime Transportation Act of 2012, was presented to the President. Of note, the bill requires DHS to change the enrollment/issuance/renewal process for the Transportation Worker Identification Credential so that only one in-person visit to an enrollment center is needed. DHS recommended approval of the bill.
- On December 14, S. 3542, the No-Hassle Flying Act of 2012, was presented to the President. This bill authorizes the TSA Administrator to determine whether checked baggage on a flight or flight segment originating at an airport outside the United States must be re-screened in the United States for explosives before it can continue on any additional flight or flight segment, if the baggage has already been screened in the foreign airport in accordance with an aviation security preclearance agreement. DHS recommended approval of the bill.
- On December 14, S. 1998, the DHS Audit Requirement Target Act of 2012 (or DART Act), was presented to the President on 12/14. The bill requires DHS to obtain an unqualified audit opinion on the full set of financial statements. Until DHS is able to do so, it must submit an annual report to Congress that addresses how it will achieve that requirement and how it will modernize its financial management systems. DHS recommended approval of the bill.
- On December 17, H.R. 6223, Clarifying Naturalization Requirements for Afghan and Iraqi Translators, passed the Senate. It has not been presented to the President yet. The bill clarifies that a period of time spent abroad due to qualifying types of employment for the Chief of Mission or the United States military be counted toward the continuous residence period and treated as physical presence in the U.S. for the purposes of naturalization. DHS will recommend approval of this bill.
- On December 20, the House is scheduled to vote on S. 3331, Intercountry Adoption Universal Accreditation Act of 2012, which passed the Senate earlier this month. If the House passes the Senate version (as expected) it will be ready for the President. S. 3331 originated as a State Department proposal intended to extend the protection provided by accreditation and oversight of adoption service providers established in the Intercountry Adoption Act of 2000. As currently in effect, the protections in the Act apply only to Hague Convention adoptions. This bill would extend accreditation requirements to the adoption of children abroad regardless of whether the Convention applies.

Legislative Issues

- On December 28, H.R. 6670, the Former Presidents Protection Act of 2012 passed the Senate, following passage in the House on December 15. The bill authorizes the U.S. Secret Service (USSS) to provide lifetime protection to former Presidents and their spouses. Under a 1994 law, such protection ended 10 years after a President left office. The USSS supported this bill, and DHS will recommend approval.
- On January 1, H.R. 2076, the Investigative Assistance for Violent Crimes Act of 2012 (as amended by the Senate) passed the House. The bill authorizes the Secretary to deploy U.S. Secret Service and U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement agents at the request of State law enforcement officials to assist in the investigation of violent acts and shootings in places of public use, and in the investigation of mass killings and attempted mass killings. DHS will recommend approval of the bill.
- On January 1, H.R. 6328, the Clothe a Homeless Hero Act (as amended by the Senate), passed the House. The bill requires the Transportation Security Administration to make reasonable efforts to work with the Department of Veterans Affairs to transfer unclaimed clothing left at checkpoints to the local airport authorities, so that the airport authorities can donate it to veterans' organizations or similar charities. DHS will recommend approval of this bill.
- On January 1, S. 3677, the Technical Correction to the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 – passed the House after clearing the Senate on December 12. The bill makes a technical correction to the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973, and should have no impact on the administration of the Act. DHS will recommend approval of the bill.
- On January 1, S. J. Res. 44, the Congressional Consent to the State and Province Emergency Management Assistance Memorandum of Understanding, passed the House. The resolution will enhance emergency preparedness and response among member states and provinces through a process for collaborative planning, training, and preparedness exercises. In addition, in anticipation of emergency personnel deployment across both State and international borders, the legislation addresses issues of tort liability, workers compensation, licensure and reimbursement. DHS will recommend approval of this bill.

Weekly Report

January 10, 2013

I. Reform, Efficiency, and Transparency

Efficiency Review (ER) Initiative

- To date, DHS Components have avoided costs of $18 million by disconnecting wireless devices that were no longer being used and improving management of wireless communication services.

Expected Stories

- On January 11, GovInfoSecurity will interview National Protection and Programs Directorate Deputy Under Secretary for Cybersecurity Mark Weatherford for a podcast discussion on DHS' role in cybersecurity as well as cyber workforce development. Release date TBD.
- On January 11, Science & Technology Directorate Cyber Security Division Director Douglas Maughan will be interviewed by Telecommunications Reports about the Transition to Practice (TTP) Technology Demonstration Day event held on January 9. The TTP program works to identify emerging cybersecurity technologies that were developed with federal funding and help them transition into products capable of broad utilization.
- On January 11, Science & Technology Directorate SAFETY Act Program Director Bruce Davidson will be interviewed by Investigative Newsource about the SAFETY Act application and certification process. The SAFETY Act provides incentives for the development and deployment of effective anti-terrorism technologies through systems of risk and litigation management.

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- Effective January 25, U.S. Customs and Border Protection is closing the port of entry of Whitetail, MT. The primary reason for the closure was the Canada Border Services Agency's closure of its adjacent port of entry of Big Beaver, Saskatchewan, on April 1, 2011. Other factors considered were the limited usage of the port; the locations of alternative ports of entry of Raymond and Scobey, MT; and an analysis of the net benefit of the port closure, including the cost of necessary renovations were the port to remain open.
- On January 30 (tentative), U.S. Customs and Border Protection will open the Boquillas port of entry. The official crossing will provide access to Boquillas, Coahuila, as well as the protected areas of Maderas del Carmen, Ocampo and Cañon de Santa Elena in Mexico. Pedestrians will be able to access the port between 8 a.m. – 5 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday. No vehicles will be allowed to cross. Individuals entering Mexico from the U.S. who expect to cross back into the U.S. via the Boquillas crossing will be required to have a Western Hemisphere Travel Initiative approved document. Security for the port and the surrounding area will be provided by U.S. National Park Service rangers and U.S. Border Patrol agents.
- In January, the Science and Technology Directorate will make the Board Armor® Backboard Cover and FIRST-Bomb Response smartphone application available on the Federal Emergency Management Agency's Preparedness Grants Authorized Equipment List. Backboard covers provide critical protections to both patients and emergency medical services personnel by providing a barrier between the patient and the potentially contaminated board. The FIRST-Bomb Response app provides authorized first responders the information necessary to safely control incident locations, such as stand-off distances, rough damage and injury contours, nearby areas of concern (e.g., schools, daycare centers, etc.), and suggested roadblocks that could help isolate an incident.

GAO Reports

On January 9, the GAO released a report titled, "Border Patrol: Key Elements of New Strategic Plan Not Yet in Place to Inform Border Security Status and Resource Needs." Background: From June 2011 to November 2012, the GAO examined apprehension data collected by the Border Patrol related to changes in border security for the Southwest border and the Tucson sector; how the Tucson sector compares to other sectors with regard to resource allocations; and the extent to which the Border Patrol has identified mechanisms to assess resource needs under its new strategic plan. Recommendations: The GAO made two recommendations related to establishing timelines for developing performance measures that assess the security of the border between ports of entry (POEs.) CBP concurs with both recommendations. Response: Over the last four years, DHS has dedicated historic levels of personnel, technology, and resources to the Southwest border. The Border Patrol is better staffed today than at any time in its 88-year history, having doubled the number of agents from approximately 10,000 in 2004 to more than 21,000 today. Since 2004, the number of “boots on the ground” along the Southwest border has increased by 94 percent to nearly 18,500 Border Patrol Agents today. CBP is currently implementing its 2012-2016 Border Patrol Strategic Plan by establishing processes for managing and measuring risk and is developing performance measures linked to the Plan, addressing a GAO recommendation.

GAO Reports

On January 24, the GAO will release a report titled, “Federal Facility Security: Greater Outreach by DHS on Standards and Management Practices Could Benefit Agencies.” Background: From November 2011 to January 2013, the GAO assessed physical security programs at executive branch agencies with facilities that the Federal Protective Service (FPS) does not protect. GAO examined the sources that inform agencies’ physical security programs and the management practices agencies use to oversee physical security and allocate resources. Findings: The GAO found that agencies use a range of management practices to oversee physical security activities. However, GAO also found that the Interagency Security Committee (ISC) that distributes best-practice information related to physical security programs across the government lacks standards that address management practices for allocating resources across an agency’s entire portfolio of facilities. Recommendations: DHS concurs with both of the GAO’s recommendations to conduct outreach to executive branch agencies to clarify how its standards are to be used and examine agencies’ use of management practices to enhance resource allocation. Response: While the Interagency Security Committee (ISC) currently does not formally monitor agencies’ compliance with ISC standards, it does hold regular meetings with member agencies to develop an understanding of whether or how standards are used. To build on its current outreach efforts, DHS will review current programs to determine the best way these can be expanded with current funding and clarify how the standards can be used in concert with agencies’ existing physical security programs in accordance with Executive Order 12977. The ISC will develop guidelines to help agencies make the most

- On February 25, the Office of International Affairs expects to sign a Joint Statement to Combat Trafficking in Persons, Joint Statement on Global Supply Chain Security and Joint Statement of Intent to Establish a Regional Cargo Targeting Center with Colombia.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

On February 7, the OIG will release a report titled, "United States Customs and Border Protection's Radiation Portal Monitors at Seaports." Background: From April to November 2012, the OIG conducted an audit of Domestic Nuclear Detection Office (DNDO) and U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) to determine whether DNDO and CBP deploy and use radiation portal monitors (RPMs) to ensure the most efficient cargo screening at seaports. The Security and Accountability for Every Port Act of 2006 requires that all containers entering the U.S. at the 22 ports through which the greatest container volume enters the country must be screened for radiation. CPB screens incoming shipments for elevated radiation levels using large-scale radiation detectors called RPMs. Recommendations: The OIG made three recommendations aimed at improving the overall effectiveness and cohesion of the Radiation Portal Monitoring Program at seaports, all with which DNDO and CBP concur. Response: The Radiation Portal Monitoring Program is integral to CBP's mission to interdict illicit radioactive and nuclear materials and to prevent their entry into the United States. CBP and DNDO are currently developing a 2013 program execution plan to document current RPM deployment projects on the basis of priorities and a long-term program execution plan to further refine roles and responsibilities for the RPM program, addressing an OIG recommendation.

On February 15, the OIG will release a report titled, "TSA's Aviation Channeling Services Provider Project." Background: In April 2012, OIG conducted an audit of recent contractual arrangements for vetting services under TSA's Aviation Channeling Services Provider (ACSP) Project. OIG's objective was to determine whether TSA's ACSP Project selected vendors according to Federal policies and procedures and effectively planned for the implementation of new services. ACSP was initiated in response to concern that airports and airlines should be able to choose vendors for relaying information used to issue airport security badges. TSA's efforts were aimed at improving the process for commercial airports, airlines, and general aviation airports. Findings: The OIG found that TSA did not properly implement the project and, as a result, airports nationwide experienced difficulties causing a backlog in background checks for airport employees. To address the backlog, TSA instituted alternative procedures including temporarily allowing airports to issue badges without the required background checks. Recommendations: TSA concurs with all four recommendations from the OIG and is committed to addressing the issues identified in the report. Response: As noted by OIG, TSA properly selected vendors for the ACSP Project according to Federal policies and procedures. TSA initiated the ACSP Project at the request of commercial airport operators, air carriers, and general aviation airports to diversify the possible providers that conduct background checks. When a backlog of background checks negatively impacted airport operations, TSA implemented alternative procedures until the backlog was cleared to ensure continuity for airports and air carrier.

Other Reports

On January 31, the GAO released a report titled, "Performance Measures and Comprehensive Funding Data Could Enhance Management of National Capital Region Preparedness Resources." Background: From April 2012 to January 2013, the GAO reviewed the status of FEMA's efforts in the National Capital Region (NCR) to enhance capabilities to prepare for, protect from, and respond to major hazards, and specifically the extent to which FEMA has assisted regional officials in establishing performance measures and identifying federal funding available to prioritize preparedness investments in the NCR. Recommendations: The GAO recommends that the FEMA Office of National Capital Region Coordination (NCRC) assist regional offices in the NCR in developing measures to help regional preparedness officials better assess the implementation of the region's strategic plan and collect comprehensive information on federal preparedness grant funding in the region. FEMA concurs with these recommendations. Response: FEMA agrees that the use of performance metrics is necessary for assessing overall preparedness for the NCR and notes that FEMA NCRC currently works in tandem with the NCR to identify activities that will enhance the preparedness of the NCR, including the establishment of performance measures to assess these efforts. FEMA has taken important steps to establish a preparedness baseline for assessing future preparedness through the State Preparedness Report (SPR) methodology, including determining the effectiveness of grants in improving preparedness.

On February 10, the GAO will release a report titled, "Cybersecurity National Strategy, Roles, and Responsibilities." Background: From April to December 2012, the GAO assessed the Department of Homeland Security's (DHS) efforts to implement a strategic approach to cybersecurity and adhere to a national cybersecurity strategy. Although no recommendations were made to DHS, GAO did highlight the significant progress DHS has made in executing its cybersecurity mission in its report. Response: In October 2012, DHS updated the operational structure of the National Protection and Programs Directorate (NPPD) Office of Cybersecurity and Communications (CS&C) to bring communications and cybersecurity programs together under a single point of operational coordination. In November 2011, DHS released the Blueprint for a Secure Cyber Future: The Cybersecurity Strategy for the Homeland Security Enterprise, which calls for a coordinated effort across the homeland security community to protect the Nation's critical information infrastructure and build a safer and more secure cyber ecosystem, addressing a previous GAO recommendation. As a result of the progress the Department has made in information sharing and analysis, GAO closed each of the ten recommendations under its Cyber Analysis and Warning report while the NCCIC provided GAO with all documentation requested to close the remaining recommendations under GAO's report titled Key Private and Public Cyber Expectations Need to Be Consistently Addressed.

VI. 30-60 Day Look-Ahead

- In February, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) will roll out a two-phase overhaul of e-Request. The look and feel of the tool will significantly improve so that it is easier to use and more customer friendly. After the rollout, USCIS will improve the functionality of the online tool by adding new types of nondelivery requests.
- In February, DHS expects to issue a signed policy statement declaring the agency's position against discrimination on any protected basis. The FY13 DHS Equal Employment Opportunity Policy Statement includes the prohibited basis of "gender identity" for the first time.
- By February, DHS expects to release an Annual Strategic Assessment regarding the coordination efforts of the Federal departments and agencies to advance continuity of operations in interoperable emergency communications.
- In February, the Office of the Ombudsman's Office expects to study implementation of "Revised Guidance for the Referral of Cases and Issuance of Notices to Appear (NTAs) in Cases involving Inadmissible and Removable Aliens," which focuses NTA issuance on cases with public safety threats, criminals and aliens engaged in fraud.
- In February, DHS expects to publish the Prison Rape Elimination Act Final Rule. This rule is prepared to fulfill requirements of the May 17, 2012 Presidential Memorandum directing all agencies with Federal confinement facilities to propose rules and procedures under the Prison Rape Elimination Act of 2003 and the Violence Against Women Reauthorization Act.
- In February, U.S. Customs and Border Protection will announce that the Kingdom of Jordan will participate in the Container Security Initiative. Non-intrusive inspection and radiation detection technology will be used to screen high-risk containers at the Port of Aqaba before they are shipped to the United States. Publication date is pending.
- By February, the Federal Emergency Management Agency expects to release the 2012 Tribal Policy Implementation Plan to comply with President Obama's Memorandum on Tribal Consultation that directs each federal department and agency to develop a detailed plan of action for complete and consistent implementation of Executive Order 13175.
- By February, DHS expects to consolidate the Federal Emergency Management Agency's Section 504 implementing regulations into one unified regulation for the Department, and to promulgate regulations implementing Section 504 for the Department's federally assisted programs.
- In late February, U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) is scheduled to begin testing Phase II of the U.S./Canadian truck cargo pre-inspection pilot program at the Peace Bridge in Buffalo, NY. A formal launch event is currently being planned for late February/early March. Under the pilot, CBP Officers will operate in Canada and pre-inspect cargo bound for the United States, thus expediting the flow of legitimate trade. Phase II will test the ability of the pre-inspection process to reduce wait times and border congestion. On February 7, Senator Schumer's office announced that the pilot will commence on February 24; however, CBP has not set a firm date as implementation is dependent upon completion of a Memorandum of Agreement with Canadian stakeholder agencies.
- In March, the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) expects to publish in the Federal Register a Notice of Proposed Rule Making (NPRM) on Security Training Programs for Surface Mode Employees as required by the Implementing Recommendations of the 9/11 Commission Act of 2007. This rule would apply to freight railroad carriers, public transportation agencies (including rail mass transit and bus systems), passenger railroad carriers, and over-the-road bus owner/operators. TSA also proposes to clarify and amend sensitive security information (SSI) protections to cover certain information associated with surface transportation.
- In March, the Transportation Security Administration expects to provide National Cargo Security Program (NCSP) recognition to Israel. The program involves a thorough examination of supply chain security components and related requirements that constitute a country's NCSP. These actions are taken to determine whether the subject NCSP provides a level of security commensurate with current U.S. air cargo security requirements.

- By the end of March, the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) expects to release a Request for Proposal and award a contract for the Credential Authentication Technology for approximately 12 units intended for developmental and operational testing against TSA's system requirements to assess suitability and effectiveness in checkpoint operations.

Department of Homeland Security

Weekly Report

February 21, 2013

I. Reform, Efficiency, and Transparency

Efficiency Review (ER) Initiative

- To date, DHS has identified $16 million in cost avoidances through Component-led efforts to streamline and eliminate duplication in their mission-support processes.

Expected Stories

- From February 15 through 22, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services will conduct special Presidents Day naturalization ceremonies across the nation. There will be 17 ceremonies with over 2100 individuals to be naturalized. Open press.

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- On February 26, the Office for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties expects to submit to Congress the CRCL Impact Assessment on DHS Support to the National Network of Fusion Centers, which examines DHS's role in supporting the National Network in accordance with a Congressional mandate set forth in the Implementing the 9/11 Commission Recommendations Act of 2007 (9/11 Act).

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

On February 25, the OIG will release a report titled, "DHS Can Make Improvements to Secure Industrial Control Systems." Background: From May to November 2012, the OIG assessed whether DHS effectively conducts vulnerability and malware analysis while coordinating threat information sharing and response to security incidents related to control systems. The Department's Industrial Control Systems Cyber Emergency Response Team (ICS-CERT) has been working with critical infrastructure owners and operators to provide situational awareness and analytical support to effectively manage risks to their computers and networks.

Findings: The OIG found that ICS-CERT has made significant progress in increasing the timeliness of actionable mitigation information, but further improvements can be made to consolidate the multiple information sharing communities of interest and provide advance notification of vulnerability assessments.

Recommendations: The Department concurs with the OIG's two recommendations to streamline cyber threat information sharing with stakeholders while promoting collaboration among public and private sector partners to address and mitigate potential security threats. Response: Protecting critical infrastructure against growing and evolving cyber threats requires a layered approach. DHS actively collaborates with public and private sector partners every day to respond to and coordinate mitigation in the face of attempted disruptions to the Nation's critical cyber and communications networks and to reduce adverse impacts on critical network systems. To ensure cyber threat information is shared effectively, including through the Homeland Security Information Network, DHS is working to enhance the information sharing environment to accommodate additional communities of interest while tailoring information so it is relevant to stakeholder groups.

Other Reports

On February 14, GAO released a report titled, "Registered Sex Offenders: Sharing More Information Will Enable Agencies to Improve Notifications of Sex Offenders' International Travel" Background: The GAO conducted an audit to review to what extent have federal agencies notified foreign officials about registered sex offenders traveling internationally as well as how the relevant agencies coordinate and notify one another.

Three federal agencies – U.S. Marshals, U.S. National Central Bureau (USNCB) and U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) – use information from state, local and territorial jurisdictions, as well as air and sea passenger data from the U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP), to determine whether registered sex offenders are traveling outside the United States. The federal agencies then use this information to alert their foreign government counterparts of the sex offenders' travel. Recommendations: The GAO made two recommendations aimed at enhancing coordination between ICE and other relevant law enforcement entities, including recommending ICE request to receive notifications from the FBI automated system. DHS concurs with both recommendations. Response: DHS is pleased to note GAO's recognition of the work ICE is doing in conjunction with foreign counterparts to help inform public safety decisions regarding registered sex offenders' international travel. ICE is committed to ensuring that all necessary and useful information regarding traveling registered sex offenders is transmitted to all relevant law enforcement entities.

III. Legal

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

On February 25, the OIG released its report titled, "FEMA's Use of Risk-based Monitoring for Grantee Oversight." Background: Between May and October 2012, the OIG reviewed FEMA Assistance to Firefighters Grants (AFG) and Transportation Infrastructure Security Branch Grants awarded directly to local fire stations, port facilities, and transit systems as a follow up to a previous audit concerning FEMA's use of risk indicators in selecting grants to monitor. In FY 2013, FEMA combined programmatic and financial monitoring into an integrated plan and revised its risk indicators to better reflect grantees' inherent risks. Recommendations: Prior to implementation of FEMA's revised grant monitoring plans, the OIG offered three recommendations to improve FEMA's identification and application of risk-based indicators to grantee oversight. FEMA concurs with two of the recommendations. Response: Given that there are over 20,000 open grant awards and limited assets available to audit each award, FEMA assesses a sample of grants utilizing 11 key indicators to identify issues or concerns that require an enhanced level of monitoring rather than applying financial monitoring key risk indicators to all grantees, as recommended by the OIG. The AFG Program Office has expanded access to AFG grant information to the regional Fire Program Specialists to ensure they have the ability to view payment requests by grantees, addressing an OIG recommendation.

VI. 30-60 Day Look-Ahead

- The week of March 18, U.S. Customs and Border Protection will announce the automation of the Form I-94 Arrival/Departure Record to streamline the admissions process for individuals lawfully visiting the United States. Form I-94 provides international visitors evidence they have been lawfully admitted to the U.S. which is necessary to verify alien registration, immigration status, and employment authorization. The automation means that visitors will no longer need to fill out a paper form when arriving to the U.S. by air or sea, improving procedures and reducing costs. The change will go into effect in 30 days.
- In March, the Office of Policy expects to release a report titled U.S. Legal Permanent Residents 2012, providing information on the number and characteristics of persons who became legal permanent residents during fiscal year 2012.
- In March, the Office of Policy expects to release a report titled U.S. Naturalization 2012, providing information on the number and characteristics of foreign nationals aged 18 years and over who were naturalized during fiscal year 2012.
- In March, pending OMB clearance, the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) plans to issue a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NPRM) that will propose to revise its civil aviation security regulations to clarify that TSA may use advanced imaging technology (AIT) to screen individuals at security screening checkpoints. TSA is issuing this rule to comply with a decision of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit, which ordered TSA to engage in notice-and-comment rulemaking on the use of AIT for screening. The Court decided that TSA should provide notice and invite comments on the use of AIT technology for primary screening. This rule would codify the use of AIT for screening of airline passengers.

- In March, DHS will issue a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking to require owners and operators of certain vessels and facilities regulated by the Coast Guard under 33 CFR Chapter I, subchapter H, to use electronic readers designed to work with the Transportation Worker Identification Credential (TWIC) as an access control measure. This NPRM also proposes additional requirements associated with electronic TWIC readers, including recordkeeping requirements for those owners and operators required to use an electronic TWIC reader, and security plan amendments to incorporate TWIC requirements. Applicants provide biographic information and fingerprints, and must successfully pass the Transportation Security Administration's security threat assessment in order to obtain a TWIC. While the existing security benefits of the TWIC program are significant, electronic TWIC readers are expected to enhance the security of ports and vessels. The TWIC card is designed to contain several enhanced security features that can only be utilized through the use of an electronic TWIC reader. This was cleared by OIRA on March 12.
- By the end of March, TSA will expand TSA Pre✓™ to five additional airports – Austin, Cleveland, Memphis, Nashville, and Raleigh-Durham. With these airports, TSA Pre✓™ will be available in 40 airports for select passengers traveling on Alaska Airlines, American Airlines, Delta Air Lines, United Airlines and US Airways. To date, more than 6 million passengers have experienced TSA Pre✓™ which allows passengers to leave on their shoes, light outerwear and belt, keep their laptop in its case, and their 3-1-1 compliant liquids/gels bag in a carry-on.
- By the end of March, members of the military will be eligible to access TSA Pre✓™ expedited screening at Ronald Reagan Washington National, Seattle-Tacoma International, Charlotte Douglas International, Washington Dulles International, Honolulu, Hartsfield–Jackson Atlanta International, Denver International, and Baltimore Washington International Airports. To date, more than 220,000 members of the military have experienced TSA Pre✓™ which allows passengers to leave on their shoes, light outerwear and belt, keep their laptop in its case, and their 3-1-1 compliant liquids/gels bag in a carry-on.

Department of Homeland Security Weekly Cabinet Report

March 21, 2013

I. Department/Agency Priorities

Expected Stories

- During the week of March 25, DHS expects to see press stories on Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals denials, operational and privacy issues regarding unmanned aerial systems, Enhanced Cybersecurity Services, the Border Condition Index and continuing coverage on sequestration impacts.

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- During the week of March 25, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services expect to publish a Notice in the Federal Register announcing the extension of Temporary Protected Status for Honduras and Nicaragua.
- On March 21, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services plans to announce the automatic extension of Employment Authorization Documents for Liberian nationals covered under Deferred Enforced Departure (DED) through September 30, 2013. This automatic extension follows the President's decision to extend the DED through September 30, 2014.
- On March 21, the Office of Policy expects to release a report titled U.S. Legal Permanent Residents 2012, providing information on the number and characteristics of persons who became legal permanent residents during fiscal year 2012.
- On March 21, the Office of Policy expects to release a report titled U.S. Naturalization 2012, providing information on the number and characteristics of foreign nationals aged 18 years and over who were naturalized during fiscal year 2012.
- On March 22, pending OMB clearance, the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) plans to issue a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NPRM) that will revise its civil aviation security regulations to clarify that TSA may use advanced imaging technology (AIT) to screen individuals at security screening checkpoints. TSA is issuing this rule to comply with a decision of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit, which ordered TSA to engage in notice-and-comment rulemaking on the use of AIT for screening. The Court decided that TSA should provide notice and invite comments on the use of AIT technology for primary screening. This rule would codify the use of AIT for screening of airline passengers.
- On March 22, U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) plans to publish a rule and implement a pilot to automate filings of Form I-94 at a number of Ports of Entry (locations to be determined jointly with USCIS). I-94 departure forms and data have been used for over 20 years as a key source of information regarding immigration status. Use of the I-94 departure form and number are embedded in many verification processes and forms that Federal/State agencies and employers use to verify a non-immigrant visitor's status and eligibility for benefits or work authorization. Automation of the I-94 will improve the accuracy and timeliness of the data since it will be created in real time using the same information the officer uses for the primary inspection. In addition, CBP anticipates significant savings in data entry costs as a result of the I-94 automation program.

VI. 30-60 Day Look-Ahead

- In the winter, the Coast Guard expects to publish the 2014 Great Lakes Pilotage Rates final rule. This rule would implement rate adjustments for pilotage services on the Great Lakes, which were last amended in February 2013. The proposed adjustments would establish new base rates and are made in accordance with a full ratemaking procedure. Rates must be established or reviewed each year, no later than March 1.
- In March, DHS expects to release an Annual Strategic Assessment regarding the coordination efforts of the Federal departments and agencies to advance continuity of operations in interoperable emergency communications.
- In March, DHS is expected to submit a report to the Attorney General regarding its FOIA production as an agency and as individual components covering the period from October 1, 2012 to September 30, 2013.

- In March, DHS expects to consolidate FEMA's Section 504 implementing regulations into one unified regulation for the Department, and to promulgate regulations implementing Section 504 for the Department's federally assisted programs.
- In March, TSA expects to provide National Cargo Security Program (NCSP) recognition to Israel. The program involves a thorough examination of supply chain security components and related requirements that constitute a country's NCSP. These actions are taken to determine whether the subject NCSP provides a level of security commensurate with current U.S. air cargo security requirements.
- In March, DHS will submit to CEQ the DHS Climate Action Plan, which will help implement the vision laid out in The Administration's Climate Action Plan in the area of climate preparedness.
- In March, DHS expects to release the second Quadrennial Homeland Security Review report.
- In March, the Department of Homeland Security expects to release a report titled U.S. Naturalizations: 2013. The report presents information on the number and characteristics of foreign nationals aged 18 years and over who were naturalized during FY 2012.
- In March, the Department of Homeland Security expects to release a report titled U.S. Legal Permanent Residents: 2013. The report presents information obtained from applications for LPR status on the number and characteristics of persons who became LPRs in the United States during 2012.
- In March, DHS expects to release the DHS Resilience Implementation Strategy to Congress. The Strategy was called for in a 2012 GAO Report to implement the draft DHS Resilience Policy.
- In April, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) plans to propose to amend its regulations to extend eligibility for employment authorization to H-4 dependent spouses of principal H-1B nonimmigrants who have begun the process of seeking lawful permanent resident status through employment and have extended their authorized period of admission or "stay" in the United States under section 104(c) or 106(a) of Public Law 106-313, also known as the American Competitiveness in the Twenty-First Century Act of 2000 (AC21). Allowing the eligible class of H-4 dependent spouses to work encourages professionals with high-demand skills to remain in the country and help spur innovation and growth of U.S. businesses.
- In April, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) will propose to amend its regulations affecting high-skilled workers within the nonimmigrant classifications for specialty occupation professionals from Chile and Singapore (H-1B1) and from Australia (E-3), to include these classifications in the list of classes of aliens authorized for employment incident to status with a specific employer, to extend automatic employment authorization extensions with pending extension of stay requests, and to update filing procedures. USCIS will also propose to amend regulations regarding continued employment authorization for nonimmigrant workers in the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands (CNMI)-only Transitional Worker (CW-1) classification. Finally, USCIS will propose amendments related to the immigration classification for employment-based first preference (EB-1) outstanding professors or researchers to allow the submission of comparable evidence. These changes will encourage and facilitate the employment and retention of these high-skilled workers.
- In April, DHS expects to issue a signed policy statement declaring the agency's position against discrimination on any protected basis. The FY13 DHS EEO Policy Statement includes the prohibited basis of "gender identity" for the first time.
- In April, the Office of the Ombudsman's Office expects to study implementation of "Revised Guidance for the Referral of Cases and Issuance of Notices to Appear (NTAs) in Cases involving Inadmissible and Removable Aliens," which focuses NTA issuance on cases with public safety threats, criminals and aliens engaged in fraud.
- In April, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) plans to implement new guidance that will consolidate and clarify policy with respect to the L-1B nonimmigrant classification.
- In April, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) plans to implement guidance regarding the divorce and death exceptions and removal of the residency requirements for an abused spouse or child of a qualifying Cuban principal.
- In April, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) plans to implement guidance that an adopted child who has been abused by the adoptive parent or household family member is no longer required to present evidence that he or she has been in the custody of, and resided with, the adoptive parent for at least two years.

- In April, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) plans to implement guidance regarding direct sibling-to-sibling DNA tests for purposes of establishing a sibling relationship. Direct sibling-to-sibling DNA testing is given no evidentiary weight. DNA test results comparing each purported sibling to the claimed common parent, however, will be evaluated according to current policy relating to DNA test results for parent-child relationships.
- In April, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) plans to implement guidance on the evaluation of claims of “extraordinary circumstances” for late filings pursuant to the Child Status Protection Act (CSPA). A 2012 Board of Immigration Appeals precedent decision provided limited guidance regarding what may constitute extraordinary circumstances. This policy will provide additional interpretive guidance for determining whether extraordinary circumstances allow USCIS to excuse the one year filing requirement on a case-by-case basis.
- In May, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) plans to publish the Professional Conduct Rule, outlining standards and grounds for disciplinary actions that apply to private practitioners such as attorneys and non-attorney representatives who are authorized to represent an applicant or petitioner for immigration purposes.
- In May, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) plans to publish the T Nonimmigrant Status Regulation based on comments on a related 2002 interim rule. This regulation will clarify requirements, amend provisions as required by legislation, and outline discretionary changes made based on comments or operations experience.
- In the spring, the Coast Guard expects to publish the Changes to the Inland Navigation Rules final rule (FR). This rule amends the inland navigation rules and their annexes in 33 CFR parts 83 through 88 to align the regulations with amendments made by the International Maritime Organization to the Convention on the International Regulations for Preventing Collisions at Sea, to which the U.S. is a signatory. This rule harmonizes domestic and international law by reducing and alleviating equipment requirements on vessels, addressing technological advances, and increasing public awareness of the inland navigation rules.
- In the spring, the Science & Technology Directorate expects to complete FINDER demonstrations, which use low-power microwave radar to detect the small movements from breathing and the heartbeat of a buried victim, even when the signal must pass through several meters of building debris and rubble.
- In the spring or summer, DHS expects to announce with Canada an agreement to cover preclearance operations in the land, marine, and rail modes, as well as updates to the existing U.S.-Canada Air Preclearance Agreement, per the Beyond the Border Action Plan.

Office of Inspector General (OIG) Reports

- On April 2, OIG released a report titled, "Effectiveness of the Infrastructure Security Compliance Division's Management Practices to Implement the Chemical Facility Anti-Terrorism Standards Program." Background: From May to October 2012, the OIG assessed DHS' efforts to implement the Chemical Facility Anti-Terrorism Standards from inception until the end of Fiscal Year (FY) 2012. Findings: The OIG found that program progress has been slowed by inadequate tools, poorly executed processes, and insufficient feedback on facility submissions. In addition, program oversight had been limited while absence of appropriate metrics led to misunderstandings of program processes. Although the OIG was unable to substantiate claims of retaliation or suppression of nonconforming opinions, the OIG found that the Infrastructure Security Compliance Division (ISCD) work environment cultivates this perception. Recommendations: The OIG makes 24 recommendations to correct these issues and attain intended program results and outcomes. ISCD concurred with 19 recommendations, partially concurred with 1 recommendation, and did not concur with 4 recommendations. The OIG notes that 23 of 24 recommendations are “open and resolved,” which means the OIG agreed with our proposed approach to address their recommendation. Response: Over the past year, NPPD has worked diligently to turn a corner and has addressed many of the program’s challenges while continually evaluating the program to identify areas for improvement and correcting course when necessary to ensure proper and efficient implementation. NPPD has already taken actions to close many of the OIG’s recommendations including updating the hiring process to fill gaps in required skill sets and experience, developing and implementing an effective basic inspector training course, and revising the criteria for scheduling compliance inspections. In addition, DHS completed the Infrastructure Security Compliance Division Action Plan in 2011, which laid out specific steps to improve the CFATS program. However, the Action Plan was not taken into account in the OIG Report. As of March 1, 2013, 88 (93%) of the 95 action items have been completed.

GAO Reports

- On April 9, the GAO released its third annual report “Actions Needed to Reduce Fragmentation, Overlap, and Duplication and Achieve Other Financial Benefits.” DHS is working to fully address all GAO recommendations and continues to implement a variety of initiatives to cut costs, share resources across Components, and consolidate and streamline operations wherever possible. Through the Department-wide, employee driven Efficiency Review (ER), which began in 2009, as well as other cost-saving initiatives, DHS has identified over $4 billion in cost avoidances and reductions, and redeployed those funds to mission-critical initiatives across the Department. To date, DHS ER has launched 46 initiatives designed to streamline operations and change the way DHS does business. Specifically, the DHS ER has led to significant progress in the areas of physical assets, personnel, and day-to-day expenditures. In 2012, DHS earned a qualified audit opinion on all financial statements, a historic first for the agency. This full-scope audit opinion is a result of DHS's ongoing commitment to instituting sound financial management practices to safeguard taxpayer dollars and represents significant progress in prudent financial management.

USCIS will also propose to amend regulations regarding continued employment authorization for nonimmigrant workers in the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands (CNMI)-only Transitional Worker (CW-1) classification. Finally, USCIS will propose amendments related to the immigration classification for employment-based first preference (EB-1) outstanding professors or researchers to allow the submission of comparable evidence. These changes will encourage and facilitate the employment and retention of these high-skilled workers.
- By June 30, DHS expects to release to the White House a DHS Policy on Climate Change Adaptation as part of the deliverables under the Executive Order on Climate Preparedness.
- In the spring, the Science & Technology Directorate expects to complete FINDER demonstrations, which use low-power microwave radar to detect the small movements from breathing and the heartbeat of a buried victim, even when the signal must pass through several meters of building debris and rubble.
- In the spring or summer, DHS expects to announce with Canada an agreement to cover preclearance operations in the land, marine, and rail modes, as well as updates to the existing U.S.-Canada Air Preclearance Agreement, per the Beyond the Border Action Plan.

Department of Homeland Security Weekly Cabinet Report

May 2, 2013

I. Department/Agency Priorities

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- Beginning on May 6, TSA Pre✓™ participants will be eligible for expedited screening benefits on select international travel itineraries. Eligible passengers flying internationally from the United States out of participating TSA Pre✓™ airports may receive expedited screening. Additionally, eligible passengers with connecting domestic flights who have arrived in the United States on an international flight may use the TSA Pre✓™ lanes when going through the screening process at participating airports after being cleared by U.S. Customs and Border Protection.
- On May 6, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) will launch its Customer Identify Verification Project, which uses US-VISIT's Secondary Inspections Tool to verify the identity of applicants appearing for an interview at local USCIS field offices. This project is aimed at increasing security and reducing identity fraud.
- On May 6, FEMA expects to announce the National Preparedness System's National Planning Frameworks. The National Preparedness System is designed to facilitate an integrated, all-of-nation/whole community, capabilities-based approach to preparedness. It involves federal partners, state, local and tribal leaders, the private sector, non-governmental organizations, faith based and community organizations; and the general public.
- On May 7, U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) will transition from a paper I-94 form to an electronic I-94 form at select airports. I-94 departure forms and data have been used for over 20 years as a key source of information regarding immigration status. Use of the I-94 departure form and number are embedded in many verification processes and forms that Federal/State agencies and employers use to verify a non-immigrant visitor's status and eligibility for benefits or work authorization. Automation of the I-94 will improve the accuracy and timeliness of the data since it will be created in real time using the same information the officer uses for the primary inspection. In addition, CBP anticipates significant savings in data entry costs as a result of the I-94 automation program.
- On May 7, U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) and the Vancouver Airport Authority will hold a joint ribbon cutting ceremony and press event to announce the start of the Automated Passport Control pilot at the CBP preclearance facility in Vancouver, British Columbia. The Automated Passport Control pilot program will enable U.S. citizens to complete administrative portions of the inspection process via kiosk prior to being interviewed by a CBP officer. The voluntary program will streamline the inspection process, decrease wait times, and allow CBP officers to focus on conducting passenger interviews. Open press.
- On May 7, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services will host a stakeholder teleconference to discuss the revised Form I-9, Employment Eligibility Verification. Beginning May 7, all employers are required to use the most recent version of the Form I-9, which includes new fields, reformatting to reduce errors, and clearer instructions to both employees and employers. Closed press.

II. Items of Note

Efficiency Review (ER) Initiative

- Through Component-led efforts and DHS Efficiency review initiatives to optimize fleet management through such changes as “right-sizing” fleet inventory and transitioning to hybrid vehicles, DHS has identified more than $93 million in cost avoidances through 2015.

FEMA Disaster Declarations and Public Assistance

- As of April 30, President Obama has signed 296 major disaster declarations and 63 emergency declarations and obligated over $25 billion in assistance for individuals, local and state governments and nonprofit organizations.

E-Verify Update

- As of April 27, 447,737 employers are registered for E-Verify, representing more than 1.3 million hiring sites. Thus far in FY 2013, over 13 million queries have been run through the system.

III. Legal

GAO reports

On April 26, the GAO released a report titled, “Clarifying the Application of Guidance for Common Operational Picture Development Would Strengthen Program.” Background: The GAO analyzed the U.S. Coast Guard’s (USCG) development of Common Operational Picture (COP)-related systems to determine the extent to which USCG has made information included in the COP available to users, and any challenges it had encountered in implementing COP-related systems. The COP is a map-based information system shared among USCG’s commands which displays vessels, information about those vessels, and the environment surrounding them on digital maps in an effort to increase maritime domain awareness. The GAO additionally sought to determine whether the USCG followed its approved information technology development guidance when developing new technology related to the system. Findings: The GAO found that USCG has made significant progress increasing the information in the COP and increasing user and decision maker access to the information. However, the GAO found that USCG did not follow its own technology guidance document during its initial development of Coast Guard One View, its new planned COP viewer, in 2012.

Recommendations: The GAO recommends that USCG clarify the application of the System Develop Life Cycle Practice Manual (SLDC) for the development of future technology projects. The USCG has acknowledged past problems and plans to complete the required SDLC documents. Response: The U.S. Coast Guard is pleased to note GAO’s recognition of the progress USCG has made to develop a complex information-sharing network to help secure the Nation’s maritime transportation system. The USCG Chief Information Officer will issue guidance related to the applicability of the SDLC process to mitigate risks of implementation challenges and maximize the potential contribution of future technology development for the COP.

Department of Homeland Security Weekly Cabinet Report

May 9, 2013

I. Department/Agency Priorities

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- During the week of May 13, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) will launch its Customer Identify Verification Project, which will use US-VISIT's Secondary Inspections Tool to verify the identity of customers appearing for an interview at local USCIS field offices. This project is aimed at increasing security and reducing identity fraud.
- On May 14, U.S. Customs and Border Protection will continue its transition from paper I-94 forms to electronic I-94 forms with implementation at select major air and seaports. Use of the I-94 departure form and number are embedded in many verification processes and forms that Federal/State agencies and employers use to verify a non-immigrant visitor's status and eligibility for benefits or work authorization. Automation of the I-94 will improve the accuracy and timeliness of the data since it will be created in real time using the same information the officer uses for the primary inspection. In addition, CBP anticipates significant savings in data entry costs as a result of the I-94 automation program.
- On May 18, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services will move payment of the USCIS Immigrant Fee from pay.gov to USCIS Electronic Immigration System (ELIS). Immigrants completing their immigrant visa interviews overseas through the Department of State must pay the USCIS Immigrant Fee before departing for the United States
- On May 17, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services will release its monthly data report on Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals.
- On May 20, FEMA External Affairs expects to issue a press release announcing the FY 2013 preparedness grant funding opportunities.

Outreach/Stakeholder Meetings

- During the week of May 13, DHS Component leadership will participate in several events for National Police Week, including:

I. Department/Agency Priorities

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- During the week of May 20, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services is expected to announce closing of the Honduras Field Office at the U.S. Embassy in Tegucigalpa, Honduras.
- On May 20, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) will move payment of the USCIS Immigrant Fee from pay.gov to USCIS Electronic Immigration System. Immigrants completing their immigrant visa interviews overseas through the Department of State will pay the USCIS Immigrant Fee before departing for the United States.
- On May 20, FEMA plans to issue stakeholder advisory notifications announcing the Public Assistance Alternative Procedures Pilot for Permanent Work. The Sandy Recovery Improvement Act of 2013 authorizes alternative procedures for the Public Assistance Program, for both debris removal and permanent restoration of damaged facilities to include providing grants on the basis of estimates. The goals of the alternative procedures are to reduce the costs of providing Public Assistance, increase flexibility, expedite the provision of assistance to applicants, and provide financial incentives for timely and cost effective completion of work. Public Assistance applicants including state, local, tribal, territorial, and non-profit applicants can opt to participate in the pilot program for work following a future disaster or on projects from previous disasters not yet initiated.
- On May 21, FEMA will release Funding Opportunity Announcements for the FY 2013 Homeland Security preparedness grants, including allocations for the State Homeland Security Grant Program, Urban Area Security Initiative, and Emergence Management Performance Grants. ### II. Department/Agency Priorities

Upcoming Policy Initiatives or Announcements

- On July 19, the Transportation Security Administration will announce that it will add a new process allowing more U.S. citizens to enroll in TSA Pre✓™, an expedited screening program that allows pre-approved airline travelers to leave on their shoes, light outerwear and belt, keep their laptop in its case and compliant liquids/gels bag in a carry-on in select screening lanes. Starting later this year, U.S. citizens will be able to apply online and visit an enrollment site to provide identification and fingerprints. TSA will start the program at two initial enrollment sites — Washington Dulles International Airport and Indianapolis International Airport — with plans to expand to additional enrollment sites nationwide.

- From July 15 to 25, the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center will support the “Vetted Unit Financial Investigative Training” international program conducted by the Internal Revenue Service Criminal Investigation at its Glynco, GA facility. Representatives and students from Colombia will attend. Closed press.
- On July 22, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services is expected to expand its E-Verify information-sharing program (called RIDE) with Idaho’s Department of Motor Vehicles. RIDE is designed to prevent fraud and enhance system integrity by sharing information with state DMVs. Mississippi and Florida are currently participating in RIDE.
- On July 28, U.S. Customs and Border Protection’s Office of Field Operations will begin the automation of the General Declaration CBP Form 7507, a form submitted by the airline which collects information about the flight routing, numbers of passengers, and other information, in the airport environment. Automation of this form will create efficiencies for both CBP and air carriers by reducing paperwork and creating electronic records of arrivals currently performed on paper. The pilot will launch at test sites in Houston, TX, and Atlanta, GA. In August 2013, the system will be implemented nationwide.
